

PROFESSIONAL WRESTLING TO MAKE BOW HERE WITH ROBIN REED ON MAT

FIRST PRO GO SET FOR DECEMBER 22

Plant Would Focus Local Lights in Preliminaries of Strong Card

For the first time in its history Salem is to be introduced to professional wrestling, according to Harry Plant, local matchmaker. The first program will be held Tuesday night, December 22.

Robin Reed has been secured for the main event on this evening. In his amateur days Reed was world's champion in his class. Having recently entered professional circles, he is rapidly attaining a name that makes him sought after throughout the northwest. There will also be some good preliminary bouts. Matchmaker Plant announces he will be glad to hear from any local lights who might want to take a whirl at professional wrestling. If they can show well, he will give them a chance in the preliminaries.

As local fans will remember, boxing was at low ebb when Plant took charge of affairs. Each one of the 20 bouts he has conducted have shown real work. He gradually increased the class of boxing contests until Salem now has, with the assistance of the boxing commission, better matches than it has ever had before.

"There are a host of fans in Salem who are interested in wrestling," Plant said. "Never before has a professional match been staged here. I feel that wrestling will draw as much interest as boxing. We plan to have nothing but the best matches scheduled for our main events."

As proof of this statement, Plant announces that Ted Thye, world's champion of his class, has been secured for the main event for January 15.

It is Plant's plan to sandwich a wrestling program in between every two or three boxing cards.

Robin Reed's appearance marks his first as professional wrestler in Salem. He was here recently, staging a card for the Salem Elks. He did not wrestle, however, but matched up the boys in his wrestling class at OAC. He is head wrestling coach of that school.

Tynhettae Members Renew the Postal Rate Revision

CHICAGO—Two thousand delegates to the 29th convention of the United Typothetae of America, met here the week of October 19, to consider a renewal of their fight for revision of postal rates.

Great Britain was represented at the convention by A. E. Goodwin of London, secretary of the Federation of Master Printers and Allied Trades, and A. E. Owen Jones, editor of Caxton magazine, London.

The opening day was devoted to registration and to group meetings, among which were the Typothetae Cost Accounting Association, the International Trade Commission association, the American Printers' Cost commission and the council presidents.

PHIL BAYES TO MIX CUFFS WITH BARNES

Next Scrap Set for December 17 in Armory; Real Action or No Pay

Phil Bayes of Salem will go the rounds with George Barnes of Portland in the main event of Salem's next smoker, according to Harry Plant, match maker. The event will take place at the Salem Armory Thursday night, December 17.

Phil Bayes has been mixing pretty regularly, lately. Last night he fought Billie Winters at Portland. He has been showing considerable fight in the mixes he has had in Salem.

Dempis Hiller of Corvallis has been secured to clash with Spark Plug McCoy of Aberdeen in the semi-wind-up.

A special bout has been arranged between Shadow Gretz and Johnny Johnson, both of Salem.

Bill Kendall, the man responsible for Lewis' black eye, will be matched against Art Mayer in the preliminary. Kendall has been working hard, and has shown considerable improvement, according to fans. He declares he has never felt in better shape.

The card promises to be one of the best of the season. Under a new house rule set down by Plant, the men must fight or go without their pay.

FRIEDMAN HOGS GLORY But Here's Second Choice Candidate

Ordinarily the task of selecting members of all-sectional or all-American teams is an open one, leaving much room for debate. There seems to be no dispute regarding Benny Friedman's selection as All-American quarter, any other year, however, Vic Salmi of Indiana, would be a candidate. He's a southpaw pass hurler.

BUSINESS MEN JOIN FOR ATHLETIC CLUB

George Hubbs Named President, Vic's Hippodrome Will Be Used

SILVERTON, Or., Dec. 10.—(Special to The Statesman.)—A group of prominent Silvertown business and professional men began the organization of an athletic club Tuesday evening. George Hubbs was elected president, with Clifford Rite as secretary-treasurer. Permanent organization with the drawing up of a constitution and by-laws will be effected next week.

What was formerly Vic's Hippodrome has been converted into an athletic club house with a capacity of 700. A new ring has been built and new mats, punching bags, Indian clubs and showers have been added. Arrangements are being made for indoor baseball and handball.

Twenty men have each advanced $10 to finance the club in its beginning. This will be refunded as the programs begin to pay.

Frankie Lewis of Salem meets George Ingersoll of Astoria at Silvertown tonight in the main event of the smoker to be held there. Ingersoll is said to be in good shape and ready to repeat his former win over Lewis.

Frankie is traveling to Silvertown with a slightly shaded eye. Wednesday evening he was sparring with Bill Kendall, warming up for tonight's bout. Both boys felt in good shape. As the sparring began to speed up, Kendall let slip a left, which broke past Frankie's defense. He lost no time in applying beefsteak, and his eye is in much better condition.

Connie Hannon of Silvertown will meet Billie Dunn of Astoria in the semi-wind-up.

Billie Hannon and Jack Sallis, both of Silvertown, have been matched for a special bout.

Eddie Fox of Independence will mix with Spider Kelly of Silvertown in the preliminary.

LEADERS ROMP OFF WITH 31-3 VICTORY

Parrish Junior Leaders Play Parrish Independents Saturday

Junior Leaders of the local YMCA easily defeated the Hutchsons Independents last night in the third round of the Anderson junior league tournament being held at the YMCA, with the score 31-3.

This gives the Leaders the right to play the Parrish Independents Saturday for the championship of the league.

Loss of Hutchsons, their captain, weakened the Independents considerably. He is ineligible for the junior league tournament, as he is out for the Parrish junior high school team. The Independents to even up the game, but cuts were allowed to put in six they could not check the more experienced and older Leaders.

Langnead was nigh point man for the Leaders, being responsible for 18 points. The Independents were outwheeled, and had little team work, as several new men were used. Standish starred for the Independents. Following is the lineup:

Leaders: Langhead rf, W. Goode lf, W. Heise c, Judson rg, Steilver lg. Independents: H. Steward rf, Purdy lf, Standish c, Suing rg, Harris lg. Referee, Scotty Marr.

Winners of the tournament will receive the silver football fobs offered by Anderson's Sporting Goods house. The Whitman Pioneers will play the Jason Lee Pioneers Saturday for the consolation prize, a regulation football.

BIG MEN ROW HARD ADMIEN TELLS CLUB

William Paulus, of C. P. Bishop Firm Defines Purpose of Organization

"He went about doing good," the motto being used by Judge W. T. Atwell, grand exalted ruler of the Elks lodge, comes closer to stating the purpose of the Salem Ad club, said William Paulus, advertising manager for C. P. Bishop, in addressing the organization at luncheon, yesterday.

"You have heard of many doctors lawyers merchants and athletes who make a grand splash and then suddenly fade from view. It is the same with every merchant who does not rigidly maintain a policy for truthful advertising and dependable merchandise. Many merchants make a big splash during their opening days but it is not until they have run a cycle of a few years that the real test has been made. If they adopt a shady policy of doing business it will not be long until lack of business will cause them to close.

"It is said that merchandise we'll bought is half sold, but it is my opinion that in the present day it is the merchandise that is well advertised that is sold. Without advertising the modern merchant would be like a ship without a rudder.

"At the present time the pacific coast merchants are showing practically the same type of merchandise that is being shown in the east. In years past the west was generally about four months behind the east in styles.

"Now by arrangement with eastern manufacturers the stores in the west receive new merchandise at about the same time that it is being shown in the east. As an example of this—a few days ago we received a shipment of men's reversible sweaters. These sweaters are made of sweater material upon one side and rubberized rainproof material upon the other side and are so constructed that either side may be worn outward. This sweater is being featured on Fifth Avenue, New York by Wallach Bros., and has only been on the market a short time.

"The spirit of leadership is not only shown in the mercantile way but in the community in general. It is usually the same organizations and the same men that foster new ideas for the development of the community. They have become leaders because they have chosen to row up stream to success rather than just drift with the current of events and take no part in community activities.

Most of our progress is accomplished while congress is not in session.
