

DOUBLING SIZE OF THE PUGH FACTORY

Twice the Capacity of Last Year, and Twice the Business Is in Sight

C. J. Pugh & Co., 520 South Twenty-first street, are doubling the size of their factory, and more than doubling the capacity of it, to turn out the canning equipment manufactured.

The original building was 30 by 50 feet, and the new addition is of the same size. There is a new table saw to be put in, new iron cutter, sanding machine, etc., etc.

This company commenced operating last year in that location and they turned out a number of machines used in canneries. They made and sold three of their stock type fruit graders and a number of their big pear systems. Among their big pear system sales were the following:

One to New Westminster, B. C., one to Bellingham, Wash., one to Mt. Vernon, Wash., one to Wenatchee, Wash., and two to Yakima, Wash. These all went to canneries.

New inventions for the pear systems and for other machines for canneries have been made since last year. A machine has recently been sent to Kent, Wash.

A big pear system is under construction on order now, and a stock type grader for grading figs is going to Redley, Cal.

These graders and pear systems almost think. They wash and sort the fruit as it goes through, and deliver it in proper sizes and clean, doing the work of many men and women, and doing it better.

One of the ideas in some of the machines invented by Mr. Pugh, and turned out by his company at the 21st street factory may be seen in operation in the canning season at the big Hunt cannery on Front street.

But Mr. Pugh has a number of patents for different machines, saving labor and doing rapid and efficient work in canneries—time and money savers.

Inquiries are coming from long distances.

It looks like the Pugh factory will have to be enlarged a good many more times in the future. There are acres of room there, belonging to the company.

PICTURE HAILED AS TRAGICALLY FUNNY

Full Two Hours of Mirth Is Offered in Christie Comedy at the Oregon

The two hours of mirth, which an audience will derive from the Al Christie presentation, "Seven Days," due to open at the Oregon theatre today for a two day run, wouldn't appear in the uproariously funny aspect it does, should it actually happen in one's own home—and without the direction of Scott Sidney to bring it to a happy and successful ending.

The young divorced couple, played by Lilyan Tashman and Creighton Hale, find themselves constantly in hot water from beginning, almost to the end of the piece. An unexpected visit from a rich aunt of Hale's, closely followed by smallpox which quarantines the whole party rally in session when the Aunt arrives, doesn't add to the general mental comfort.

"Seven Days" is an adaptation from the famous New York stage success by Avery Hopwood and Mary Roberts Rinehart. Others in the cast are Lillian Rich, Mabel Julienne Scott, Hallam Cooley, William Austin and Tom Wilson.

Laughing Riot at the Oregon

"Seven Days," hailed as the laughing riot of the year, is to be shown at the Oregon theatre today and Friday. Press notices proclaim the picture as "a riotous farce, centered around a serious domestic situation, presented in a manner which makes 'Seven Days' a tearfully laughable screen comedy." It is dramatized for the screen from the famous stage farce by Mary Roberts Rinehart.

country when the "wet" press and the paid propagandists of booze are forgotten dust.
There are, of course, aspects of the question which will come up for discussion in the future, but they will emerge from a "dry" country and not, as at present, from a "wet" propaganda. There will occur no concessions whatever as the result of a struggle between "wet" and "dry." When there shall have ceased to be such a thing as "wet" in the liquor sense in this country, then the things that remain to be done shall be done. There should be no mistake about that. The abolition of the commercialized liquor trade in this country is as final as the abolition of slavery. These are the two great reforms to which moral America committed itself from the beginning of its history.
One fact cannot be evaded in this question: for the first time the liquor evil is where it can be controlled. This was not true when it was legalized. The entire history of the legalized "traffic," as it once was called, is a story of attempts at and failures of control. Protected by a government license, in partnership, as it were, with the government of the United States; the ally of every harmful political movement in the country, the liquor traffic was entirely out of control. It could not be made to obey even the common regulations, such as forbidding children to frequent bars.
But under prohibition everyone knows just where the liquor business stands—it is an outlaw. It has no more rights than burglary, incendiarism or any other crime. There was a time when the people of any neighborhood had to put up with it. No one has to do that now. Any neighborhood, any city, can be cleansed of this blot.

church has been replaced by one of the finest churches in the community. Perhaps the outstanding achievement of Brother Whitaker's work here is that during his entire stay, there has been no division nor strife. We have found his sermons and teachings to be sound and of the highest ideals. He leaves soon for Salem, Oregon, the entire family take with them the best possible wishes of the church board and the entire congregation.

The Ponca City News, in commenting upon his departure says: "Ponca City will lose one of its greatest religious leaders March 15, when Rev. E. C. Whitaker, pastor of the First Christian church, departs for Salem, Ore., where he has accepted another pastorate. His successor has not been chosen.

The Christian church, one of the finest and most complete structures of its kind in the southwest, stands as a monument to the achievement of Whitaker since he came to Ponca City, September 1, 1920, five and a half years ago. The parsonage and church building, equipped with gymnasium, kitchen and every modern convenience, cost $118,000.

"Growth of the church membership through Whitaker's efforts has, of course, contributed largely to the better equipment. When he came here the membership was 300. Since then 1200 memberships have been added, and, despite the usual withdrawals, the rolls still carry 1200 names. Average Sabbath school attendance when Whitaker arrived was 125 to 130 persons, whereas the average for 1925 was 618."

"CRIMINAL RECORD" TO BE EXPOSED AT MEET

parts where "the people" are is so great that if editors should realize it, the liquor odor would be as carefully banished from the printed page as from the individual breath.
The gap between the people and their leaders is great in every field and growing greater, but nowhere is it more discernible than in this matter of liquor. Leaders are still for it, and the people are now, as they ever have been, against it. When the gap becomes wide enough, the people will put forth new leaders who have eyes to see the higher trends of the new time.

One has the privilege of withdrawing from the individual whose conversation, allusions, jokes, asphens and interest center around liquor. We don't have to listen to him. He lacks an audience except among those of his kind. But the newspaper and theater seem to feel that they have a special mission to make the people listen in public to the kind of thing they reject in private. The people will not submit to this imposition once they understand how the wires are pulled.

In common decency the liquor generation should be allowed to die in silence. Its agonies should not be one of the daily topics of American journalism. Prohibition was not intended to save those who had willfully and gladly sold themselves to alcohol; it was intended to save the country and generations yet to come. There are a million boys growing up in the United States who have never seen a saloon and who will never know the handicap of liquor either in themselves or their relatives. And this excellent condition will go on spreading itself over the

SUBNORMALS NEED DRASTIC HANDLING

Superintendent of State Institution Says Efficiency Is Decreasing

Sterilization of subnormal individuals is remedy to the decreasing efficiency of the human race, in the opinion of Dr. J. M. Smith, superintendent of the Oregon state school for the feeble minded. He addressed the Salem Rotarians at their luncheon Wednesday noon.
"Insanity is a disease and may be cured in some instances. But feeble mindedness is a defect. It is absolutely incurable.
"Hereditarily is the principal factor in feeble mindedness. If an individual springs from two intelligent parents, he is almost sure to have intelligence himself. If he springs from two sub-normal minded persons, he is bound to be subnormal. If only one of his parents is subnormal, the chances are he will be subnormal.
"The United States is the paradise for the criminal. Why? Because we admitted in our early days all sorts of individuals. A generous part of these were mentally deficient. They have propagated their kind with rapidity. It is the mentally deficient who make up the large body of our criminals."
There is a big difference between education and instruction, Dr. Smith asserted. Education means drawing out, while instruction means drawing in. "There are many in the country's colleges being 'taught at the expense of the state who have no business there."

It was during this discussion that Representative Somers, democrat, New York, introduced the resolution calling for a referendum on modification of the Volstead act, which would be effected through a poll of registered voters in each congressional district by its representative in the house. Ballots and franked envelopes for the purpose would be furnished each member. Fireworks in the senate started when Senator Bruce offered for the record, for the second successive day, a clipping giving the latest results in the newspaper poll on prohibition. A wave

Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, dry leader, thereupon made a threat made yesterday afternoon in the record exhibits in the show that prohibition was such a failure, including an editorial headed "Lincoln, the Prohibitionist."
"This brought objections from Senator Reed, who asked the nature of the article, explaining he did "not want history falsified." After an argument, Senator Willis shouted, "all right, hand the editorial back here and I'll read it myself."
Senator Reed objected to that procedure and an argument started. Vice President Dawes cut it short with announcement that the rule called for a vote on the Willis request without debate, and over the protest of the Missouri senator, he invoked this rule. The senate decided that the Ohio senator should read the editorial.
Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, pointed out that every page of the Congressional Record costs about $18; and Senator Bruce reported that "correct information on this subject" would save the government $25,000,000 a year which is being expended in its vain and futile effort to enforce prohibition.
Senator Glass challenged the correctness of Senator Bruce's information and the latter remarked that the Virginia member's opinion "does not give absolute finality to an opinion on any subject."
"If the senator charges me with foisting incorrect information on the congressional record, he is out of order," Senator Bruce added.
Senator Glass asked whether Senator Bruce knew "anything more about the correctness of the figures than I know?"
