THE OREGON STATESMAN, SALEM, OREGON Banner Building Year Forecast With Home Construction Starting

A Modern Western Type

ERE is a good example of the popular rectangular house with a low, hipped roof. The plan is compact and convenient. The porch has steps to the driveway, besides those to the main walk, which make it convenient for the motorist. A vestibule is included but may be omitted if not desired. From the hall one may enter the living and dining room direct or go to the kitchen.

The living room is of ample size and opens to the adjoining rooms and hall, giving a feeling of spaciousness to the house. The fireplace is attractively set in an alcove with seats at either

Beyond the dining room and connected with the kitchen is a pretty octagonal breakfast room or flower from. From this point a fine view may be haden the garden or of the front. The kitchen is well ye tilated and equipped with good cabi-

Three large bedrooms, sleeping porch, and bathroom make up the second floor. There is a dressing room also, that could be converted to a bathroom if desired. The basement contains laundry, furnace, incinerator, vegetable cellar, and storage space.

It is not elaborate ornamentation that gives distinction to this house. It is rather the result of a simple, pleasing treatment of the mass of the building, as emphasized and enhanced by the attractive roof lines.

Placed on a fifty-foot lot there will be plenty of space left on the dining room side for good light, and room on the opposite side for a driveway to the garage which is attached to the building, a feature many will appreciate.

The garage is separated from the house by a solid brick wall for fire protection and has the entrance from the back porch, which keeps odors from the house.
