Noted Dramatist to Speak
The great American dramatist, Louis K. Auspacher, author of "The Unchastened Woman," and a score of other American comedies, is to speak in Salem December 16, at Waller Hall.

No American is better fitted to speak on the subject, "The Drama and Democracy." For Mr. Auspacher has been for more than 20 years contributing his rare sense of humor and of human values to the American stage, and for more than 20 years has been one of America's foremost thoughtful platform speakers. As an actor he has seen the drama from behind the curtains. As a student of philosophy he has seen the drama in relation to the world movement of democracy.

Miss Davison Hostess
Miss Ruth Davison entertained the members of the "Just For Fun" club on Thursday evening. Miss Hazel Tordun was admitted as a new member. Toasting marshmallows, sewing and music was the diversion of the evening. Members present were Mrs. Dorothy Van De Walker, Mrs. Cecil Clark, Mrs. Lorence Kleinke, Miss Thelma Carey, Miss Viola Lottis, Miss Lila Kleinke and the hostess, Miss Ruth Davison.

Book and Thimble Club
Mrs. E. D. Cook entertained the Book and Thimble club at her home on Kingwood Heights road last Thursday afternoon. The living rooms of the Cook home were tastefully decorated with fall flowers and autumn leaves in various hues. After a short business session Mrs. Ed Summers conducted a question box, which proved a recreational. Mrs. M. Gehlhar read a poem entitled "No Occupation," which was much enjoyed.

the study work of the group, developing the interesting topic of the "art song" through Schubert numbers on the Victrola.
