BUSTER KEATON IS AT HEILIG THEATRE

Comedian With Frozen Face Loses Heart to Cow Who "Understands Him"

The extent to which motion picture comedians will go to insure a moment or two of laughable realism on the screen can best be approximated from the fact that Buster Keaton sent a prize winning cow and an ordinary long-eared mule all the way from Hollywood to Kingman, Arizona—clear across the Mojave desert—by motor truck to play in his new starring vehicle, "Go West," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which is coming to the Heilig theater today.

Buster Keaton and his company encamped on a wild and woolly ranch 60 miles from Kingman, to film the story of "Go West," which deals with the adventures of a city boy who tires of metropolitan life and retreats to the farm for quietude and the back-to-nature stuff.

Adventures, or rather misadventures, never fail in a case of this kind, and Buster Keaton has novel ones and many of them in "Go West."

It may interest you to know that the real leading lady of the new Keaton comedy is "Brown Eyes," the prize winning heroine of which we spoke. This is perhaps the first instance that a cow will be featured in the movies. According to the development of the plot, she is the only one who understands the young tenderfoot in his new environment. We have it on no less an authority than Buster Keaton himself that she was his "confidante and severest critic"—at least until the kind of a leading lady who is naturally better equipped to win a lonesome and bashful young rancher's heart came along.

Here's the Way to Heal Rupture

NEW SUBSCRIBERS ARE DEFINED BY STATESMAN

 the interest that your friends will take in your campaign. Every one will want to vote as soon as the contest gets under full swing. A great many people have already started collecting the free coupons for the people they have nominated.

The contest office will be open each evening until 8:30 p. m. If there is anything you do not understand about this contest kindly call by phone or call in person, and we will be glad to help you. We are just starting this week, and now is the time to enter while the chance is young. You have the same chance as any one. Contest only lasts until April 10.

Just think what it would mean to you with a few hours' work each day.

Let us see you enter and win. If you have not received your receipt book be sure to call on the Contest Editor or phone her. As soon as a nomination is received the Contest Editor or an assistant will call and explain all the details of the contest.

In some instances, possibly some nominations have been overlooked on the account of the great number of them received. So in case you have been overlooked it has been unintentional and the Contest Editor will appreciate it if you will call the matter to her attention. Obey that impulse; fill out the nomination blank today.

The contest announced by the Daily Statesman started in earnest last Sunday. The announcement that the Statesman would give away $1115.00 Dodge Sedan, Chevrolet Touring car, Ford Touring car and Electric Washing Machine, and several dollars in Gold, created unusual comment.

When it was further established that in addition to these 14 valuable prizes this enterprising newspaper will also reward each and every one who took part in the contest, by a payment of 10 per cent commission to every one who did not succeed in securing one of the prizes. Astonishment was rife, and interest and enthusiasm was unprecedented.

Next Sunday will appear the names, and number of votes each candidate so far has secured or his or her friends have secured for her since the beginning of this contest.

There is a coupon in the paper good for 100 votes. You are entitled to as many of these coupons as you can secure. There is also an opportunity coupon good for 100,000 extra votes. This coupon and a one (1) year subscription or the equivalent thereof entitles the candidate to 100,000 extra votes in addition to the regular schedule. Only four of these Coupons allowed to any one candidate. Then we have a nomination coupon which entitles the party to $25.00 providing the candidate you nominate wins the grand prize.

STORM CENTER OF ARMY HANDS IN RESIGNATION

 through military channels, drawing step by step nearer to the White House, where final decision will be made as to its rejection or acceptance, speculation narrowed down to the question of what form of acceptance it would receive. Opinions differed. Some military chiefs believed the resignation would be accepted as presented. Others predicted it would be endorsed to show that the acceptance was "for the good of the service."

 Details of Col. Mitchell's future plans were lacking, due to his refusal to make public announcement before final action on his resignation is taken. His closest friends, however, furnished the foundation for reports that he has entered into a contract for a nationwide lecture tour and later plans to hunt big game in Africa.

Mysterious Bunk
 Once in a blue moon now some bright, old-fashioned cynic says: "Aw, I never read the advertisements. They're full of bunk."
 But when one starts to look for it, the "bunk" in advertising shows a mysterious tendency to be absent. Specimens of it are hard to locate.
 The reason for that is simple. Bad goods cannot be successfully advertised. To stand up under the pitiless glare of publicity, merchandise must be honest. It must live up to its promises. Otherwise you would quickly cease to buy it.
 So advertisers discovered long ago that for them, too, honesty was the best policy. More!—the only possible policy, if they were to remain advertisers!
 Read the advertisements! They are not full of bunk. On the contrary, they are full of honest information and interesting news. They show you ways to be more comfortable. They make life easier. They help you to be happier and healthier. They teach you prices and values.
 No doubt about it—advertisements do you many a service. Read them every day!
Advertisements convey honest information about honest products—it will pay you to read them
