To Establish Columbus as Italian Citizen to Be Aim

PADUA-The Italian government's decision to declare October 12 a national holiday had the double motive of honoring in a fitting manner the discoverer of the American continent and of combating the tendency to discredit the Italian nationality of Christopher Columbus.

Dr. Camillo Manfroni, prominent professor of history in the University of Padua, is behind a movement to held demonstrations in all the Italian schools and pubinstitutions, both in Italy and abroad, to refute arguments particularly that Columbus was a Spaniard.

"Until a few years ago;" said Dr. Manfroni, "the fact that Columbus was born at Genoa was so universally established that too little attention has been paid to the contentions of Spanish 'historians' that the great navigator was a native of Spain. But now, the movement to uproot historical facts that have stood undisputed for centuries has become so general, claiming as adherents some of Spain's most erudite men of learning, that it can no longer be ignored."

Dr. Manfroni believes, however, that the movement can be effectively silenced, and the proper celebration of Columbus Day he believes to be one of the best "ways to start.

Girl Librarian Encourages Jail Inmates to Read More

OTTUMWA, Iowa-Accompanfed by a sturdy bailiff who car-Harriet Meyers, assistant librarian here, each week visits the city jail to encourage cultivation of the reading habit.

One prisoner read four books on prohibition, and declared that if he had studied them earlier he never would have been arrested. lines so that when released he passed a civil service examination.

Zane Grey, Harold Bell Wright, Peter B. Kyne and James Oliver Curwood are the popular authors, but there are many calls for books on music, etiquette and birds.

Soviet Russia Charges Fee for Radio Listeners

MOSCOW. - Broadcasting in Societ Russia is still in its infancy. It began only a year ago, after the Council of Commissars decreed permitting private individuals to own small amateur receiving sets.

There are four broadcasting stations in Moscow and one each in Leningrad, Kharkov and Kieff. The biggest Moscow broadcasting station, "Komintern," works upon a wave length of 1,450 meters. It broadcasts daily concerts and newspaper information in tse form of a radio-gazette, which is believed to be the only radiogazette, which is believed to be the only radio-newspaper in the world.

The other Moscow stations are of a smaller capacity. Political education seems to be the chief object of their broadcasting programs. Anti-religious propaganda is also finding its way through the broadcasting stations, which have special programs adapted for children and adults. Three radio weeklies are pub-dished in Moscow, with a total circulation of more than 150,000. Preliminary registration for the possession of receiving sets has FURNITURE PACKING FOR SHIP-now been abolished and the sale ments, Giese-Power Furniture Co. of radio receiving sets has been
