ROSES

'Tis the loveliest gift earth knows,
A pure white rose,
Whiter than flying snows,
Or moonlight when it flows
Through marble porticos;
Or the frosty cameos
On a lonely windowglass.

Mrs. Arthur J. Rahn Is Hostess for Cadman Club of Portland
One of the exceedingly attractive events of the week was the 1 o'clock luncheon and musical afternoon at which Mrs. Arthur J. Rahn was hostess last Thursday afternoon at her home on Lincoln Hill, when she entertained for the pleasure of the Cadman Music club of Portland. The affair was a particularly attractive compliment for Mrs. Ralph Miller, Mrs. Rahn's sister, who is a prominent member of the club.
The lovely rooms of the Rahn home were decked with colorful bowls and baskets of delphinium, diononium and sweet william.
Fourteen covers were placed at the luncheon.
A distinctive musical afternoon of vocal and instrumental numbers followed. The instrumental music was predominantly modern. Gershwin's extremely interesting adaptation of modern themes to classic forms in the novel and difficult "Rhapsody in Blue" was played in a notable way by Byron Arnold of the O. A. C. Conservatory of Music and Miss Dorothy Pearce, at two pianos.
Mrs. Donald Wayne Riddle's vocal group was charmingly done.
Miss Dorothy Pearce pleased the Portlanders with three piano solos, MacDowell's "A. D. 1620"; "Serenade" (Maykapar) and "Minuet" by Mirovitch.
