

FREED FROM HAREM, WOMEN SEEK MATES

Turkish Women Endeavoring to Find Husbands After Government Order

ANGORA—Hundreds of beautiful women, highly trained in the social graces, arts of the toilette, dancing, music and religion, who have been freed from harems, now have the Turkish government seeking husbands for them. Most of them are wholly unfitted for the practical work of life. Abandonment of the harem also placed on the hands of the government many eunuchs, but their disposition has not been so difficult. In the absence of regular employment in the cities, they have been sent to the provincial districts work on the farms. When President Mustapha Kemal assumed power in Ankara, one of his first official acts was to banish the harems and slave households of Sultan Mohammed VI, the prince and members of the royal court.

In order to set an example, most of the nationalist government officials have one, or at most only two wives. Indeed, Mustapha Kemal Pasha has no wife at all, having recently been granted a divorce. Economic conditions also serve to make it almost impossible for one to indulge in the old luxury of plurality of wives. Prior to the present social revolution in Turkey, every woman was obliged to veil herself from all except her father, brother and husband. If a man, either Turk or foreigner, entered the sacred precincts of the harem, he usually paid with his life, while the master also had the right to kill his unfaithful wife or concubine. Only three foreigners, an American, a Britisher and a Frenchman, are known to have entered a real harem when it was occupied and spoke the Turkish language. By posing as government representatives, they escaped the usual penalty.

Any departure from the rules of conduct in the harems was severely punished by the eunuchs, who maintained security of the places and who were ephemerically called "Masters of the Maidens" or "Chiefs of the Abodes of Felicity." While Sultan Mohammed VI had only four legal wives, he had at his disposal several hundred "ikbals" or favorites. Sultan Abdul Hamid was said to have had 1,000 wives in his harem. Madam Edibe Halid Hanoum Bey, a Turkish woman trained in the American Girls' College at Constantinople, was one of the first to agitate a change in the status of Moslem women, insisting that the system was wholly inconsistent with any high ideal of womanhood. Abandonment of the harem has been noted as Turkey's most radical step in its transition from an Oriental state to a modern Western country.

Use of this material restricts the shops rather closely to the DII wartime design, but a few modifications have been developed, chiefly in the fuselage. The greatest changes have been effected in the engine, without, however, any material difference in the design of the 400-horsepower Liberty motor. The plant receives these from storage, stamped with the names of a dozen different manufacturers and rebuilds them completely. New bearings, pistons and gears throughout, carefully fitted by hand, improve the reliability of the engine tremendously. The construction of fifty ships a year means the building or rebuilding of nearly 500 motors, as the average use of an engine in the service is about three weeks, before it is brought in for overhauling. Another scheme which keeps the mail deliveries on time is the assignment of a ship to a certain pilot and no other. Each airmail also has his own propeller, which may outlast several ships, while the engine is changed every few weeks. When a ship arrives with a different pilot, an inquiry always follows over the airmail radio from the general headquarters at Omaha for an explanation.

KELLS ANNOUNCES 'Y' GROUP CHANGE

Washington, Oregon and Idaho Are Joined for Co-operative Labors

Oregon, Washington and Idaho have been reorganized into a tri-state conference for the Y.M.C.A. according to word brought back from Portland by C. A. Kells, general secretary of the Salem Y.M.C.A. Formerly the states were divided into the Oregon-Idaho and Washington conferences.

The committee of the new conference will come into active being the first of the year. The territory was considered hardly large enough to be in two divisions. It will now be possible for the conference to send special men through the three states to advise in the various departments. Physical education especially will
