THE ANNIVERSARY

The mighty tides of fate still ebb and flow.
The mighty moons of fortune wax and wane.
Death and disaster out of pleasure grow
And God's high ecstasy returns again.

But that which grows where nothing flourisheth,
And that which blooms where ruin else would be,
And that which heals the sting of even death
Is love—and I love thee and thou lov'st me.
—Gamaliel Bradford.

Women's Club Nominates Officers for 1926-7

The chief business of an outstanding meeting of the Salem Women's club, taking place yesterday at the club house was the nomination of officers for the new year.

Mrs. C. S. Hamilton, who has served as vice president during the past year, was nominated to succeed Mrs. William Fordyce Fargo, as president. Mrs. Frank M. Erickson was nominated for the office of vice president, while indications are that Mrs. Harry J. Wiedmer will succeed herself as recording secretary. Mrs. W. I. Staley, succeeded herself as finance secretary. Mrs. O. E. Price, treasurer, the second year, and Mrs. Hattie Beatty, also for the second year, parliamentarian.

The only other nomination made was the introducing of the name of Mrs. William Fordyce Fargo, retiring president, for re-election. Mrs. Fargo, unwilling to establish a precedent, declined the honor in favor of Mrs. Hamilton who is well-fitted to receive the honor.

Mrs. Joseph Baumgartner was nominated to fill the vacancy the expiration of Mrs. C. F. Breithaupt's term on the board of directors will leave, while Mrs. W. E. Kirk was nominated to a place on the board of trustees, the expiration of Mrs. Anderson's term leaving the vacancy.

Further important business was the naming of delegates not only to the county convention which will take place in Salem on April 22, but also the choosing of representatives to the state conference in La Grande. The local club will be represented at the county convention by Mrs. Wm. Fordyce Fargo, Mrs. Harry J. Wiedmer, Mrs. S. M. Endicott, Mrs. W. I. Staley, Mrs. Seymour Jones. The following will act as alternates: Mrs. F. A. Elliott, Mrs. H. J. Bean, Mrs. Roy Burton, Mrs. David Wright and Mrs. George H. Alden. Delegates to the state convention will be: Mrs. William Fordyce Fargo, Mrs. H. J. Bean, Mrs. C. S. Hamilton, Mrs. E. E. Bragg,

The club house was never decorated in a more festive manner than for the meeting yesterday. Tulle and carnations in almost incredible profusion made the auditorium very attractive. The flowers were the gift of Mrs. C. F. Breithaupt.

Unusual Meeting of Thursday Club Is Held

After the return of the group delicious light refreshments were served, with Mrs. Robert Dann, Mrs. Ross Miles, and Mrs. Frank Spears assisting the hostesses.

A center-piece as lovely as it was unique, a basket of fifty-nine variety of garden flowers, the gift of Mrs. M. N. Chapman, was given an appropriate space on the tea table.

Aurora Woman's Club

A meeting of unusual interest was held by the Aurora Woman's club on Wednesday afternoon, March 31, at the residence of Mrs. J. W. Sadler whose home is always a center of hospitality, when with Mrs. George Knapp and Mrs. William Wurster as assistant hostesses she entertained, as guests of the club, all the ladies of the town whose family had been members of the Aurora colony and a few visitors from out of town.

A delightful program consisting of the following numbers added much pleasure: Violin numbers by Henry Ehlen, one of the favorite musicians of the "old days" were much appreciated. Mr. Ehlen was accompanied on the piano by E. E. Bratt.

A history of the colony from the time of its inception in Bethel, Missouri, through the pioneer struggles, and later life at Aurora, was given by Mrs. Aurelia Powers.

Early impressions of the Aurora colony were given by Mrs. R. J. Hendricks. "The Landing of the Pilgrims" was read by Mrs. George Yergen. A group of delightful piano numbers were given by Mrs. E. C. Robinson and Peggy Sadler.

As a concluding number, eight of the ladies who, in their girlhood were members of the well trained choir of the community sang "Aurora," the song whose words and music were composed by Dr. Kell, and which was dedicated to his followers.

Notable among the friends gathered were: Mrs. Henry Ehlen, a granddaughter and Mrs. Emanuel Kell, a daughter-in-law of Dr. Kell, the founder of the colony, who was loved and revered by all his people and another guest, Mrs. Margaret Stauffer, 92 years of age, whose family joined the colony when she was a child.

Beautiful corsage bouquets were presented to each of the honor guests, who were as follows: Mrs. Emanuel Kell, Mrs. Margaret Stauffer, Mrs. Chris Giesy, Mrs. Charles Snyder, Mrs. Chris Zimmerman, Mrs. Joseph Erhsland, Mrs. Charles Becke, Mrs. Henry Ehlen, Mrs. George Kraus, Mrs. William Kraus, Mrs. R. J. Hendricks, Miss Lizzie Will, and Mrs. E. W. Bird.

Out of town guests were: Mrs. William Knight and Mrs. George Knight of Canby, Mrs. Eugene Mashberger and Mrs. Frank Settemier of Woodburn, Mrs. Lawrence Beckman of Hubbard, Mrs. Earl Gribble of Champeau, Mrs. E. Hocken of Newport, and Mrs. F. A. Elliott and Mrs. R. J. Hendricks of Salem. The gentlemen present were: Mr. Henry Ehlen, Mr. E. E. Bratt, and Mr. J. W. Sadler.

A social hour and dainty refreshments followed the program, and "Colony Day" will long be a happy memory in the annals of the club, as in the hearts of all the guests present.—Aurora Observer.
