A better impression of Oregon butter has resulted from the work of the North Pacific Cooperative Creamery association, reports at the annual meeting held at the agricultural college showed. It is the sole purpose of the association to better the quality of the butter and open a dependable market for the surplus. The method is education under the auspices of Chris Johnson, field representative. Mr. Johnson visits each of the seven creameries making up the association and spends from three to five days with it every month. He also visits the dairy patrons and explains the advantages and methods of grading and keeping it sweet till delivered to the creamery. He then works with the creamery in producing the best butter obtainable from the improved quality of cream.

A check is kept on the quality of butter turned out by each creamery in a monthly scoring contest. When the contests were started with the beginning of the association a year ago, the average test was 89 points—95 is about the limit of perfection. The scores announced for December averaged 92, with the O. A. C. commercial creamery leading at 94. The Lower Columbia River Cooperative creamery was second with 93%, and Mt. Angel third with 93. Many samples were entered by non-member creameries and averaged just what the association averaged at first, 89 points.

A premium is paid by the member creameries for sweet cream to encourage dairymen to keep their articles in the best condition, and repay them for their extra labor. Water-cooling and complete disinfection of all dairy equipment are essential, even in winter. The sweet-cream butter brings a better price in the market, and efforts are under way to open a dependable market for this grade. The association intends eventually to expand into every dairy district of Oregon.

FANATIC DIES IN FIRE

WOMAN CASTS SELF IN FURNACE FOLLOWING REVIVAL

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Jan. 5.—(By Associated Press.)—Hire religious nature spurred to fanatical heights by a recent revival, Mrs. Margaret House, wife of a small carrier, today wedged her body into the furnace of her home and sustained burns which caused her death 12 hours later. Believing herself "a living sacrifice to the Lord," and singing and praying as she exposed herself to the flames, she was fatally burned before her husband could rescue her.

COUNTY NEWS BRIEFS

A rousing community get-together and a sumptuous dinner was enjoyed by a large crowd at Liberty hall New Year's evening. After the feast the regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher association was held. At this meeting the following persons were appointed as Liberty's corn show committee: Messrs Wright, Scott and Fox, and Mesdames Westenhause, Oscar Deneer and Fred Browning. This committee is to have full charge of the local exhibit for next year. The following were appointed to serve on the program committee: Miss Neva Cooley, chairman; Mrs. Henry Gilbert and Mrs. Bruce Cunningham. The resignations of Mrs. Frank Mohney as secretary, and Mrs. Vester Hubbard as treasurer, were accepted. Both have moved from the community. It was decided to combine these offices and Russell Wright was elected secretary-treasurer. The following program was then enjoyed: Selections from the Royal Trovatore Trio from the Salem high school; solo by Miss Neva Cooley; solo, Ellen Neunens; reading, by Miss Fanning of Salem. Then came the old-fashioned spelling match by the group-ups. Fifteen men on one side faced 15 women on the other side. The men beat. Mrs. John Dasch was the last woman to go down, leaving Mr. Wright, Mr. Ohmart and Mr. Judd still standing.

Salem Heights, Rosedale, Sunnyside and Liberty are planning on some good times this winter. They expect to all meet together at the respective community halls and enjoy a good program, social time and refreshments. Each will furnish part of the program and refreshments. The first meeting will be held at Liberty January 15. The Liberty Woman's club began to serve hot lunches to the pupils in the school last Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Weaver and children of Culver visited relatives and friends here during the holidays.

Stayton

W. A. Weddle, local undertaker, was a business visitor in Falls City recently.

Among those visiting out of town during the holidays were Mr. and Mrs. V. L. McCrosky and baby who returned home Monday from Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Del Harrington of East Stayton of Stayton went to Turner Sunday where they visited at the S. L. Hulien home. Mrs. Hulien has been seriously ill but is now improving. The Hulien family formerly lived here.

School activities were renewed this week after a two weeks' holiday vacation. Both teachers and pupils enjoyed the rest; however, all seem glad to be back in the school room once more.

Edmond Keech, son of Mayor George Keech, and wife left Sunday for Eugene where he is a student at law in the University of Oregon. Other U. of O. students who also returned after the holiday vacation spent with home folks were Lee Brown, and the Misses Margaret and Bernice Hensley.

F. I. Jones, overseer for the Salem Ditch company at this end of the canal, has a crew of men with teams at work near town repairing the banks of the ditch, where seepage has caused the walls to break through, thus causing waste water to overflow private property in a detrimental way.

Automobile thieves tried to get away with everything that was removable from Norval Fisher's car Saturday night while it was parked in West Salem. The rear tire, the lock and spotlight had all been tampered with, but the motor was the only equipment that was missing; the culprits succeeded in getting away with that entirely.

Cliff Stayton, who operates a trap line along the river east of town, caught a big beaver first of the week that proved to be about all he could get to town with. The animal weighed 55 pounds, and the hide when stretched for drying, measured 57 inches. This is one of the largest of the kind caught in this vicinity. The fur was of very fine quality and will net the owner a neat sum when cured.

The annual installation of officers of Stayton grange was held in the Masonic hall on January 2, with past master S. D. Brown in charge of the installing ceremonies. The following officers being duly installed: Master, Miss Ella Williams; overseer, Henry Siegmund; lecturer, Arthur A. McKenzie; steward, Mrs. Jessie Siegmund; secretary, George Snudner; Poetess, Mrs. Carl Young; Soester, Mrs. Elizabeth Nipple; Flora, Mrs. Nellie Sandner. All but two of the officers installed are hold-overs from last year's staff. An executive committee composed of M. E. Ryan, J. F. Richards and J. M. Miller was chosen. After the installing of the officers a banquet was served in the dining room to which ample justice was done by all present. Most prominent among the out of town visitors were Mr. Bessy, newly elected master of the Salem grange, and Mrs. Bessy; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tate of Bend, who are officeholders in their home grange; Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan of Turner grange, and E. Shepherd of Salem, who has the distinction of being the only surviving charter member of the Stayton grange. Mr. Shepherd entertained the crowd with a very interesting reading, explaining the flag and its relative meaning and uses. During the past year the Stayton grange has acquired a large number of new members and has grown steadily in interest as well as membership. From a mere handful of 28 struggling officers and members it now has attained the membership of 116, all alive to its interests, and every member a worker.

The industrial center of the United States is rapidly gravitating to Oregon because of the marvelously favorable conditions and prodigality of resources. World markets are opening before us like the first pink of an opening rosebud. Every dollar spent for "OREGON QUALITY" products stimulates it into full and refulgent bloom.

months old. At that time Mr. Smith joined the Washington Co-operative Egg association and began buying their egg mash. The egg mash was mixed half and half with the growing mash for two weeks. From then on the egg mash was fed alone. A number of people are of the opinion that buttermilk should be fed as a regular part of the ration. We have never used it. An experienced poultry man in this county (Skagit), advised us not to. The buttermilk mash has the dried milk in it and the birds receive the necessary elements. For given feed we are using mangels, Kale is just as good and I believe should be fed alternately with mangels, as the hens seem to enjoy kale for a change. I have been told also that kale is better than mangels for breeding stock, as it gives a firmer egg white, while for commercial purposes mangels are just as good. In that case it is optional which to feed. At the age of six months the pullets were culled by the Hogan method. These pullets developed were put into the laying pen and the others were fed growing mash a couple of weeks longer. The second pen was then re-culled and those not up to standard were fattened for market. A Leghorn pullet should be matured at six months of age. However, we think it a better plan to allow the slower ones a little more time.

It is remarkable how fast a pullet will develop with a little extra care.
From the 250 baby chicks we now have $2 laying pullets. For the last six weeks, beginning about the middle of November, they have been averaging between a 65 and 70 per cent lay. The $2 have produced as many as 62 eggs in one day. The total cost of feed is around $15 per month. The oats and wheat we are now feeding were grown on the farm. The cost would be a little higher where all feed is purchased on the market. The net return above all expenses is about $1 a day with the present price of eggs at the Co-operative association.
If it is at all possible the poultry man should join his local co-operative association. The returns secured pay many times the cost of joining. In fact cooperation is the salvation of the farmer whether he sells milk, eggs or any other farm produce.
From our viewpoint every farm should have a few chickens. We are planning to get at least 500 this April if not 1,000 baby chicks. Be willing to profit by the experience of others and you will succeed with chickens.
