BOUNTIFUL PROVISION—"Go, and gather up the elders of Israel, together and say unto them, 'I will bring you up out of the affliction of Egypt, unto a land flowing with milk and honey.' Ex. 3:16-17.

NEEDED, A JIM HILL AND A HARRIMAN

Is there no one in the railroad world of the present to take the place of Jim Hill or of E. H. Harriman?

Here is the case of the managers of the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company making a proposition to the farmers of the Salem district that their company will absorb part of the beet sugar factory at Bellingham, Wash., provided the railroad companies will absorb a dinky part of it—

The growers themselves to absorb 50 cents a ton. Our growers are willing and anxious to accept the proposition. If the campaign could have been started when the proposal was first broached, nearly three weeks ago, 2500 acres could have been signed up; the minimum acreage being 500; because it would not be feasible to provide receiving facilities for less.

But there was a hitch in the acceptance of the railroad managers of their dinky share in absorbing part of the freight rate—

Which would amount merely in giving up a small portion of the profits which they surely cannot have at all without the growing of the beets to ship—

Though the Great Northern was represented at the conference when the proposition was broached.

It may be that the right man has not been informed of the situation—the right railroad manager—

For there must be some one in the higher railroad circles of this territory who has the authority to decide such a matter off hand—

And if there is not, there surely should be.

As it is, the matter is put off till next Tuesday, the 9th, for some kind of a conference. The same proposition was up last year—

And it fell through because it evidently never reached any one but the pin-heads of the railroad circles; men without either authority or vision, or ability to unwind or cut a mass of red tape.

Here is a proposition that will mean some freight revenue this year, and a beet sugar factory next year—

If it is not smothered in red tape or allowed to die for the want of some man of vision in railroad circles.

If C. H. Markham were in charge in Oregon, it would be settled; would have been settled the day it was proposed.

Even yet, after next Tuesday, the thing can be put over, for 500 acres, and perhaps 2500, if there are not further delays.

In the mean time, let us hope for a reincarnation of the spirit of a Jim Hill or a Harriman, or that there is now in northwest railroad circles a Markham. Mr. Markham was in charge of the Southern Pacific lines in Oregon, and he made friends with all of our people, because he saw their needs and worked with them in development projects of every kind. That disposition made him one of the chief national figures in railroad management during the World war, and elevated him to the position he now holds of president of the Illinois Central, with headquarters at Chicago.

BIRTHDAY OF THE TELEPHONE

The following card has been received by the millions of telephone patrons of the United States:

AN INVITATION from the Telephone Employees to our BIRTHDAY OBSERVANCE, MARCH 10th:

"On March 10, 1876, the first sentence was spoken over the telephone by Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor, in his attic workshop in Boston.

"Only fifty years later—on this March 10, 1926—the 360,000 men and women who supply the every-hour, human effort in linking together, as in one great neighborhood, America's 16,000,000 telephones, will unite in a nation-wide observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the telephone.

"It will give added pleasure to those of us who are privileged to aid in making your telephone an important part of this great service to have you, together with your family or friends, visit on March 10th, the central office which serves your telephone. You will find an acquaintance with the equipment and methods employed in your service both interesting and mutually helpful.

The following accompanying note came to The Statesman from the Salem telephone office:

"Fifty years ago today there was no telephone. Fifty years ago on Wednesday, March 10, the telephone became a demonstrated reality.

"Re-enforcing the printed invitation notice from the men and women of the local telephone organization, received yesterday by the customers of the service, posters were yesterday placed in telephone office windows and on company bulletin boards expressing the hope that the public would join in helping to commemorate this March 10th birthday event.

"The poster speaks of the nation wide observance of the occasion in which will unite the 360,000 men and women who supply the every hour human effort in linking together, as in one great neighborhood, America's 16,000,000 telephones. Such is the growth in 50 years from the two original telephone men and the two crude telephone instruments of March, 1876.

"Speaking on behalf of the employees, who are the real hosts of the occasion, Manager W. H. Dancy of the Telephone company said that the hours when visitors would find it best to visit the central office will be from 9 a. m. to 7 p. m.

"It will be next Wednesday," said Mr. Dancy, "and we hope that the day will bring a large response from our patrons and friends."

PUBLICATION SUMMONS

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Marion. Equitable Savings & Loan Association, a corporation, Plaintiff, vs. Roscoe Farmer, Hazel Farmer, his wife; B. S. Burke, Maude May Burke, his wife; Frances Allerton and United States National Bank of Salem, Oregon, Defendants.

To Roscoe Farmer, Hazel Farmer and Frances Allerton, defendants:

In the name of the State of Oregon: You are hereby required to appear and plead to the amended complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit on or before the date of the last day of publication of summons herein, to-wit: On or before the 16th day of April, 1926, and if you fail to appear and plead to said amended complaint within said time, for want thereof the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief prayed for in its complaint, to-wit:

(a) For a judgment against the defendants, Roscoe Farmer and Hazel Farmer and each of them for the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) with interest thereon from December 10, 1925, at the rate of eight per cent (8%) per annum.

(b) That the pretended transfer of the note and mortgage securing the same executed by defendants B. S. Burke and Maude May Burke in favor of defendants Roscoe Farmer and Hazel Farmer by said Roscoe Farmer and Hazel Farmer to defendant, Frances Allerton be decreed to be null and void and of no force and effect as to this plaintiff, and that the payments of the sums provided to be paid by defendants B. S. Burke and Maude May Burke to defendants Roscoe Farmer and Hazel Farmer in said note be paid to this plaintiff to be applied upon the judgment herein rendered against the defendants Roscoe Farmer and Hazel Farmer in favor of this plaintiff.

(c) That pending final determination of this suit the defendants, Roscoe Farmer and Hazel Farmer, be enjoined from transferring the note and mortgage executed by defendants B. S. Burke and Maude May Burke to said Roscoe Farmer and Hazel Farmer; the defendants B. S. Burke and Maude May Burke be enjoined from paying to the defendant Roscoe Farmer or Frances Allerton any moneys due upon said note; that the defendant United States National Bank of Salem, Oregon, be enjoined from delivering the said note and mortgage to Roscoe Farmer or Hazel Farmer or permitting the said note and mortgage from being withdrawn from said bank or the jurisdiction of this court.

(d) This summons is served upon you by publication in The Oregon Statesman (daily) for six successive and consecutive weeks pursuant to an order made and entered by the Honorable L. H. McMahan, judge of above entitled court, on the 4th day of March, 1926.

Date of first publication, March 5th, 1926.

Date of last publication, April 16, 1926.

Who's Who In Salem Debate

A ticket selling campaign, to raise funds to meet expenses in the trans-continental debate between Salem, Massachusetts and Salem, Oregon, is being conducted by high school students and business men who see outstanding advertising value in the contest.

That readers may know more of these student speakers, a short biography of each will be printed here in alphabetical order.—(Editorial Note).

to send in your nomination if you have not already done so. Any one can win this radio right now. The contest will last just six more weeks. Every one has an equal chance. A few subscriptions will secure many more votes now than any time later.

Now is the time! For further information call the contest editor at The Statesman office.

Each day or so in the paper appears the names of the candidates and their standing. Not by any means are they all working, but their nomination has been turned in, and until we get around to see them all, we cannot say who is working and who is not.

The plan of the campaign has been made just as easy as possible to be fair and consistent to the interests of all candidates. Those who roll up the largest number of votes during the competition will win the best awards. The awards to be given the successful candidates include the $1115 Dodge sedan, Chevrolet and Ford touring cars, an electric Haag washing machine, and purses of gold. Then, to every active candidate who does not win a car or one of the stated cash prizes there is 10 per cent on all subscriptions the candidate produces.

To you married men who are doing your utmost to give your families the best there is in life, and who must continually be looking for the money-making opportunities.

To you married women who, although you may have housework duties to take care of, still feel that you are a partner in the home and want to do your part in these days of financial stringency or want to own a home of your own—

To you young women who realize that women worth-while are those who do things are factors in the world instead of idlers—

To every one who desires some of the better things in life—a car, a start in business, or anything else that money can buy—may we not suggest that you read and consider the money-making opportunities that exist in The Statesman's "Everybody Wins Something" campaign? Act! Don't wait until it is too late. Act now! Send in your nomination blank or phone in your name, or come in—make more money for yourself in the next few weeks than most people make in a year; yes, in two years—more than many of us save in years and years.

Campaign closes and all prizes, motor cars, washing machine, and cash, will be distributed in just a few short weeks.

And remember, there is also given a club of 100,000 extra votes to the candidate who turns in $15 worth of subscriptions. So you can readily see how fast your vote will count up. Come in to the Statesman office and see the radio. Do not let this opportunity slip by. It may mean the radio or one of the cars, or both.

Bits For Breakfast

Going out and going in— Hundreds of bushels of flax seed from the prison flax plant, going out to the farms and going into the ground.

The contracts are being closed up fast now, and the acreage will be all taken soon. So you would better hurry if you expect to grow flax. No contracts will be made for late sowing, except in special cases where growers have suitable soil, or can irrigate.

It would probably interest some readers to know that the subscription contest of The Statesman is twice as large in amount of business as the one two years ago, at this stage—and that one was a record breaker.

Dink Minter of Salem says light wines and beer will never solve the liquor problem as long as there are a lot of ginks who persist in drinking the acid out of their radio and automobile batteries.

Statesman Slogan man has been saying for years that the mint center of the United States was going to be at Salem. Some people thought the Slogan man was excited; had bats in his belfry. But it is coming fast now. Must come. We have the natural conditions—can grow mint that makes the most peppermint oil to the acre, of a higher grade, and at a lower cost. We have the world licked on mint three ways—and nothing can stop a combination like that. It is, in the language of the street, a "dead mortal cinch."

Speaking for the steenth times a millionth time about our poultry boom: Lloyd A. Lee started his hatchery and poultry farm a couple of miles east of the insane asylum about three years ago, with a few incubators. Last year he added a Smith machine, with a capacity of nearly 50,000 eggs. He was flooded, covered up with orders for baby chicks. He did not want to go so fast, but he felt obliged to add a duplicate Smith incubating machine for this year—giving him a total capacity of nearly 100,000 eggs. That looked pretty big—but he is again swamped with orders; can't begin to fill them all. And the poultry boom is not going to stop. It is just getting fairly under way.

Straighten Up! Nicest Laxative, "Cascarets" 10c

Don't stay head-achy, dizzy, sick. Nothing else troubles that bilious, constipated feeling so nicely as candy-like "Cascarets." Take one or two of these pleasant laxative tablets any time to gently stimulate your liver and start your bowels. Then you will feel fine, your head becomes clear, stomach sweet, tongue pink, skin rosy.

"Cascarets" gently cleanse, sweeten and refresh the entire system. They never gripe, over-act or sicken. Directions for men, women and children on each box, any drug store—Adv.

DINNER STORIES

An advertisement manager was going home one night in a tram-car. It was late, and the man who sat next to him began to talk. "What business are you in?" he asked.

"The advertising business." "Is that so? I used to be in the advertising business myself. I gave it up, though, and went into the rag-and-old-bottle business. I was a sandwich man for a theater for six months. Say," and he leaned over confidentially, "ain't it hard work when the wind blows?"

A sergeant was trying to drill a lot of raw recruits, and after working hard for three hours he thought they seemed to be getting into some sort of shape, so decided to test them.

"Right turn!" he cried. Then, before they had ceased to move, came another order, "Left turn!" One hoodlum left the ranks and started off toward the barracks-room.

"Here, you!" yelled the angry sergeant. "Where are you going?"

"I've had enough," replied the recruit in a disgusted tone. "You don't know your own mind for two minutes runnin'!"

The little boy dashed wildly around the corner, and collided with the benevolent old gentleman, who inquired the cause of such haste.

"I gotta git home fer maw to spank me," the boy panted. "Bless my soul!" exclaimed the old gentleman. "I can't understand your being in such a hurry to be spanked."

"I ain't. But if I don't git there fore paw, he'll gimme the lickin'."

CONTRACTS LET FOR AIRPLANE MOTORS

The 150 Packard engines covered by the newest contract developed by the company in cooperation with navy experts after three years' work. They will go into heavy bombing, scouting and torpedo planes to be placed aboard the carriers, while an additional order for 75 500 horsepower Packards will provide more power for part of the fighting planes to be included in the Air Fleet of the converted battle cruisers.

Plane contracts already placed include 27 Boeing patrol ships, 35 Curtiss fighting planes, 10 Loening amphibians, 24 Martin combined scout and torpedo planes and 20 "consolidated" training planes.

A contract also has been placed for 95 Wright "Tornado" engines while the contracts still to be placed include 100 bombers and 27 additional Loening amphibians.

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

By E. B. Waite, Secretary Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce

That as spring progresses the tourist germ starts its work.

That it makes the automobilist set out his maps and figure out the trip he will make this summer.

That he reads everything that tells of wonderful scenery and of the invigorating climate of other sections.

That some of them need complete rest.

That others need considerable activity.

That all of them think they need a change of scenery.

That your city is fortunately situated in that respect, because it is located in a section where anyone can find any number of attractive places to spend a vacation.

There are many wonder-spots in your section that are easily accessible by automobile. It is always best to know your own section of the country first.
