

FISHERMEN OPPOSE STREAM'S CLOSING

Rod & Gun Club Members Decide Problem Will Adjust Itself

A motion that the Salem Rod & Gun club go on record as favoring the proposed resolution recommending that the two Nestucca streams in Tillamook county be closed to commercial salmon fishing failed to pass by a fair majority at the regular meeting of the club held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Tuesday evening. By a vote of 12 to 10, it is accordingly the opinion of the club members that the local fishermen are opposing the proposed resolution that they close the two streams to commercial interests.

A decided compromise was offered by the commercial interests represented at the meeting in that they expressed a willingness to have the steel-head salmon classed as a game fish and to have the commercial season closed during the steel-head run. It was also contended in opposition to the measure that the matter would be self-adjusting in the course of time for as soon as the citizens of Tillamook county recognized the value of the tourist trade they would handle the matter themselves.

Other arguments brought up were that the silver fish and Chinook were rather popular fish in that there were a number of years when they defied the most skillful anglers to catch them on a hook and line and that the only means by which they could be taken was by the use of the commercial methods. It was further contended that it would be an injustice to the near fishing streams in a commercial manner to have them closed at this time as the returns from the commercial hatcheries were just beginning to come back into the streams.

In favor of the resolution it was contended that fishing as one of the national resources of Oregon had not been developed to any material extent and that the proposed resolution would be a progressive step in that direction. The contention was also advanced that the tourist trade if properly developed would be of much greater value to the citizens of the county than the present commercial industry. The men now fishing the rivers make less than a thousand dollars a year out of the fishing while a boat and guide in good fishing water receive as high as ten dollars a day where that phase of fishing has been developed.

It was also pointed out that the proposal would not affect trollers who worked outside the bar or drift-netters in the bay but would effect only the limited number of still-netters who work higher up the river.

A large number of sportsmen attended the meeting and the meeting and the crowd included a number of men from out of town as well as the local club members.

ICE TOMB YIELDS SKULL

BEND, Ore., April 19.—(By Associated Press.)—Ice-beaded inner chambers of the Arnold ice cave Sunday afternoon gave up a well-preserved skull of some huge carnivorous creature, probably a bear that had died far back in the lava caverns many years ago. The skull was brought to Bend today.

The inner chambers of the ice cavern, discovered last year, were visited by a group of Bend boys who crawled over the ice and through jagged rocks to reach the mile long cavern, far back from the main entrance to the Arnold cave.

WILLAMETTE NINES TO HAVE SCHEDULE

Interclass Games Lined Up; First Contest Is to Be Held on Monday

Interclass baseball will be played at Willamette university this season. Because the school is playing no varsity ball, the class sport is expected to be popular. The season will start Monday and will continue until May 29, the competition being held in rounds.

After the class games the fraternities will match up against each other. An interclass track meet will be held May 1 as a feature of the Willamette May Day festivities. On May 6 an inter-fraternity track meet will be held. A relay carnival, in which fraternities and sororities will compete, will be held May 18.

Interclass tennis will be started this week. It is possible that the interclass tournament will affect the selecting of the varsity team. Although it was at first decided not to have a woman's varsity team this year, it is now definite that there will be one.

The first track meet of the newly organized northwest conference will be held on Sweetland field May 29. The coaches have agreed to limit each school's team to eight men. The regular events of the coast conference will be held.

PROPOSED AMATEUR FIGHT IS BANNED

Silverton Youths Will Not Appear in Tonight's Card at Armory

Following a meeting of the boxing commission, yesterday, the proposed amateur preliminary match between two young boys set for the feature of the boxing card at the Salem Armory this evening, was cancelled because of the "obvious tendency to foster false ideals on the part of youths."

Harry Plant last night explained that the change had been made in the interests of sport, and also announced that a late message had notified him that Mike O'Connor would not leave Portland in time to work out in public prior to the Wednesday card, as he had previously announced.

CLARKE IRVINE IS FAIR SECRETARY

Former Salem Boy in Important Position in Territory of Hawaii

Clarke Irvine, former newspaper man and film writer at Hollywood and Culver City, who was born in Salem, and whose father was at one time business manager and managing editor of The Statesman, and secretary of the Oregon state fair, and whose mother, who was Miss Plamondon, is a native of Salem, and was employed on The Statesman before her marriage, has just been appointed secretary of the fair commission of Hawaii, his engagement by Col. R. M. Schofield, chairman, having been confirmed at the last meeting. He has assumed office at the fair park, near Waikiki, and is busy preparing for the 1926 session, Sept. 25 to Oct. 2.

Mr. Irvine, who for three years has lectured on health and outdoor life, during which time he appeared before a Salem audience, went to Hawaii because he believed that latitude one of the best for health for the reason that it is nearer the sun, the giver of life. "The rays here are more direct," he states, "and the sweep of ocean purifies the air, increasing the iodine, all of which things conduce to perfect health. I believe that a longer and happier life can be lived here than in cooler climates where one has to huddle over a stove, thus insulating the body from the sun's energizing rays and other life elements."

For 11 years he was in film work and aided in building the fame of such stars as Charlie Chaplin, Harold Lloyd, Bebe Daniels and many others at the film capital. He was the last manager and publicity writer for the late Max Linder, the beloved "Chaplin of France."

"I am doubly glad to engage in this work," says Mr. Irvine, "because it is a big community proposition involving not only amusement and education, but building health through sports and recreation, most important in creating better citizens. The six-hole community golf course here is a dandy and is drawing well, and I see where it will do a lot to promote health and happiness. It is also a factor in entertaining tourists, many of whom play here daily."

"Hawaii's annual territorial fair" is the name of the institution, the address being Honolulu, with the territorial fair grounds on the Kapahulu road. Mr. Irvine's name already appears on the printed matter as secretary.

at the time the prohibition force was re-organized.

Senator Reed took his fight to the senate floor where a brief, but fiery debate developed. Senator Bruce, democrat, Maryland, accused the committee of discourteous treatment of Senator Reed and declared he did not "expect any measure of justice from the committee constituted as it is."

This brought a protest from Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, a member of the committee when a majority had opposed any action at all on the modification bills.

This aroused the ire of Chairman Harrell, who arose to a point of personal privilege, and remarked that Senator Bruce's declaration had shown that "all the fanatics are not on the dry side."

For a moment the proceedings got beyond the control of Vice President Dawes, but as order was restored, Senator Edges, republican, New Jersey, another of the wets, offered a resolution directing the committee to oppose the hearings until Thursday. Senator Walsh objected to immediate consideration and the resolution went over.

In his statement to the committee, Mr. Baird had emphatically denied attacks made by Dr. Church on the prohibition enforcement agents of the Pittsburgh district. This led Senator Walsh to inquire as to what "animus" could have been behind those charges.

"I am unable to say," Baird replied. "But it may be that the seizing of Dr. Church's car on the border loaded with booze had something to do with them."

Replying to a volley of questions from several committeemen, Baird said that "common knowledge" that the car belonged to Dr. Church, although he conceded the University President was not in it nor was he able to say who was in the car.

shouted into the tunnel, "who's calling?"

"Horse McBride," came the answer. "Are you all right?" called Richardson.

"How much longer before you get us out?" was the counter query.

Since then his voice was harder to hear, workers said. They hoped to reach him any moment. McDermott, although greatly exhausted from his experience, is inclined to be talkative despite the commands of physicians to be quiet and refrain from exertion. He said he believed his companions should be found within a few feet of where he was, and that all will be brought out alive. At 9 p. m. McBride could be heard a little more distinctly, but his voice was not loud enough to enable workers to locate him.
