THE HOLY DAY AND PLACE—"Ye shall keep my sabbaths, and reverence my sanctuary; I am the Lord." Lev. 19:30.

A FAR LOOK AND A NEAR LOOK

Salem will have 50,000 people; she will grow steadily into 100,000 population; she will have 500,000, and she will have a million people—

And when? As fast as she uses her water powers and develops her potential agricultural resources, and manufactures her raw materials.

The complete development and full use of our potential water power will make the dream of the far look come true, and the near look will be realized as partial development takes place—

The thing, the value that never dies, never is consumed, never wears out, never is used to destruction or extraction, the white coal running down the defiles of our Cascade and Coast Range mountains.

Its use will make us great; will put here in the future Salem a million people, and in the Willamette valley ten million.

A million of them will be supported directly and indirectly by our flax and linen industries. And this is a land of diversity. We can grow and manufacture here more products commanding wide markets than can be produced and turned to commercial use in any similar extent of territory under the shining sun—

And the world needs what we have to give it. Rapid growth here is almost a moral issue. We owe it to the world; to grow and make the things the world needs.

The development of our water powers cannot be overdone, if our agricultural and manufacturing growth can be made to keep pace with it. The sky is the limit. The possibilities are worthy of the dream of an empire builder.

First things first. It is the duty of the people of Salem to take over the water works; to get a mountain supply of water; to build a pipe line, giving a by-product of water power for sale all the way down; to deliver the water into the city mains by the gravity system; to stop the expense of pumping; to make the city mains big enough for future growth.

To do all this as fast as it can be done without increasing the water rates; and to do it by issuing bonds, which will be a charge for their future principal payment upon coming generations. The coming generations will thank us for our foresight.

Then, in every way possible, we must broadcast to the world the immense possibilities here for hydroelectric development. We cannot overdo this, up to four to five million horsepower. This is no fancy. The facts are here, to tell the wide world.

GREAT AND USEFUL WORK

A highly educated man and a well educated woman, man and wife, came to Salem from an Oregon city a few days ago. They were down and out. They had been well to do. They had met financial reverses. They came to the Y. M. C. A. free employment bureau looking for work; any kind of work that would give them the means to keep body and soul together.

They are now in a logging camp not far from Salem, earning good wages; the wife as a cook, for she is a good cook, and the husband in the logging operations—

And they wrote a letter, received yesterday, to Sim Phillips, who has charge of the employment bureau, telling him how happy they are in their new place; how grateful for his service in connecting them with their jobs—

And their employers will no doubt be glad to give such a testimonial, too; for there will be refinement and good influences, and well cooked food, in that logging camp.

So it goes. The free employment bureau of the Salem Y. M. C. A., conducted in cooperation with the federal government, is one of its finest and best activities. It serves a large number of people; men and women looking for jobs, and employers needing help—needing it sorely, to save crops and to carry on many kinds of enterprises.

Fifty people were sent out to jobs yesterday by Mr. Phillips. He could have sent out 100, if he had them, and perhaps 200 or 300 or more—

But the bright spot in his day's work was the letter from the grateful man and his wife who went to the logging camp.

Many of those who were able to attend the graduation exercises of the training school department of the Salem General Hospital held last night in the First Baptist church in this city will be interested to know that the hospital is making very substantial progress. There were exactly 100 patients handled during the month of March with 767 days of service, of which 193 days were free. The reports for the month of April given at the board meeting on Tuesday night last showed 99 patients handled during the month of April with a total of 598 days service, of which 74 were free. Salem people have reason to be gratified over the permanent establishment of a strictly Grade A hospital in this city, and more so since the institution is entirely owned by the public of the community.

EDITORIALS OF THE PEOPLE

All correspondence for this department must be signed by the writer, and written on one side of the paper only, and should not be longer than 150 words.

Editor Statesman:

Included in the $500,000 of bonds voted about two years ago was an amount to have been used in the building of a new unit at the Lincoln school site. The present school board along with a large proportion of the people of South Salem do not believe that it would be wise to destroy the old Lincoln building and put up a new one. Among the reasons are that we are seriously short of room, as well as funds, and under the circumstances it would be little less than criminal to destroy a building which will in all reason be good enough for some time to come.

The amount of room in the present grounds is wholly inadequate for the kind of building contemplated. The present plot might be added to by purchase or condemnation of the block to the south, which is connected without a street between, but the cash outlay would probably be between $40,000 and $50,000, after the salvage value of the houses now on the tract had been recovered. Added to this the value of the present school building would bring the cost up to in the neighborhood of $60,000.

The board might get by without purchasing all of the property mentioned now, but it would finally have to be bought, and the cost will never be less, but will increase as new houses are added. The present location, taken in conjunction with the Park and McKinley buildings, would cover the south part of town in good shape as grade schools, so should not be abandoned.

What we need is a new junior high school centrally located and the McKinley building turned back into a grade school.

This would relieve Lincoln and Park and give sufficient room for the grade school in this end of the city for a number of years to come. At present the Lincoln building is badly overcrowded. It was originally built for eight school rooms, but halls have been utilized until at present three of them are in use, all of them more or less poorly lighted and ventilated, and one of them inaccessible to a fire escape. All of the three are under size, consequently limited in the number of pupils that can be accommodated, with a necessary increase in cost per pupil.

The school board has been negotiating for a new site for a junior high school in this end of Salem for some time, and finally recommended to the people of this section, at a meeting at the McKinley building, a piece of land, commonly termed, the Tuxedo tract, located three blocks south, two east of the Lincoln school, and practically a half mile closer to town than the present McKinley junior high.

It is far enough north to draw some from Parrish and relieve that building for a time and put off the day when more room will have to be provided there. No action was taken except to appoint a committee of five to look over the land, and any other offered. At a subsequent meeting held at the Lincoln school this committee divided their report—two for the original tract, two in favor of this tract, and two additional pieces lying just west and adjoining it.

Each of the groups that didn't get its way lost its enthusiasm and the election went by default. Now the board, at the urgent request of the people out this way, are asking the people of the district to reconsider and approve the site recently rejected. This is a matter, as I look at it, solely concerning the people of South Salem. Why the people of any other section of the town should object to our placing the building anywhere convenient is more than I can understand, and I don't believe that any such action was intended.

Rejection was the result of lack of information rather than a deliberate affront. What we wish is to convey full and unprejudiced information, and trust the voters to give us what we want.

Statesman Begins Review Of All County Candidates

Facts, Platforms and Issues as Seen by Men Asking Support of Voters Will Be Summarized in Series Starting Today; Watch Tomorrow's Story

During the next few days, The Statesman will review the platforms presented by candidates for county offices, endeavoring to present only facts concerning the experience of each candidate, and the issues they see in the coming election.

Sam H. Brown
 Republican, candidate for nomination for senator, from Marion county.

The following facts are taken from a statement furnished by the commercial club of Gervais, composed of neighbors of the candidate:

"He was born in East Gervais precinct; his entire life has been spent there. His parents were members of that community since 1849. His father served the county as assessor. The son, Sam H. Brown, has made a fine record as state senator, serving Marion county in that capacity for a number of years, having been found clean, upright and faithful. He is a farmer and a successful farmer. He understands farmers' problems and knows their value to the state. He is considered well equipped for good service."

Lloyd T. Reynolds
 Republican, candidate for nomination for senator, from Marion county.

Lloyd T. Reynolds was born in Ohio and came to Oregon with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. John Reynolds, when two years of age. He attended the public schools of Salem, later entering Willamette university, from which he was graduated in 1894. Ever since finishing college he has been farming, giving special attention

IDAHO PUBLISHER DIES

J. ROBB BRADY VICTIM OF STROKE WHILE AT DESK

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho, May 12.—(By Associated Press.)—J. Robb Brady, publisher of the Idaho Falls Post and prominent in Idaho politics, dropped dead at his desk here today. Several days ago Brady suffered an attack of ptomaine poisoning but was believed to have recovered.

Brady was born in Detroit, Kansas, forty four years ago, and was a son of Senator James H. Brady. He began his newspaper career at Lawrence, Kansas, and published papers at Galena, Kansas and Casey, Kansas. He founded the Tulsa World and for many years was active in off affairs in Oklahoma.

J. Robb Brady was a brother of John L. Brady, for several years managing editor of The Oregon Statesman, and well known in this city.

CRASH HURTS STUDENTS

FOUR HURT WHEN SCHOOL BUS HITS EMBANKMENT

CLATSkanie, Ore., May 12.—(By Associated Press.)—Four students of the high school here were injured and a number bruised this morning when the Downing-Mayger school bus, driven by Chris Johnson, overturned near Delena about 10 miles east of here. It was said the driver lost control of the machine on a curve and it struck a three foot embankment and overturned. There were 24 students on the bus at the time. The driver is bringing the stu-

Machine guns have been placed atop government buildings. Telephone and telegraph lines and bridges are guarded by troops remaining loyal to the government. The cabinet is sitting continuously in an effort to find a solution to the situation, which appears to be gradually becoming more confused.

Witos undertook to form a cabinet May 5 when Premier Skrzyski announced his coalition government was resigning.

Members of the new government were scheduled to appear before the diet within a few days, when, Witos announced, he would state his program. Owing to the approach of this date, it appears, Marshal Pilsudski deemed the time ripe to strike.

Adding that the friction between Witos and the militarists headed by Pilsudski the authorities yesterday confiscated one radical paper and two Jewish papers in which accounts appeared of interviews with Pilsudski, severely criticizing the present cabinet and especially Witos, who is leader of the Peasants' party. The radical parties expressed disapproval of this action and their stand was taken by both sides to mean the beginning of opinion war their part against the cabinet.

BYRD IS TO GET MEDAL

RECOGNITION WILL BE GIVEN FIRST POLAR FLIER

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(By Associated Press.)—Award of the congressional medal of honor to Lieutenant Commander Richard E. Byrd for his "dauntless courage and unerring skill," in piloting the first aircraft over the north pole was proposed in a bill today by Representative McLeod, republican, Michigan.

The measure would authorize "due recognition" to other members of the Byrd expedition.

CROWDS ATTENDING CHURCH SERVICES

North Howell M. E. Evangelical Meetings Show Increased Interest

The community services at North Howell M. E. church are drawing large crowds. Mrs. H. L. Stenberg, pastor evangelist of the Christian Missionary Alliance Tabernacle of Silverton, who has conducted services at the North Howell M. E. church the past winter has been so encouraged by large attendance that there are services every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock as well as Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. A Sunday school has been organized.

These are interdenominational services. Last Sunday morning there were baptismal services at the river after which the crowds followed to the church for a Mother's Day service.

With several selections of songs and special music, we are asking the community to cooperate in these services.

'NORTH POLE' DATE LINE IS USED FOR FIRST TIME

I cannot bring myself to realize it. It seems all so simple and commonplace.

Peary left the next day. It took him until April 23 to reach his base at Cape Columbia. His ship, the Roosevelt, was locked in the ice. Other weeks of weary waiting were gone through before the ice broke and the little ship was able to creep laboriously down to Indian Harbor, Labrador, where at a telegraph station Peary filed his message to the outside world: "Stars and stripes nailed to the North pole. Peary."

Bits For Breakfast

White coal, our white hope— Will give Salem white space on the commercial map, and keep her there.

White linen, white sugar, white starch, white eggs, white clover, making white honey, white mint oil and white sheep will help to keep up a white record of prosperity.

Give Salem mountain water, through a pipe line allowing a power by-product, and still water in the Willamette and this will become one of the great manufacturing cities of the country. It will mean a guarantee of cheap electrical power, and water connection with the wide world.

If there were any more poles to find, Captain Raold Amundsen would be after them. He will hold the distinction for all time of being the first man to see both poles.

He flew over the North pole at 1 a. m., Norwegian time, and the news was in The Statesman office at 11:30. That sounds like the news beating him to it. But there is a difference of some nine hours between Salem and Norwegian time. Accounting for daylight saving times and other queer quirks, it is hard to figure out the different times these days.

The state line plant is about two weeks behind its orders yet, though turning out 49 tons every day. May it never catch up, it is obliged to double its capacity. That very thing may happen.

UNIVERSITY NET MEN TO COMPETE

Willamette, Will Enter Two Players in Walla Walla Tournament

Willamette university will be represented by two men at the northwest conference tennis tournament to be held in Walla Walla Friday. Walla Walla is the home of Whitman university, who is considered to have one of the strongest tennis teams in the conference.

If Walsh is unable to make the trip because of the foot injury he received Monday, White and Minto, both members of the freshman class, will be sent east to represent the school. Walsh is captain of the local team and plays as first man. If he is unable to make the trip, it is thought the Willamette team will not have the strength with which it started out the season.
