Oregon Head Coach Divides Honors With California, Washington

Player	Position	Place
Schuss	F	Wash.
Higgins	F	Calif.
Okerberg	C	Ore.
Dixon	G	Calif.
Westergren	G	Ore.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, March 23.—(Special.)—William "Billy" Reinhart, head coach of the University of Oregon basketball team which won the Northwest section title and lost the Coast conference championship to California, picked the five named as his mythical All-coast quintet for 1926.

Reinhart was chosen by the sports writers of the university to select the five players he thought were the outstanding men in the conference.

In picking Schuss of Washington for a forward berth, Reinhart stated that he is one of the hardest men in the conference to keep from scoring. He is of the rugged type and able to withstand a season of hard playing and lots of games. He is a good dribbler, shooter and is aggressive. His defense and offense are well balanced.

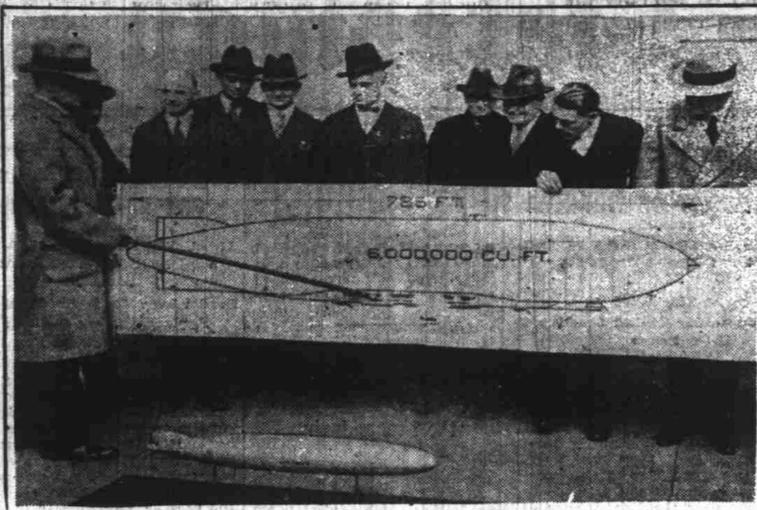

Higgins was given the other forward position because of his height, long shooting ability. He is an all-round man good both on defense and offense. He has been playing center for California all season and was named on one all-coast team at this position. Reinhart shifted him to forward because he is an outstanding player and had a lot to do with California's winning the championship. But he and Okerberg were both centers and one had to be shifted. Higgins is not quite the finished all-around basketball player Okerberg is as he is weak at dribbling.

Okerberg of Oregon was named at center in place of Higgins because he is one of the best dribblers and follow-up shooters in the conference. Okie led in individual scoring honors in the northwest. He plays with less effort than almost any other man on the coast and is able to withstand a hard grind in a schedule.

Dixon of California was given the guard berth because of his aggressiveness, speed and worth to his team.

To Westergren of Oregon goes a place to which no candidate on the coast could even run a close second. Every coach or critic chose Westergren for the other guard position on the mythical five. He is small, but is one of the fastest players in the conference. He is what Reinhart terms "a ball hawk." It was Swede who led the Oregon attack and kept up the speed of the game. He was

Navy Ready to Build Greatest Air Battleships

Congress is being asked by the navy to appropriate for two 6,000,000 cubic-foot dirigibles (three the size of the late Shenandoah) which would be flying arsenals in time of war, fully protected with machine guns and small cannon against the most modern fighting planes. No other country has airships so large. Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of navy bureau of aeronautics, is seen (with pointer) showing members of house naval affairs committee size of proposed machines as compared with the Shenandoah.

inch in diameter—a total of 200 holes—and lose but 25 per cent of her gas volume in five hours, although during that time she continues to carry out her mission.

Non-inflammable helium, developed by the United States as a buoyant gas for airships in place of explosive hydrogen, would insure, of course, that even incendiary enemy bullets would not send the dirigible down in flames, says Admiral Moffett.

Filled with helium, an airship of this type could fly at 50 knots an hour from the Pacific coast to the Hawaiian Islands with a military load of 43 tons, it is estimated. At 70 knots she could arrive in Hawaii with a military load of 34 tons.

If necessary she could carry six fighting planes, weighing a ton and one-half each, 5,000 nautical miles at 50 knots an hour and still have a reserve of fuel good for another 1200 miles at the same speed.

Inflated with hydrogen, the same ship could better all these performance 40 to 60 per cent, experts aver.

While pleased at the prospects of the navy being strengthened in the air, army men hope that the land branches needs will not be overlooked. Representative Morin of Pennsylvania, chairman of the house military affairs committee, has a bill calling for construction of 2200 army planes in the next five years.

also one of the elite in individual scoring honors.

Following the Oregon-California two-game series for the coast conference, Clarence "Nibs" Price chose an all-star team for the series. On his team were Watson and Higgins, forwards; Okerberg, center; and Dixon and Westergren, guards. He hadn't seen Schuss of Washington play this year and thus gave the forward to Watson.

Reinhart wouldn't chose a second team because of the closeness of the competitors. However, he would give honorable mention to Gunther of Oregon, forward; Miles, Idaho, forward; Hillman, Montana, center; Baker, O. A. C., guard; Jost, Oregon, guard. As these were named first by him the writers name them as the second five.

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., March 23.—"If that boy can keep home plate in sight, watch him go," remarked Jimmy Austin to me as we watched Stewart O'Neal Bolen, young southpaw hurler, do his stuff in the daily workouts of the Browns.

And young Mr. Bolen does impress one that way. For whenever he got the ball over the plate even the veterans of the team had a hard time connecting with it.

A chat with Mr. Bolen later drew out the fact, despite his modest nature, that he showed his stuff to advantage in the Western League last year by leading the league in strikeouts. He fanned 184 men in 291 innings. He is sued but 143 bases on balls. He worked in 47 games, won 17 and lost 13, and permitted 320 hits in the 291 innings he worked.

This Bolen had is an Alabamian and got his start in the south, breaking in with Mobile in the Southern League three years ago. That club let him go to Hattiesburg in the Cotton States League and then he went to Tulsa in the Western circuit, where he labored the last two years.

He probably will go to a faster minor league outfit this season, however, for more training, as the Browns have four other lefties—Zachary, Falk, Wingard and Giard. The first named is a vet; Wingard has already established himself; Falk has had a year or so of big league experience last year, and Giard had had big league training under the Yankee tutelage before joining the Browns.

Lays Part of Blame for Crime Wave to the Public

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The public is held by some inmates of the Kentucky State Reformatory to be in a measure responsible for the prevalence of crime.

A story in the Mutual Welfare League Courier, a magazine published by the institution, says that the unfriendly attitude of the public toward convicts released on expiration of their term is a great factor in inducing the convict "to follow the path of crime, or the line of least resistance."

In the absence of temptation, anybody can be good.

Longview Has 800,000 Square Yards of Concrete Streets

Hundreds of cities have found concrete streets one of the best investments they ever made. An outstanding example is Longview, Washington.

Three years ago the site of Longview was only swamp and grazing land. Today it is a model city of industries and homes.

Concrete streets played an important part in this development.

Longview, with 8000 population, now has 800,000 square yards of concrete streets—100 square yards to each inhabitant.

And finer looking streets you have never seen. They are true and even; absolutely free of bumps and ruts.

They are always safe to drive on, wet or dry. And they cost practically nothing to maintain.

These are some of the reasons why more than 1,000 cities laid concrete streets in 1925.

All of the facts are in our free booklet on "Concrete Streets." Ask for your copy.

One-Fifth of Austrians Living At State Expense

VIENNA.—One fifth of the population of Austria is living altogether or in part at the expense of the state. Here are the official figures:
Government employees... 190,000
Government pensioners... 122,000
War invalids... 60,000
Unemployed receiving aid 152,000

524,000
Official inquiries have resulted in finding that on an average two persons are dependent on the 524,000 receiving direct maintenance from the government, which includes city and communal administrations. The estimated total consequently is 1,572,000, or considerably more than one fifth of the population.

The taxes, which rest heavily upon the city especially, are calculated as being from 35 to 46 per cent of income, depending upon who does the ciphering. Houseowners complain passionately of their treatment by the state.

Self reliance, self-control and self respect are the main ingredients in the formula for making a man a man.

"Have a Camel"

These words are first call to the world's finest smoke

THE choicest tobaccos grown are bought for Camel cigarettes. Millions of dollars are spent every year to insure their uniform quality.

No money is spared in the making of Camels. The tobacco is cured carefully and aged long. The exclusive Camel blend of fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos is the work of experts. The paper in which Camels are rolled is specially made in France to obtain the best. Nothing is too good or too expensive that will make Camels a better smoke. But not a cent is spent to doll up Camel cigarettes. No fancy tips or gay and wasteful wrappings. We believe that the smokers of America want smoking quality without frills.

Camels simply will not tire your taste or leave a cigarettey after-taste, no matter how liberally you smoke them!

"Have a Camel!" is the password to the quality cigarette, with all the quality in the tobacco.
