OPPORTUNITY ROOM AIDS MANY PUPILS

Kiwanis Club Hears of Work
Conducted in Interest of Students

Salem Kiwanians were told of the special work being done for students who do not get along in the regular classes and are sent to the opportunity rooms at their luncheon Tuesday.
Mrs. Zuren explained something of the work, and related specific cases that have come under her observance in the opportunity room at Grant school.
"Some of the inability to get along is due entirely to sickness," she said. "Some is due to more unfortunate reasons."
"The child who isn't smart enough to keep up with the regular classes usually wants to be a smart aleck. This is not malicious. It is merely his way of trying to cover up his defect."
Lillian Schroeder of the special room at Parrish explained other phases of the work.
