Bridge Tea at Club House Successful

The reception rooms of the Salem Woman's club-house were as charming as a salon on Tuesday afternoon when the entire space was devoted to tables for many of Salem's most prominent bridge players. Tapestry davenport, bridge lamps, tall burning tapers and potted plants and ferns transformed the hall into a drawing room. The attractive pieces of furniture were loaned by the Giese-Powers Furniture company. Credit for the pleasing decorative arrangements is due Mrs. Harry J. Wiedmer, Mrs. O. E. Price, Mrs. C. K. Spaulding and Mrs. Roy Burton.

The president of the club, Mrs. William Fordyce Fargo, and the chairman of the successful affair and the assistant chairman, Mrs. Homer Goulet, George A. White, received the guests at the door.

Mrs. Edwin L. Baker was the recipient of the afternoon's highest honor, while the second place was taken by Mrs. George R. Vehrs.

An additional group of guests were entertained at the tea hour. Presiding at the tea table, lovely with its Christmas appointments, were Mrs. John H. Albert and Mrs. C. P. Bishop. Those who assisted in the serving were Mrs. John L. Rand, Mrs. C. H. Robertson, Mrs. Frank Myers, Mrs. Walter L. Spaulding, Mrs. William Bell, Mrs. Curtis Cross, Mrs. Ralph Cooley, Mrs. E. E. Bragg, Mrs. P. A. Elker, Mrs. Rheta Luper, Mrs. E. E. Link, Mrs. A. L. Wallace, Mrs. Roy Mills and Mrs. Hal-D. Patton.

Playing at the tables were Mrs. E. M. Page, Mrs. W. L. Phillips, Mrs. Ralph Glover, Miss Zoe Stockton, Mrs. E. T. Smith, Mrs. John E. Brophy, Mrs. Karl B. Kugel, Mrs. G. C. Bellinger, Mrs. W. J. Miss Paden Is Featured

Miss Hazel Paden, head of the art department at the Salem high school, has the distinction of having a group of six original designs which she has made featured in the December number of the national art magazine, "Design," published in Syracuse, N. Y. Miss Paden, who is an artist of unusual talent, has made the idealized human figure the basic motif in her decorative work. A page and a half is devoted to attractive specimens of Miss Paden's individual designs.

First Congregational Church Women to Meet

The women of the First Congregational church will hold their missionary meeting at the home of Mrs. W. C. Kantner Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. An interesting program has been prepared. Rev. Martin Fereshetian will give an address, "The Clash of Civilization."

Boxes of useful things to be sent to Stauffer school, to Star academy, in the homeland, and to Ryder hospital at Porto Rico, are being prepared. Gifts of toys, garments for women or children, and materials that can be used in any way are asked for by the committee in charge of this work.

Members having contributions for these boxes are asked to bring them to Friday's meeting.

Hostesses assisting Mrs. Kautner are Mrs. W. E. Wilson, Mrs. F. E. Neer and Mrs. Elmer Reitz.

Members of the chapter will be interested to know that the case at the state house in which interesting relics of the Revolutionary period will be preserved is now in readiness. The members are asked to bring relics and curios they may want to display to the meeting on Saturday.

Mrs. James G. Walker, Jr., of Portland, state president of the Children of the American Revolution, will be the honor guest at this time.

Miss Marvin to Entertain

Miss Cornelia Marvin has invited members of the modern thought section of the Salem Arts League to be her guests on Sunday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at her home at Eola.

Writers Observe Authors' Week

The members of the Writers' section of the Salem Arts League observed Authors' Week at the regular meeting of the group which was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Blanche M. Jones on South Church street.

Special attention was called to volumes issued by members of the club. Important among these is "The Book of the Bardens," a first book of poetry by Professor Morton E. Peck. A second interesting volume is the brochure, "Stevenson in Monterey" by Viola Price Franklin, which lovers of Stevenson will find a delightful gift. Mrs. Franklin has dedicated her artistic booklet, which has been placed on sale in the local book stores, to Ina Coolbrith, poet laureate of California. Attention was also called to the official anthology of the Northwest Poetry society in which a number of local poets are represented.

The program, proper on Tuesday evening opened with a children's story by Miss Marie Roberts, entitled, "The I Don't Want to Land." Mrs. F. G. Franklin read the personal sketch she has written concerning Harry Noyes Pratt. Professor Morton E. Peck read "The Last Call Forth," one of the poems in his exceedingly worthy volume, "The Book of the Bardens." Edna Garfield read an acoustic poem dedicated to the War Mothers. Mrs. J. C. Nelson contributed a prose sketch, which aroused considerable discussion, on "Coming of Age." Charles J. Lisle read a vivid poem, "The Storm," while Mrs. J. M. Clifford presented a nature poem. Ruth Fargo read the second story in an interesting series of seven which she is planning for the club to bear. Mrs. Blanche M. Jones, the hostess, complied with the requests of her guests and read various of her poems.

The next meeting of the section will be a Christmas party at which Gertrude Robison Ross and Mrs. Byron F. Brank will be hostesses on December 15 at Mrs. Brank's home.

Mrs. J. A. Churchill and Mr. and Mrs. Merle Smith were special guests of the section at this meeting.

Members present in addition to those who read were Miss Grace Elisabeth Smith, Professor F. G. Franklin, Mrs. Morton E. Peck, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Paulus, Mrs. C. J. Lisle, Mrs. C. A. Kells, and Otto J. Paulus.

The Foundation

IN many an American city today tall structures stand on foundations that were planned by their architects to support the weight of extra stories if the future's needs should call for such additions. Their very existence is proof of the vision of men who provided for that which they could not definitely foresee.

Similarly capable of meeting the future's needs was the foundation upon which the Bell System has been reared. At a time when a few miles was the greatest distance over which man's wire-borne voice might travel, the telephone pioneers could not, of course, foresee in detail the problems of invention, manufacture, construction and operation which future expansion might involve.

They could, however, and did catch the vision of a national growth which would necessitate a service continent-wide in scope. They could and did provide the foundation for a structure capable of growing with the nation. The proof of their vision lies in the fact that America today has a nation-wide, universal telephone service.
