SEE PREJUDICE TEST CASE UP

Washington county is made the defendant in the action brought by U'Ren, who charges that an affidavit of prejudice was filed against Judge Bagley in a divorce proceeding, but that he refused to retire from the case and request the appointment of another judge by the supreme court. Judge Bagley in his answer in the action, declares that the law providing for certificates of prejudice is unconstitutional and that it places a restriction upon the courts and jurists in the regular departments of the circuit courts of the state. Judge Bagley's position is that merely because a motion of prejudice has been filed, it should not be mandatory upon the jurist in question to turn the case over to another member of the bench, but that his judgement in the matter should be acted upon and his decision as to competency should be optional with the presiding judge. Mr. U'Ren's position as plaintiff in the action is said to be merely that of a party, disinterested in the original case in which the prejudice motion was filed, seeking to make a test case of the statute.

No incident of a like nature has yet arisen in Marion county courts. A short time ago, however, a motion of prejudice was filed against Circuit Judge Percy R. Kelly by attorneys for the defendants in the Mount Angel still case, and Judge Kelly immediately notified the chief justice of the supreme court to have another jurist assigned to the case. The appointment of Judge Thomas was made last week.

There is much interest in the matter in legal circles of the state and the hearing is looked forward to by those closely associated with legal procedure.

LOOKS AT RING, RUNS OWNERS ASK ARREST

came last fall when he was tried before the city court on a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. He was found not guilty at that time. On October 12, 1925, Waldespiel was charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Date was set for his trial. Then it was postponed. Then postponement followed postponement, until the case became what is thought the longest drawn out in the history of the city court.

Finally, about the time Carl was to receive his trial, he was in an accident which laid him up for nearly two months. By the time he was again on his feet, 1926 had rolled around and had received a glorious start. Then came a charge of driving

Civil War Hero Comes Home to Die After 35 Years in Honduras Exile

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Major Edward A. Burke, one time Confederate hero and treasurer of his state, who as been a fugitive from justice in Honduras 35 years, is coming home, free, because the law has decided that he may come home to die.

When Major Burke, who earned his title by brave service in the Confederate army, fled to Honduras he was a fine figure of a man, the friend and associate of the best blood in Louisiana and a powerful political leader. He will return a crushed man, past 80, broken in health, with a fortune he won in Honduras depleted.

The wife who followed him to Honduras is dead. For years, say friends who have kept track of him, he has longed for the day when he could set foot on American soil. Even when he was prosperous in the hiding place where the law could not touch him, he was not satisfied. When he went to Honduras that country had no extradition treaty with the with four in the front seat of an auto against a driver, one of whose passengers is said to have been Waldespiel. The police blotter shows no disposition of the case. Finally, it was thought the Waldespiel case would come up for trial. But, according to Judge Poulsen, the charge was reduced to reckless driving, and Waldespiel was fined $100. The minimum sentence for driving while intoxicated is $100 fine and 60 days in jail.

SUB WITHSTANDS TESTS

COLLOSSUS OF NAVY SUBMERGED TO 200 FOOT LEVEL

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 5. (By Associated Press.)—The submarine V-1, the collossus of Uncle Sam's undersea navy, successfully was submerged today to the 200 foot level, the maximum at which she is supposed to operate.

The submerging tests were conducted by three submarine experts some 20 miles out where the ocean floor 200 feet below the surface is comparatively level for a considerable space. The submarine with nearly 100 men aboard, was taken first to the 125 foot level, where observations were made. By stages of 25 feet the dive was completed to the 200 foot level where the craft was held motionless for a short time. At 200 feet, the water exerted a pressure of 88.5 pounds at every square inch of its surface, causing the hull to creak and groan.

United States. When the treaty was signed it was not retroactive. So he was safe.

He fled because he knew the power of political enemies and their long memories. He had lived and fought through long, bitter political battles which left a mark upon the state. Now most of his enemies are gone.

The charge against him, the specific one, was the embezzlement of $10,000 belonging to the state. There was another charge, something to do with "baby bonds," and through some manipulation which is not clear to the present day, the state was forced to repudiate a bond issue. For years investors looked askance at Louisiana bonds and the Santos still hold that reputation against the state.
