Tchekov Wrote His Wife Ant."

LONDON.—With the craze for all things Rusian, from hallet dancing to Cossack riding, the name of Anton Tchekov, dramatist and story writer, has become a household word in England.

An English translation has appeared of his letters to his wife, Ogla Leonardovna Knipper, a German actress, whom he married in 1901. In them, the introspective Russian soul reveals itself in many quaint ways.

"My darling German Pony" is one of Tchekov's terms of endearment to his wife, whom he addresses variously as: "My crocodile," "My sweet little crinoline," My sweet ginger pup without a 'My dear little goldfish."

The Kind of Supremacy The World Expects in Caditlac

Today, an army of more than 25,000 new Cadillac owners know how far-reaching and complete Cadillac supremacy is - and the new Cadillac is barely eight months old.

Back in 1908, the designation of Standard of the World was conferred on Cadillac by the Royal Automobile Club of London, along with the first award to any American car of the Club's famous Dewar Trophy.

And for the second time, in 1913, the Club award at the Trophy to Cadillac, an honor never midtoany other motor car in the world.

Standard of the World, Cadillac is today, in a new and more advanced sense, because Cadillac has improved upon itself, and given to the world the first car that includes masterful proficiency in each and every operating phase.

Today Cadillac's position of twenty-four years has not changed, except that it has grown enormously stronger with the coming of the new 90-degree, eight-sylinder Cadillac, and with the passing into other fields, or the complete disappearance, of numerous Cadillac rivals.
