Rite For Breakfast

Did you write it 1926?

We are off for a better year than 1925, if we in Salem will cooperate as well as we did last year.

And there is every reason why we should be able to do even better team work. Salem was never before so little hampered by factions.

Mrs. Mark McCallister picked some fine ripe Evergreen blackberries yesterday, on the Kurtz farm north of Salem. How is that for the first day of the year? If there is any doubting Thomas, he may see the berries at the Statesman office.

If some one will connect up with one of the big sugar companies, and get a concrete proposition, no doubt the Salem Chamber of Commerce, will get behind an effort to get the proper number of acres of beets signed up.

Or if some one will show up who knows how to organize the growers into a mutual company for building a beet sugar factory, he will no doubt be able to get the backing of our commercial body, if he will get busy.

The New Year Edition of The Statesman had many compliments yesterday—the most sincere ones by people who sent copies to the ends of the earth.

The Slogan man has to prove, next Thursday, that this is the best gooseberry district in the world—which it is. And Oregon is the biggest gooseberry state in the Union, in number of cases put into cans. We will have to find ways to stay in the lead; it will require study and effort.
