Body of Venerated Practitioner Sent to California for Burial

Dr. Morris P. Mendelsohn, prominent Salem optometrist, died Saturday morning at 7:45 o'clock at his home, 1450 Center street. Death was due to an attack of heart disease that came upon him suddenly Wednesday morning. Dr. Mendelsohn was 68 years of age and was born in Germany.

Dr. M. Mendelsohn

He came to the United States 48 years ago and has lived in Salem, practicing optometry, for the last 18 years. He belonged to the Masons, Eastern Star and Elks. GRIFFLE FARM WINS GOVERNOR'S PRIZE

Cup Presented to Best Display on One Variety at Hubbard Show

William Levens, state prohibition commissioner, yesterday presented the governor's cup to the Griffle Poultry farm, winner of the best display of one variety of chickens entered at the Hubbard poultry show which has been in progress there for the past four days. He displayed White Leghorns. Mr. Levens represented Governor Pierce, who was unable to attend the show because of having an appointment elsewhere.

Mr. Levens was accompanied to Hubbard by A. L. Lindbeck, prominent Auburn poultry raiser, and other persons interested in the poultry industry.

This was the third annual show since the reorganization of the Poultry association. Attendance was the largest on record, and the specimens were of a decidedly higher quality. J. J. Hirschberger of Hubbard placed second, with a display of White Rocks and Mrs. Ella Plank of Woodburn placed third with White Rocks.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Criteser of Mullino won the award for the best bird of Asiatic breed, with a light Brahma cockerel. Award for the best bird of Mediterranean breed went to G. W. Speight of Hubbard, displaying a Black Minorca. Mrs. Ella Plank of Woodburn, displaying a White Rock, won the award for the best bird of American breed.

The best cock bird in the show was displayed by T. J. Phillips of Monitor. The bird was a White Leghorn. The Light Brahma, shown by Mr. and Mrs. Criteser, was judged to be the best cockerel in the show. The best pullet was displayed by Mrs. Elizabeth Dinwoody of Woodburn.

J. J. Hirschberger won the award for having the best five male birds in the show. They were all White Rocks. Griffle placed second, and Phillips third.

RIVER PILOT IS KILLED

CAPTAIN WOOD, 55, KILLED IN 35 FOOT FALL

ASTORIA, Ore., Dec. 5.—Captain K. P. T. Wood, 55, Columbia river bar pilot, was almost instantly killed shortly before midnight last night when he fell 35 feet from the "Jacob's ladder" of the steamship City of Knoxville, as he was leaving the latter vessel after piloting it to sea.

Two seamen, waiting in a dingy at the foot of the ladder to take Captain Wood to the pilot schooner, immediately took the captain from the water, but he was dead before the pilot schooner was reached a few moments later.

Captain Wood was well known in Pacific coast marine circles. Before becoming a bar pilot here in 1920 he was master of the Admiral line steamers Abercrombie and Wawaloa, the Oriental trade.

"APE" DEBATE PENDING
 NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Emotional hostility to science and scientific methods is becoming so strong in southern California that the fundamentalist-evolutionist battle is likely to come before the California legislature and before the people of the state by initiative or referendum, in the opinion of Chester R. Rowell, former newspaper publisher of Fresno.

PORTLAND TEAM WINS
 PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 5.—With less than a minute and a half to play, the Portland Rosebuds scored a goal and won, 3 to 2, from the Calgary Tigers ice hockey here tonight.
