GOOD WORK—"And Moses did look upon all the work, and behold, they had done it as the Lord had commanded, even so had they done it; and Moses blessed them." Ex. 39:43.

WHO ARE OUR HENRY FORDS FOR OUR ACRES OF DIAMONDS?

Henry Ford is developing great business and manufacturing enterprises on the farm that belonged to his father, on which he grew up as a boy, having already built up the world's greatest automotive factories at and about Detroit, Mich., only a few miles away. He found the "Acres of Diamonds" on and near the parental homestead.

The Mayo brothers, at Rochester, Minn., country boys like Henry Ford only a few short years ago, are working in a fine city that has been built up around them on what was their father's farm; and the world has made a beaten path to their door in search of the service they have to render in mending diseased and broken bodies and restoring failing health.

The humble acres where Luther Burbank toiled and wore his life away in the service of mankind in producing better fruits and vegetables and more beautiful flowers have become a shrine for the pilgrimages of students of science—acres that might have remained drab and commonplace but for the magic touch of the plant wizard who gave himself that there might be more abundant life for his fellow men and those to come after them.

The list might be extended indefinitely—For nearly all the great inventions and nearly all the useful institutions of the world represent the idealism and the industry of men who would have remained obscure and of only average usefulness to their fellow men but for their lofty idealism and their untiring industry—

And the same will be true of the future. Who are our Henry Fords for our Acres of Diamonds in the Salem district? Their opportunities are many. This is the country of opportunity, the land of diversity.

There are chances here to build up great asparagus canneries, immense grape juice factories, sugar factories, potato starch and flour and dextrine factories, peppermint oil refineries, jam and jelly plants, a big seed industry, drug gardens, and many others.

In each field mentioned, men of vision are needed; men with idealism, enthusiasm, industry.

It has been said that every great institution is the lengthening shadow of one man. And every useful invention and industry is first an idea in the mind of a single individual.

There is sufficient scope right here in the Salem district for a Henry Ford; an Edison; a Westinghouse. Such men make their opportunities, largely. Here in the Salem district Nature has prepared many opportunities ready for development.

We are doing well in a number of fields; in paper mill development; in the flax and linen fields; in fruit canning and packing concerns; in numerous other lines. But we will get many more. More specialty mills, Many more factories of various kinds—

But in new fields we need the Henry Fords and their kind. We have them, on our farms, in the suburbs, in our cities and towns. The big thing is to find them, or rather to have them find themselves, and get the visions of the great things to be done right here for the good not only of their home city and country, but for that of the whole nation and the whole world—

For we have great things to offer; only lacking the means of preparing them in acceptable form for the markets everywhere.

Bits For Breakfast

Some scraps of history—

And speaking of cabbages and kings and other things—

Champagne day is next Saturday—83 years after the famous meeting which decided that the Oregon country should be American and not British territory. That year, Jason Lee had just completed his home at 960 Broadway, the first house in Salem; still standing. John Tyler was president, and the Mexican border was at the Oregon-California line some miles south of Ashland, Oregon.

Tomorrow, at the Salem Chamber of Commerce noon luncheon, the people will have lived in Salem for 70 years will be the guests. Is that too long for you?

The weekly bulletin of the Salem Chamber of Commerce tells of "Little Journeys in Marion County," including Silver Creek Falls. In one of the falls the water drops 184 feet, in another 145 feet.

Then the gorge at Niagra, and the forest road from there to Detroit. Then on to Brettenbush hot springs.

Then historic Champog. And a trip into the Santiam mining country, including the wonderful drive along the Little North Fork of the Santiam.

There will be, later, the scenic highway over the Cascades, through the Minto pass. More about this later. Much more.

This bulletin says Salem has 25,000 people. Let's make it 35,000 in 1930, if we have to take in all the country clear to Silverton.

You are going to get the surprise of your life in the Elinore theater, some of you. You are going to be awed by the grand Gothic entrance hall. And a lot of other things. It is great. You will not be able to describe it, even after you have seen it. Opening day before long. Possibly by May 15. Depends mostly on the drying of the concrete floors in the entrance halls.

pendent until the opening of the new home.

All of the dormitory rooms of the building have been equipped, except for the laying of the carpets. Each room is to have a special built chiffonier with a plate glass mirror, a writing table, two Windsor chairs, one with arms and one without, a Simmons metal bed, high quality mattress and Pendleton blankets. All of the furniture, including the beds, are finished in walnut.

Each room is steam heated, and is connected with a buzz to the main office for telephone calls. There is to be a telephone booth in each corridor.

Curtains, tie-backs and dresser scarfs for every dormitory room have been made by the women's auxiliary of the YMCA. These will be installed as soon as the contractors are out of the building. Both lobbies are to be elaborately furnished. Four overstuffed special built davenportes have been obtained for the men's lobby. They are covered with gray mohair with a rose background. There are four overstuffed chairs to match. In the boys' lobby there are two of the davenportes, with leather covers. Six leather covered overstuffed chairs will be in the boys' lobby.

Rubber tiling will be laid on the floor of the men's lobby. This work will be started promptly Monday. On the floor of the boys' lobby will be laid marbled linoleum. Plain linoleum will cover the office floors. The corridors of the second and third floors will be carpeted.

quarry. The drainage of this ground also includes the drainage area of a large part of the Salem Heights district. It is a thickly settled section and is likely to be included within the corporate limits of Salem before the 1930 census is taken.

Clark creek, which flows through the proposed dumping ground, supplies water for home and general domestic purposes in the Salem Heights community. The creek which would carry the drainage of the dump, flows through the Salem Heights district, thence through the Morningside district and unites with Pringle creek in the Bush pasture.

The creek then flows past the Deaconess hospital, becomes the south boundary line of the Salem municipal auto park, and then flows into Mill creek at the South Church street bridge, near the State Institution for the Blind. Regardless of how much a city dumping ground may be covered or disinfected, it is claimed there is a natural drainage or seepage which will be carried by Clark creek into Pringle creek and then flow through a residence and business district in Mill creek.

The question has been raised as to whether the citizens will approve or even tolerate such a proposition. Also as to whether those in charge of the city's health will approve of a dumping ground located so near the city that its drainage is through a very prosperous residence and business district of the city.

GREEN CAPS ARE TO FADE INTO DIM PAST

Sophomores at Willamette Decide Not to Enforce Old-Time Ruling

Willamette university sophomores have decided to no longer enforce the green cap tradition at Willamette university. They give as reason for their decision the belief that the upper classmen, having taken it into their hands to enforce one tradition, should have to enforce all of them. The tradition they refer to is the "funk day" tradition, recently violated by the sophomores.

As far as the sophs are concerned, there will be no green cap stunt as a feature of May Day. It is the custom for the sophs to gather the green caps each year on the last day of the May Day festivities and to burn them or send them down the Willamette in a barrel.

This is the first time in the history of the school that a sophomore class has refused to enforce the green cap tradition.

Freshmen are expected to meet after chapel Monday to decide whether or not they shall take advantage of the sophomores' ruling, or continue to wear their green caps until next Saturday, the day officially set for discarding their green caps forever.
