

PHIL BAYES AND EDDIE KELLY TO CLIMAX FIGHT CARD AT ARMORY TONIGHT

PRELIMS OFFERING STRONG FEATURE

Winner of Main Event May Face Danny Edwards, Sensational Negro

Salem sport followers will tonight witness one of the most important fights in the career of Phil Bayes, popular featherweight. When Bayes meets Eddie Kelly at the armory this evening he encounters one of the toughest lads

PHIL BAYES

In his class. In the scores of bouts he has been engaged in throughout the country he has built up a record of getting his man— if possible. Two-handed and aggressive, he comes to Salem with the aim of striding over Bayes in his climb up the pugilistic ladder.

Bayes, on the other hand, is just as determined to get into the brighter lights of gloveedom as his recent clean-cut victories over Solie Burns and Charlie Dundee prove.

"Live clean and fight clean" has been the slogan of Bayes, and this record has won him many ardent friends who wish him well tonight. He is reported to be in good condition despite his grueling encounter with Dundee four days ago.

The winner of tonight's event will probably be matched with Danny Edwards, sensational negro featherweight who has been steadily climbing toward the verge of possible title contention.

Although listed as a preliminary, the go between Battling Bill Kendall and Art Mayer, Salem boys in the 150-pound class, is held to be of more than passing interest. Kendall, starting as a cub fighter, has shown an ability to take terrific punishment and to learn his lesson. Locan fans are interested enough in Kendall to demand that he be evenly matched and placed in a little better money if he continues to make good.

Kendall met Mayer some time ago and lost the referee's decision, but is better prepared to give the more experienced Mayer a real scrap tonight.

Matchmaker Harry Plant is behind Kendall and will see that he is not matched up with veterans too much out of Bill's class, although Kendall is willing enough. For hammer and tongs material, Kendall deserves a chance if he keeps in training and plays the game.

Tommy Murphy, solid and steady bouter, well known in Salem, will meet Kewpie Riley of Portland in the semi-final. At 134 pounds ringside weights, these two men are expected to exhibit their best. Riley has been knocking 'em down in short order during most of his matches and Murphy will have to stride in order to show over him.

For the third main event Eddie Fox of Independence and Kid McCormick of Oregon City are good, scrappy, well trained youngsters.

Joe Waterman, matchmaker for the Portland boxing commission, plans to attend the bouts. He has already promised Phil Bayes a chance in a semi-windup event on the Portland card, and while here will be on the lookout for new material. Waterman is a sincere booster of the Oregon fight game as conducted in the various armories under regulation of the various boxing commissions.

JONES, REED'S CONQUERER, TO MEET TED BROWN AT ARMORY

BROWN, MIDWEST SECTIONAL STAR

Intermountain Title Belt at Stake When Grapplers Meet at Armory

A match for the western welterweight wrestling title will be staged at the Salem armory January 12 when Henry Jones of Provo, Utah, and Ted Brown of Racine, Wis., meet.

Henry Jones is known in the Pacific northwest by his three major meets with Robin Reed, Reed taking the belt from Jones on last Thanksgiving day and losing it to Jones on January 1 at Albany.

Jones, with the exception of the brief period, held the title since 1913. Perhaps his greatest recent match was December 18, when in an effort to regain the belt he and Reed wrestled to a draw in a two-hour meet. On January 1 he regained the title by securing an airplane spin hold on Reed, disabling the latter after 51 minutes of fast work by both men.

Brown, who has held sectional titles in central eastern states, is the wrestler who was scheduled to meet Reed here on December 23. In training he met with a slight accident and did not meet Reed at that time. Carver taking his place.

Reports of Brown's record indicate that Jones meets no easy come-on in the Wisconsin grappler. Followers of Jones assert that the Utah man is anxious to hold onto the recently regained title, and that every effort will be made to solve the easterner's style.

More than 1200 fans attended the Reed-Jones match at Albany on New Year's day, and Matchmaker Plant feels that the Salem event will draw wrestling devotees from many points in the state.

The title will go to the man taking two falls out of a possible three in two hours' time.
