Kleinke-Antrean Nuptials

Coming as a surprise to their many friends was the wedding of Miss Lila Kleinke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Kleinke of this city, to Mr. John Wesley Antrean of Eugene on Monday evening, January 11, at the First Methodist church. Rev. F. C. Taylor read the ring service. Preceding the ceremony Miss Eva Roberts sang "At Dawning." The wedding party approached the altar to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Evelyn Churchhill.

The bride was lovely in a creation of ivory dove skin tulle and fur. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and paper white narcissus, her only ornament was a double string of pearls, a gift of the groom. Her only attendant, Miss Jennie Antrean, wore pale green satin back cation and carried a bouquet of carnations and ferns. Mr. Elmer Kleinke acted as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for about 25 relatives and friends. Those who assisted in serving were Mrs. M. A. Bronson, Mrs. Lorence Kleinke, Miss Jennie Antrean and Mrs. Frank E. Kleinke.

Mrs. Antrean is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Kleinke and is a graduate of Salem high school and a member of the TNT club. She has been employed at the court house for the past two years as deputy county clerk. Mr. Antrean is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Antrean of Salem. He is a graduate of Salem high school and a member of the Erial club. At present he is a freeman on the Southern Pacific railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Antrean will spend the month of February in Los Angeles, Mexico, and the Santa Barbara islands. They will be at home to their many friends after March 1. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Noah Kessel and son Wayne of Albany.

The play the young people of St. Joseph's church are preparing to present Thursday evening, January 14, is a happy selection, "Duncan Dubbs" and a fine cast of characters has been chosen. A dress rehearsal was given Tuesday evening before a select audience, who pronounced it excellent. A male quartet is a valuable acquisition, and the new and beautiful scenery adds much to the effect. The time is some 40 or more years ago, and the costumes are of that period. The Sacred Heart Academy will furnish the music on Thursday evening.

The Arizona Sheriff

Tales of his adventures, his courage, his humor, his keen intelligence—as collected by Major Grover F. Benton, "The Deputy from Yavapai County." How with nimble gun and motor car he brings swift and sure justice to outlaws.

HE "DROWNED"

The man hunt was over, with nothing more thrilling than the customary 200-mile automobile hunt over the Arizona desert, through gulches and draws leading into the Gila mountains, and the final run to the border of Old Mexico.

It was really an "easy case," for the 20-mile run over the trackless desert with the thermometer reading daily from 110 to 120 degrees, is considered just an afternoon's jaunt to Sheriff Jim Chappell, old-time cowboy and much feared peace guardian of Yuma county.

Nothing to do, now, but to run Will Jones into Yuma and lock him up, mark the big six shooter Mond Knotts the night before, for identification and await the trial.

"Ho, hum!" pretty soft, being sheriff these days," mused Jim. "Jones shot Knotts in a quarrel over the smiles of a half Mexican, half Indian girl known only as Lenna, who was a reigning belle in the borderland section of Yuma."

Jones had started north for the Imperial Valley. That meant fording the Colorado river, here a peaceful, muddy stream and no longer the leaping torrent of the Grand Canyon above. He couldn't swim very well. Well, there were the Gila mountains 80 miles to the east, across the desert. A stolen horse could carry him there in two nights. He got the horse.

Laying up on the bleak and blazing desert in the daytime lost its appeal for Jones speedily, and he turned to the last refuge, Old Mexico.

But Sheriff Jim hasn't been asleep during his two terms, and he and the Mexican authorities understand each other well. They don't want each other's undesirables coming into their territory, and they have the convenient custom of booting such fellows unceremoniously back across the international boundary line.

If he is a Mexican outlaw, and Sheriff Jim runs him out of Yuma county, it is convenient all around, if a Mexican official happens to be nearby that day, for then he can arrest him.

It works the other way around, and just because the sheriff's Studebaker happened to be fifteen minutes behind Jones, after tracking him all around that desert to the border, that gave Jones no safety in Mexico. Calexico didn't want him as the jefe of politico or chief of police demonstrated by running Jones and his chief deputy, Billy Dunne, all waiting with yawning faces and wider yawning revolvers, so it was a snap, after all.

The story was all over, when they drove along the Colorado back in Yuma, about 200 yards from the river.

But suddenly Jones leaped out of the Studebaker, saying: "Goodbye, sheriff; see you in California."

He headed straight for the river, down the little bluff and across the partly vacant lots, dodging amid abode huts lining the bank. When he had stopped the car, out leaped Sheriff Jim, and, to his embarrassment to this day, caught his foot and fell, scraping inches of skin off both knees. He grabbed Billy Dunne's pistol as he leaped from the car, and started on the run for Jones. Dunne, recovering Jim's pistol, joined the race.

Running on foot doesn't improve a cowboy's shooting skill, and, out of respect to the feelings of the two sheriffs, no one ever did check up on how many shots hit the fleeing man.

He ran out into the Colorado, up to his neck, then began to waver and wobble.

"Git out of that river pronto, you mudsnake," yelled the sheriff, or I'll give you water on the brain in 'bout half a minute."

The murderer, however, slowly sank out of sight, and they found him nine miles below, a few days later.

Fresh and sweet, I do well, Good to eat, Quick to sell.
