ation was read by Rev. E. H. Shanks, pastor of the First Baptist church, followed by an eloquent prayer by Rev. J. J. Evans of the First Christian church. A fine address was given by Rev. DeYoe, new pastor of Leslie M. E. church, who, at the close read a poem, "Gratitude," by an unidentified local writer. Rev. C. C. Poling of the First Evangelical church, pronounced the benediction. Augmenting the congregational singing, a vocal solo, "Little Road Through Nazareth," was beautifully sung by Miss Naomi Phelps with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Guy Fitch Phelps.

Wetjen Tells Stories—
Albert Richard Wetjen, prominent Oregon author, has succeeded in selling two stories, "The Fog," and "Pound for Pound," to the Saturday Evening Post, probably the second from the top notch manuscript market in America, as far as rate per word is concerned. Both stories were sold to the Post within the past few weeks.

Births Are Reported—
Three births were reported Friday at the office of the city health officer. To Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Yarnell of Stayton was born a son November 14, and they have named him Leonard Lavern. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gamble of 350 South Fifteenth received a son November 25, not named in the report. A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Barr of Estacada November 19, has been named Harold.

Mrs. Jackson to Speak—
Mrs. C. S. Jackson, wife of the editor of the Oregon Journal of Portland, is scheduled to address the Salem Rotarians at their weekly luncheon Wednesday noon. She has just returned from a trip to the far north, and will have as her topic, "Iceland." She is bringing with her Santa Claus and his two reindeers, Dunder and Blitzen, so that he might see the children of Salem and size them up for the coming Christmas. The reindeer will be on exhibition Wednesday afternoon. Children are invited to address their letters to Santa to the Salem Rotary club.

Claims Settlement Ordered—
Ladd & Bush, as executor of the Chester F. Lansing estate, late prominent Salem nursery man, has been authorized under an order in probate to compromise claims against the estate for nursery stock that, it is held, Lansing did not deliver during his lifetime. The executor, under the order, is also empowered to sell bonds amounting to $1500. Claimants looking for readjustment of the estate include Ben Rosenau, E. N. Gillam, Martha Jane Johnson, H. G. Black, I. F. Yoakum, J. M. Farley, J. N. Conn, and Peter Helger-son.

Cheese Stolen From Amity—
The Marion Creamery company's cheese factory at Amity was broken into Friday night and 1000 pounds of triplet and loaf cheese were stolen. The company is a Salem concern. Most of the cheese was already for shipment. The thieves, who are thought to be the same ones who have made a specialty of creamery robberies in the Willamette valley this year, gained entrance to the factory by breaking the padlock on the door. All of the cheese that was stolen is marked with the "Marion" brand. The company is insured to cover the loss, having taken out insurance against theft when creamery robberies became common in the valley.

Company Ready to Start—
The Western Paper Converting company, one of Salem's newest industries of large scope, is expecting to have its plant on North Front in operation by December 10, according to word received from officers of the company. It is expected that a heating plant will reach completion by the end of this week, after which a few of the machines now installed will be put into action. No quantity production has yet been attempted by the company although several sample moist proof envelopes have been produced.

Council to Be Formed—
The forming of a permanent health council for Salem is the purpose of the meeting called for Monday evening in the auditorium of the Salem Chamber of Commerce. At a recent meeting of those interested in such a project, the Monday meeting was called, and temporary officers were elected. T. M. Hicks was elected temporary president, and C. E. Wilson, temporary secretary. Permanent officers are to be elected Monday night. All of the churches, service clubs, social organizations of all kinds, and institutions in Salem are urged to send delegates to the meeting.

County Taxes Not to Increase—
County Judge J. T. Hunt declared Saturday that the taxes of the county are to be no higher this year than last, although it is said that the state taxes will be. He declared that the county budget for the coming year, to be finally passed upon by the budget committee on December 31, will not be a cent over that of the past year. The budget must be advertised twice before the final budget committee meeting, the last advertisement to appear ten days before the final meeting. As County Superintendent of Schools Mary Fulkerson, has to have her budget in by December 1, all school districts that did not submit their census rolls by yesterday, will not get in on the division of county school funds.

Seeks Damages—
Robert E. Keyes, who runs the Yellow Taxi Cab service in Salem, has filed suit in circuit court for damages amounting to $1286.47, alleged to be coming to him because the defendants, Troy D. Wood and R. Hurst, who sold him the business, misrepresented it to him, claiming each of the two cabs gross $7 a day while in reality they gross but $4. They also declared, he claims that they would not use the stand at the Bligh hotel, but that they have done so, and that the company was free from incumbrances, while he finds Frank Bligh had a lien on one of the cabs.

Inspector Coming—
The Salem YMCA's new home under construction on Court street between Cottage and Church streets will be inspected Monday by D. R. Shotwell, of the National YMCA architectural bureau. Mr. Shotwell is making an extensive tour through Pacific coast cities, and is coming from California, where he has been inspecting YMCA buildings including those in Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and San Francisco.

DUTCH HARBOR IS NOW A DEAD CITY

Once International Outpost Is Now Resting on Glory of Other Days

SEATTLE.—Dutch Harbor, in the Aleutian Islands of Alaska, once a military rendezvous of four nations, is like a dead city. Before the fur treaty among the United States, England, Russia and Japan was consummated in 1911, Dutch Harbor was an outpost of intrigue. In 1893, when seal poaching was at its peak, America maintained five cutters and four gunboats there, while the British had three gunboats, the Japanese and Russians several war vessels.

Daring poachers roamed the seas, and raids were common. Probably the best known of the early pirates was Alec MacLean, the Wolf Larsen of Jack London's "Sea Wolf." His last trip to the Arctic was made on the schooner Comançita, a vessel masquerading under forged Mexican papers. One of his best known exploits was when he eluded a pursuing cutter and anchored two barrels of seal skins to a buoy. Later he returned and picked them up.

In 1911, all governments involved in the seal industries, agreed to handle the killings themselves. Guards were stationed at the rookeries and sealing-at-sea was made unlawful. This treaty was drawn to run 15 years. The pact is expected to be renewed next year, although British Columbia sealers are opposed.

At present the entire patrol is carried on by four American coast guard cutters, whose greatest duties lie in administering relief to northern residents. Justice and food stuffs are dispensed by these guardians of the north, while poachers are of minor importance. Meanwhile Dutch Harbor, nestled among the island mountains, slumbers, dreaming of a glamorous past.

DAWN IS NEW STUDY HOUR

BERKELEY, Cal.—Students at the University of California are forsaking the midnight oil for the daylight dawn. The latest time for preparing for lessons here is from 4 a. m. to 7 a. m. A girl student, discovering the efficiency of studying just before approaching classes rather than at night after returning from social functions, started the new scheme.

THE McCALLISTER FUNERAL SERVICES

Late Waldo Hills Resident Followed to Long Home By a Large Crowd

The funeral of the late Mrs. W. B. McCallister of Pratum, held at 1:30 yesterday afternoon at the Rigdon mortuary, was well attended, by both Salem people and the neighbors from the Pratum district.

Rev. W. C. Kantner conducted the services, paying a fine tribute to the daughter, sister, wife, mother, grandmother who had lived a life of service and devotion and Christian virtue. Mrs. Hinges sang beautifully. The pall bearers were neighbors, Charles Rice, Dan Yates, Joe Ramseyer, Claude Ramsden, Alfred Kemp and Will Kissing. The long funeral procession then wended its way to the Waldo Hills cemetery, where the body was laid to rest, near the graves of many of the pioneers of that neighborhood. Deceased was born close by, lived out her long and useful career there, and it was appropriate that she should rest close by.
