NATIONAL CUSTOMS MINGLE AT WEDDING

English Cake and Chinese Costumes Mark Marriage of Local Girl

Chinese and American costumes and customs were intermingled during the past week when Matie Gow, local Chinese girl was married at Vancouver, Wash., to Wong Ju, well known Portland Chinese.

Miss Gow is a daughter of Rose Gow, manager of Bin Sin's Chinese restaurant of this city and has been attending junior high school.

After the performance of the civil marriage ceremony, the nuptials were given a new setting in Portland where the Chinese ceremonies and rites were observed. The American bridal dress was exchanged for oriental garb and Mendelssohn's classic strains were dispensed by a Ga Low Goo orchestra.

Of course there was wedding cake, but it was an immense fruit cake, English style. However this was seconded by such oriental confections as Oi Keng Hong and Ben Toy.

As a last note it must be said that the celebration of the marriage occupied the best part of two days.

HAINES CALLS BANK CHARGE CASE CLOSED

"Considering the matter a closed incident, and with kindest personal regards to each of you, I am, "Will B. Haines."
Members of the state banking board expressed surprise at one paragraph of Mr. Haines' letter indicating that the board had reached the conclusion that his institution would be granted a permit to operate as a reserve bank. No such conclusion was reached at the hearing, members of the board said.

Equal surprise was occasioned, members of the board declared, by Mr. Haines' statement in his letter that he considered the matter a closed incident. It was said that Mr. Haines was a party to an agreement reached at last Friday's hearing that the investigation of the charges preferred against Mr. Bramwell would be resumed in Salem next Thursday.

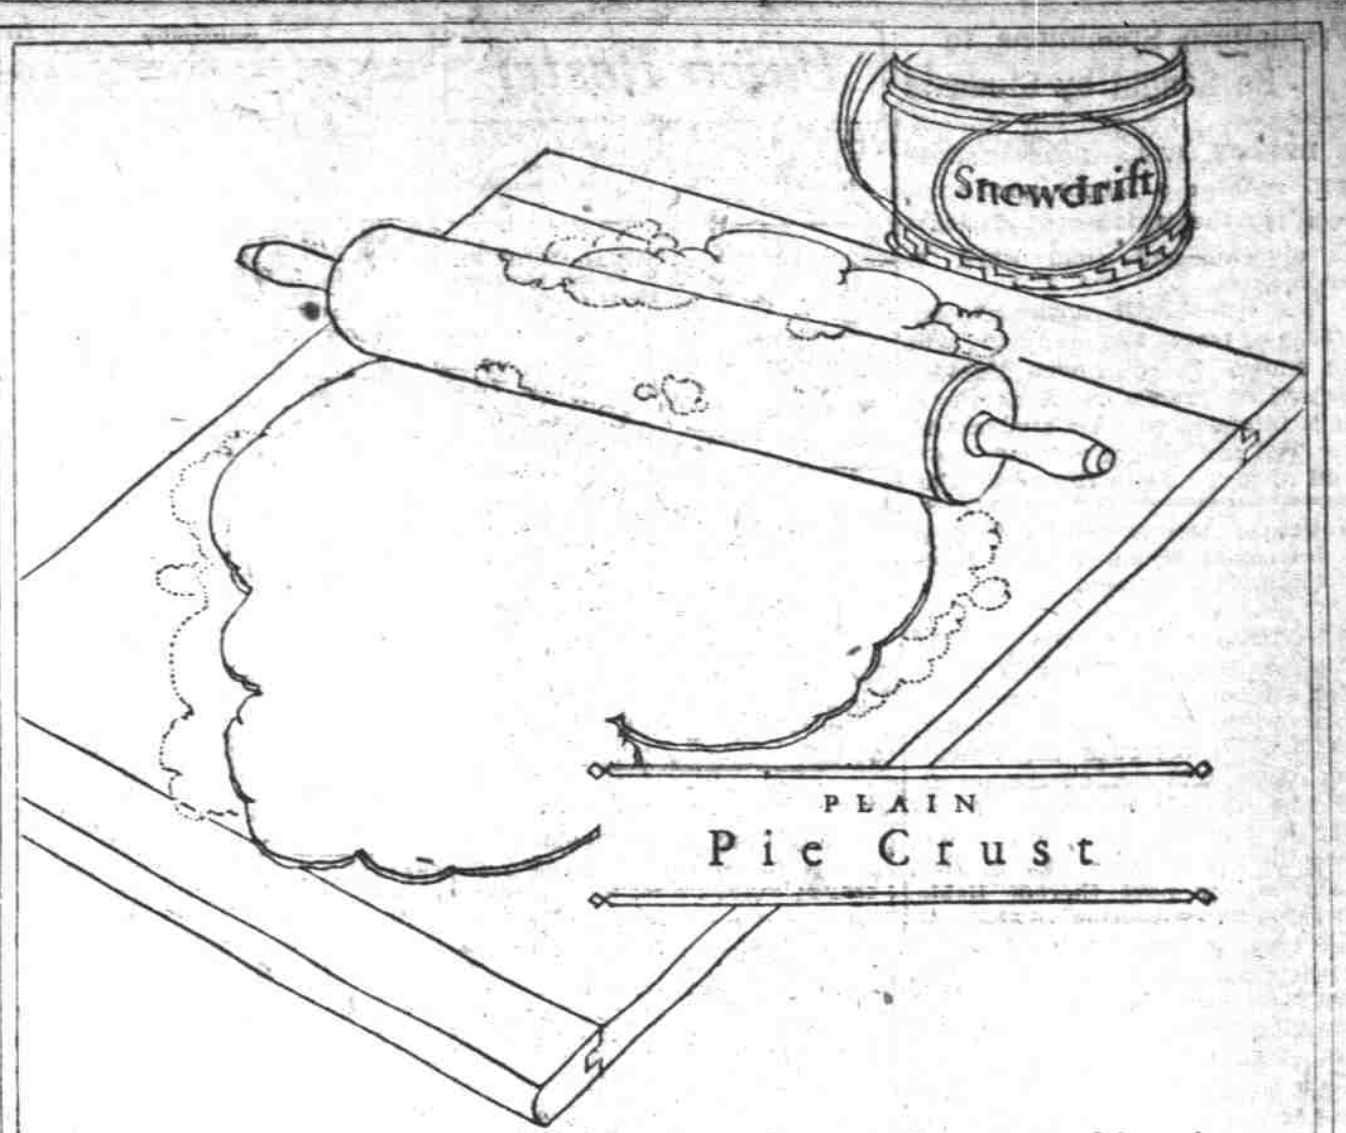

Both Mr. Koser and Mr. Kay said they particularly were interested in letters introduced in evidence at the recent hearing which indicated on their face that Mr. Bramwell had attempted to obtain for one of his employees possession of an unidentified bank in western Oregon at a price to be dictated by himself. These letters were stressed by Mr. Haines as showing that the transaction if carried to a successful conclusion would have provided ample opportunity for Mr. Bramwell and his friends to derive a substantial profit.

Mr. Bramwell, in explaining the letters, said they were written to protect the depositors of the institution, and that he had no thought of profiting by the deal.

When the hearing is resumed here, Thursday all witnesses will testify under oath and only such evidence as is pertinent to the issues will be admitted. Subpoenas for the several witnesses who will be called to testify will be issued here tomorrow.

PLAIN Pie Crust

If you think good pie crust is hard to make try making it with Snowdrift. Use your own recipe or try this very good pie crust recipe from Kate Brew Vaughn.

2 Cups Flour
3/4 Teaspoon Salt
2/3 Cup Snowdrift
Ice Water

Sift the flour and salt, and cut in the Snowdrift as quickly as possible. Cutting in with two silver knives insures the most uniform distribution. Do not take too great care to have this shortening thoroughly mixed—the flakiest pastry is the most quickly made. Add the ice water a little at a time, shaking in with a spoon, and use as little as possible. Divide the paste in halves and pat and roll out to fit the pans. Should be baked at 450 degrees F. until beginning to brown, then reduce to 350 degrees until done. Best results are secured by thoroughly chilling all ingredients and utensils. This recipe makes sufficient crust for one two-crust pie or two open-faced pies.
