Did You Ever Stop To Think?

By E. B. Waite, Secretary
Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce

Roland F. Andrews, editor of the Worcester, (Massachusetts) Telegram-Gazette, says:

That the amazing thing is not how many mistakes are made by newspapers, but how few. Within the space of a few hours each daily newspaper must collect the news of the entire world from Timbuctoo to Kalamazoo, get it transmitted to the office of publication, get it into type, get it on the printing press and get it delivered on your doorstep. When it reaches there it contains from one hundred thousand to two hundred thousand words of reading matter exclusive of advertisements. Novelists have been known to take a lifetime for the preparation of such material. The newspaper must do it over night.

That newspapers are the very human product of very human men, albeit given to the leading of inhuman lives. Newspaper men know more people to be strangers to than anyone else in the world. They constantly seek to inform themselves upon things in which they have not the slightest personal interest. They have lamps for their suns by night, curtains for their night by day and they eat their suppers in the morning And every day they give to every significant happening in every part of the globe.

Newspapers are our greatest educational force—this despite their tendency to set forth in colors the homical tendencies of the Katzenjammer Kids and the domestic adventures of Andrew Gump—because hour by hour they place before the intelligence of all the world the news of the activities of all the world for the world's intelligent judgment and verdict. No university can do that.
