

VAUDEVILLE TO BE AT THE HEILIG TODAY

Versatile Actors Present Five Excellent Bills on Varied Program

Vaudeville enthusiasts will see another brilliant program heralded as a high class troupe of entertainers presenting comedy, songs, dancing and gymnastic feats at the Heilig theatre today.

One of the many good ones is the Ankar Trio in "Athletic Pastimes at Sea." They will undoubtedly prove their offering to be educational and entertaining to those who witness the performance of this versatile athletic trio. A feature of the act is the girl who will more than surprise you. Curt Galloway in "The Wandering One" presents a comedy hobo act of the highest type with a big surprise opening, the best material in songs, parodies and talk with special scenery. Leo & Gladys make their appearance in "The Music Shop." This act consists of singing, comedy talk and eccentric dancing with a few novelty instrumental numbers introduced. Dale & Adair specialize in black-face comedy, songs and patter. They are past masters in the art of impersonating the Ethiopian and will produce many a good laugh. Frank Curran & Co., in "The Monopede Marvel" has a surprise novelty consisting of talking, dancing and sensational leaping together with refined comedy. Frank Curran is a splendid example of overcoming physical difficulties.

West Salem

Mrs. Alice Wood attended a shower given by Mrs. Arthur Oldenberg for Miss Eva Roberts, Sunday.

Frank Bittin and mother, Mrs. Stein, moved to their new home on 7th street and Johnson avenue Monday. The new dwelling is quite attractive in appearance.

Tree pruning is now under way. Fred W. Scurs and W. J. Green having had some done.

Our auto painter and decorator, John Thomas, makes cars look like new.

A petition is being circulated asking the city to put a railroad crossing at Rosemont street.

Community hall is being well patronized at the weekly gatherings. Some inner improvements have lately been made. Also an outside name sign.

S. L. Burke of Dallas has purchased the Lewis auto camp, and is cleaning up the grounds and removing the brush and some of the smaller trees. He is planning to construct some additional buildings later. His purchase includes "Mellow Moon" dance hall and about a rod of adjoining ground north.

Ralph Frakes has arrived from Grants Pass and is now with his invalid aunt Mrs. J. R. Shields. He is giving much needed assistance about the premises.

C. S. Ruge, superintendent of our city water system, is removing the small conducting pipes and replacing them by two-inch ones in the alley between 5th and 6th streets. The extent is from Johnson avenue nearly to Division street.

There are many tokens of spring on this side. Peach trees and maples are putting forth bud and flower. Robins and meadow larks are catching the inspiration of awaking nature. Even the domestic cat joins in the glad chorus—mostly at night.

There are now installed on the school campus basket ball goals.

Mrs. Hurt has disposed of her home on 5th and Division streets to Mr. Ried of Salem who will remodel the house or rebuild.

Mrs. D. O. Ruff of Lincoln county is visiting her mother Mrs. Mary Davis on 5th street.

Miss Hannah Holzruss expects to return home Sunday from work in Lebanon. She had her tonsils removed the other day.

MOST MOVIE STARS SAID BUSINESSLIKE

Free Lancing a Handicap for This Reason, Norma Shearer Declares

An actress can do her best work only when she is established at one studio, and does not have to worry over financial matters.

At least this is what Norma Shearer believes, and she ought to know, for she has free-lanced, and is now under contract as a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star.

"Most actresses are not business women," declares Miss Shearer, "and cannot stand the strain of looking for work and filling an engagement simultaneously. Their minds are taken up with financial matters when they should be concentrated upon their roles."

"When a girl is under contract to a large, responsible organization such as M-G-M, she has but one responsibility, to give the best in her to each performance. There is no quibbling over money matters, only the detail of calling for her check, like any other working girl."

Miss Shearer is appearing in the leading role of "His Secretary," the Obart Henley production playing at the Heilig theater. Lew Cody has the male lead.

Hazel Green

The Woman's Missionary association will meet at the home of Mrs. Alvin Van Cleave Thursday March 11, at 2 o'clock. Mrs. C. A. Van Cleave, leader. The study book, prayer and missions will be used. This is the annual business meeting.

bers of the committee. But such drainage, according to Hugh Rogers, city engineer, would cost at most, $6,000. Besides, as the land in question is under water but a few weeks each year, and is not right near to the actual site of the school building, it was held the drainage will not be necessary for some time to come.

If the property owners of the city vote to purchase the site, the school building will be placed on the northwest corner. The tentative plans are to make it finally an L-shaped structure. The first unit would be but a part of this, however.

When several of the persons in attendance had remarked that the Parrish site is ideal for the school. Dr. Ollinger stated: "It is due to Superintendent George Hug that Parrish has the fine site it has."

Someone raised the question of improvement of the present Lincoln school. Mr. Hug explained that on the special election ballot for rise in teachers' pay there is also an item of $10,000 to be used largely for maintenance and repair. He stated that part of this would undoubtedly be used for the improvement of Lincoln school.

It appears that some of the parents are objecting to the "rats running rampant in the basements." Also, the overflow of the sewer in the basements is said to be a point for concern.

Although the residents want the site, they are agreed unanimously and heartily that the Lincoln site is not to be done away with.

Old Hair Market Is Hit by Wave of Bobbed Hair

LOS ANGELES.—The bobbed flapper has created a market upset and, as a result, the natives of China and India, who have held a virtual monopoly in materials for America's wigs and toupes, may yet be forced to compete for a place in the mattress trade.

For this city, a center of hair buying in the United States, and make-up now sells for more than a third less than in the days before the bob.

The bob works two ways on the market. First, many bobbed tresses find their way into wigs and more of them into toupes; secondly, the widespread trimming of feminine locks has lessened the demand for switches, transformations, false curls and many of the other more or less successful artifices employed by the fair sex.

Sunday Night Suppers

No doubt, you have all spent much time in thinking what you shall serve for Sunday night supper. Really it is one of the easiest meals to plan, because as a rule, you usually serve a heavy meal at noon on Sunday and it being rather late, you do not want very much for supper. It may consist of one hot dish or something left from dinner, some dainty sandwiches, jelly, fruit, cake and tea or hot chocolate, or a simple salad of some kind.

A good idea is to use meat or chicken left from dinner in your hot dish such as chicken a la king, or creamed on toast, or you may use cold sliced pork or beef for a hot toasted sandwich or in combination with some vegetable as a casserole dish.

If you have any unexpected callers, resort to your store of canned goods, and have some good hot cream of tomato soup with possibly potato salad, bread, butter, jelly, some kind of canned fruit as peaches or pineapple and cake or cookies, tea or coffee. You always have cake or cookies baked for over Sunday.

To prepare a third meal is rather burdensome, and yet, to go without food until Monday morning breakfast is too long a stretch. So the Sunday night supper welcomes one of two things—either a makeshift, a pick-up lunch in the kitchen or a little more formal, where you serve a little more food to your callers in the dining room.

In hot weather it is very simple to prepare something, refreshing and appetizing such as a dainty salad, for sandwiches and a pitcher of cold lemonade with the assistance of a tea wagon, the serving is very simple.

When the days are cool and you have a fireplace, it is an ideal place for the family to gather and have their Sunday night lunch. Having the food all on a tea wagon and everyone helping themselves.

I know of a family where there are several members, where something substantial and plenty of it is required, and their Sunday night supper usually consists of waffles and syrup, then some dessert, cake and hot chocolate or tea. They are a very happy group, and to me it is a great pleasure to be invited to their home on Sunday night.

Some Fine Ideas

The following suggestions were written primarily for the use of women on farms, but I believe they will be equally valuable to city dwellers.

When canned salmon is left over, I pour over it some vinegar (need not be strong), slightly salted. Then next day I make a salad of chopped cabbage, hard boiled egg, the salmon minced fine with a little raw onion and use this salad to make salmon-salad sandwiches for the lunches.

I discovered that by shaving a common candle into hot, clear water and allowing it to cool to the point at which it could be handled and then washing the filament in the usual manner, it would keep glossy.

We have the bottom step of our cellar painted white. This saves bad stumbles and falls as the painted step always shows.

Clothes will not freeze to the line if you add a handful of salt to the rinsing water.

If you use holders in your kitchen, try making them round.

The corners of the square holder now and then dip into the food. With the round holder this is avoided.

Hang on a nail in the kitchen a roll of gummed paper such as is used in making dress forms. Label your fruit jars with it, jelly glasses, mark the plates and pans taken to neighborhood gatherings, mend books and music, do up packages, etc.

I keep six spring clothespins in my sewing table drawer. When the many pieces and trimmings for a garment are cut, I clip them together with a clothespin which does not leave a mark as pins do. Cut out everything necessary for one garment and sometimes three or four garments, clip together all pieces belonging to each before beginning to sew. In this way there is no losing of parts.
