YOUNG GENERATION 'GETTING ON FINE'

University Professor Calls Change With Broken Home Ties Natural

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Feb. 13.—(Special).—With the breaking of home restrictions, lessening of religious controls, freedom of conduct, lack of supervision and the present age of sophistication, the younger generation is certainly "doing as well as could be expected," according to Professor Phillip A. Parsons, professor of sociology.

"The youngsters two generations ago did not have the outside interests of those of today," he said. "They had a definite home life. Their parents' interests were in them, but now adults are so busy with other things that children are secondary. I do not believe that it is entirely the fault of the parents. Children of today are independent of their elders and the latter have to compete for their interest. They feed and dress them, influencing them to a great extent only when they are young.

"I do not believe that attempts to educate adults in the duties of parenthood do much good. The parents are too old to educate now. The curfew law, and other juvenile laws, solve no problem, except in an emergency.

"Children do wrong because they have the chance. If they are left to themselves, unless they have been trained otherwise, they are as likely to do wrong as to do right, and they make social mistakes because the opportunity presents itself. A combination of circumstances may cause juvenile derelictions—vicious associates, immorality of parents, or crime-breeding neighborhoods."

Professor Parsons says there seems to be no concerted effort by society in general to make things better, and conditions are likely to be lots worse before a reconstruction period. People are only talking now, and the real good is done when they begin to organize machinery and furnish funds to bring about change.

"We can't remedy the present condition, but we must impress upon the younger generation the seriousness of marriage and parenthood. Then we must provide publicly for leisure and amusement by community athletic, playgrounds and amusement halls. Something must be done to develop the interest between parents and children.

"The unrest is due to our present day forms of education, our contemporary social systems and commercialized amusements."

"The responsibility for the present day condition can not be centered on one thing, but is a combination of circumstances."

A fine type of child welfare work is now being accomplished by commissions, Dr. Parsons said. The work in Oregon has been well supervised, and much good has resulted. The most constructive work is done by paid workers, while local enterprises and clubs advance the work in the cities.

"The public is now more interested in public welfare and health than in any other large problem.

She Was Skinny Weak and Nervous

The greatest strength-giver and producer of good healthy flesh in the world is Cod Liver Oil—it's full of vitamins.

But it's nasty stuff—ill-smelling and hard to take and usually upsets the stomach.

Thank goodness! we don't have to even smell vile nasty Cod Liver Oil any more, for now J. C. Perry, Central Pharmacy, D. J. Fry and all druggists are selling McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, sugar-coated, and as easy to take as candy, so that you can get the real Cod Liver Oil in condensed form.

Men and women weak, thin and nervous, are urged to put on weight and get back their health and strength with these wonderful tablets.

and I believe, the factor of child welfare will be soon solved.

"I am not in sympathy with the talk of immorality and irresponsibility of the young people. I believe they are doing well considering the claim upon their interests, and I am all for them."

STUDENTS BELIEF IN GOD CHANGED

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Feb. 14.—(Special).—Most students believe in some form of God, declared Sinfaroso G. Padilla, graduate student and assistant in the psychology department, who has prepared a questionnaire to determine to what degree people lose their religious beliefs.

Padilla, whose work is called "The Psychological Study of Religious Beliefs" now being given to students, wants to find out whether persons become more irreligious as they grow older and obtain more education. He hopes to get sufficient material to defend young people and colleges of today from attacks made upon them by religious minded persons.

"Very few students are agnostics or infidels. Most people, in fact, who are real thinkers think of God. I am of the opinion that people do not lose their beliefs by becoming educated; they merely change them."

The questionnaire embraces seven big topics, which are; God, Holy Ghost, Christ, Hell, Heaven, Immortality and the Devil. Under each topic there is a list of questions the answers to which are expected to give the individual's conception of these beliefs.

In order to compare the religious beliefs of persons of different ages, Mr. Padilla is having the questionnaire given to various persons. Besides the university psychology classes, the questionnaire is to be answered by the students of the Eugene Bible university, Eugene high school, Willamette university, and the Kimball School of Theology, Salem, Oregon. Since some of these students have not yet seen the questionnaire the questions are not published. The results will be used as a thesis for getting his master's degree, and Mr. Padilla expects to have them compiled by spring term.

"I have found this study even more interesting," Mr. Padilla remarked, "since Burbank has styled himself an infidel. The most amazing fact I have discovered so far is that a great many students do not know what they believe."

Our Glasses are tested to fit the personality and appearance of the person as well as to fit the eyes.

"WHY SO PARTICULAR?"—asked a woman recently when we were examining her eyes.

"Because failure to be particular and careful may mean more eyestrain and more discomfort instead of the relief and easy vision that result from wearing the right glasses rightly made and rightly fitted."

We have the latest instruments for doing careful, skillful, particular work and the disposition to do it.
