

BAPTIST REVIVALS PROGRESSING WELL

Music and Strong Messages
Mark Meetings, With Good Attendance

Revival meetings continue at the First Baptist church all this week. The pastor will preach each evening, except Saturday.

Fred G. Fisher will have charge of the music. There have been a great many re-consecrations of life to God, new confessions of Christ as Saviour, and family altars erected as a result of the meetings to date.

For two weeks Dr. Bryant of Corvallis was the preacher. This week the pastor will resume the duties of preacher and will give special messages each evening. Last evening he preached on the Gospel of Salvation. He said:

"The good news is a revelation of the grace of God to fallen man through a Mediator, Jesus Christ. It is a wise, holy and gracious constitution of God by which He makes provision for redemption and recovery of fallen man from the state in which he finds himself because of sin. There is a strange power manifested here, in which God lifts men out of sin, and gives victory over evil. The glory of it is that all who believe may have this blessing."

The large chorus choir sings each evening, and special numbers are prepared for group singing.

Solos are sung at each service by Mr. Fisher, who has a fine tenor-baritone voice under perfect control and expression.

His numbers on Sunday were especially fine. Sunday night an echo choir rendered a charming effect to the special number by the choir. Last evening the ladies Bible class sponsored the services and this evening the Young Married People's class will be in charge. Tomorrow evening the Baraca-Philatheas, and Thursday evening the Count-On-Me class. Friday evening is to be a great young people's evening, with a special message for the young folks.

School, Keeps Big Audience Laughing

WENDLING, Or., Nov. 30.—(Special to The Statesman.)—A speech by Donald Smith, blind son of "Four-L Smith," was the outstanding event on the program of the second annual father and son banquet given here recently.

Donald Smith, blind boy from the state school at Salem, was the sensation of the evening. He gave jokes after joke to bring laughter to his audience, then gave the tongue-twisting story of the "House That Jack Built."

Although blind seven years, he appeared the superior of boys his age with no handicap.

Wandering orchestra, consisting of Miss Hikebier, Harold Taylor, Rollie Roach and Harvey Neilson, gave music during intermissions. Rev. C. S. Mains, Wendling pastor, gave blessing. Dean Hohgatt, Eugene Bible university school of music, led the father and sons in the finest "pep" services they have ever had.

Mr. Blakeley, 52-year-old father and Elgin, his 41-year-old son, won prize for oldest father and son. Mr. Blakeley and his five sons' ages total 334 years.

Now most wise people are buying them early.
