Open Letter to Oregon Club Women

Miss Vella Winner, the only delegate from the Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs at the biennial convention in Atlantic City, addresses the following letter to all Oregon club women: "Although the business of representing Oregon at this great convocation of women is far too big a job for me, or for any one woman, I am doing the best I can to absorb the high points and to let the visiting delegates know that Oregon is on the map. "The spirit of the convention is notably forward looking, and characterized by particularly able speakers. Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, still stinging from his recent defeat for re-nomination, delivered a scathing rebuke to law breakers and political gangsters in the course of his address on 'Law Enforcement.'

"Herbert Hoover, General Fepino Garibaldi, Minnie Maddern Fliske and others less notable are included among the speakers and the music is furnished by members of the Metropolitan opera, the San Carlo opera and notable concert singers from New York.

"Oregon club women will be interested in the election of Mrs. Sadie Orr-Dunbar as auditor of the western federation of women's clubs, comprising 11 western states.

"The writer, acting in her capacity of vice chairman of the department of press and publicity of the general federation, gave the report of the $50 prize contest for the best advance club news story printed in any newspaper in the United States the last year. Of the 53 stories contributed, four were from Oregon. The prize, which was won by Mrs. J. A. Oren of Minneapolis, was a gift from Mrs. John W. Watzek of Davenport, Iowa, a frequent visitor in Portland.

"In the procession of club representatives pledging financial support to national headquarters, the Oregon delegate pledged $10 for the Oregon federation in honor of its retiring president and general federation director, Mrs. Dunbar. "California entertained at a dinner for western delegates, but as it fell on the night of a dinner given for newspaper and magazine representatives, Oregon was not represented. The press dinner brought together an interesting group of 50 persons representing many large monthly magazines, metropolitan newspapers and press associations. This was held at the historic Haddon Hall hotel and, though informal, was one of the delightful social features of the convention.

"An excursion to Philadelphia was to follow the close of the convention, with the Pennsylvania women as hostesses. A visit to Independence Hall, Valley Forge and other historic points will be included and the sesqui-centennial exposition also will be visited."

Election to the degree is a reward for Miss Melton's outstanding merit in music.

"The Illinois Woman's college is one of the largest women's colleges in the west."

Canterbury bells and Dorothy Perkins roses decked the rooms. Mrs. Reed Rowland and Jesse George won the prizes of the evening. At the supper hour Mrs. Paulsen and Mrs. Nelson assisted the hostesses. Club members and their husbands present included Mr. and Mrs. James Taed, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Paulsen, Mr. and Mrs. Oral Lemmon, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse George, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Chapler, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Zellar and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. George Nelson.

ELECTION COSTS GROW AS PROBE CONTINUES

Subsequently the committee obtained information from officials of the Vore-Pittsburgh headquarters that $79,918 had been expended there and that there now is a deficit of $1,984. It was not developed what part of this sum, if any, came from Mr. Vare.

Grundy said he expected he would have to pay the $100,000 deficit of the coalition in eastern Pennsylvania but expected to be recompensed eventually. He added that there had been similar experiences in the past in Pennsylvania and that "we have come out all right."

The witness explained that he was not particularly interested in the senatorial race, but that he was interested in the gubernatorial contest. Later he explained that Edward F. Beidleman, the defeated candidate for the nomination as governor, was in favor in changes in the tax laws affecting manufacturing concerns, while John S. Fisher, the successful candidate, a man who was sympathetic with the economic views of the Mellon interests.

Asked by Chairman Reed if he regarded the expenditure of such sums as he testified to as "justified" in a primary campaign involving officers whose aggregate salary did not amount to $25,000 annually, Grundy said, "the issues at stake were more important than the salaries."

From a campaign expense book which Edward R. Martin, secretary of the Vore organization said he had under direction of Kenna, Chairman Reed called off these additional contributions: John A. Fugassi, $10,000; Jo-

KIDSKIN AND LIGHTER LEATHERS DOMINATE STYLES OF SUMMER-WEIGHT SHOES

By Clarissa Howe Taylor

The Southern season has always been of vital importance in the fashion world, for it is during this short but smart mid-winter season in the South that the stamp of approval or the ban of exclusion is branded upon our ensuing styles. Judging from the shop displays and the smart gatherings of people throughout the day, shoes are receiving more careful consideration in relation to the costume than any other single accessory. Perhaps it is because women have become so impatient for the occasion, but the shoes do not go with the dress, then the dress is a failure. At any rate, this discriminating attention has become contagious and we now find that men are selecting their shoes, not only with an idea to appropriate for the occasion, but with the consideration of comfort, good sense, and appearance.

The most startling introduction in the footwear world is in men's shoes. Heretofore, they have been forced to wear the same type of shoe the year around. On May 15th they have always donned the straw hats and light-weight suits, but no head was given to footwear. Now, however, the seasonal change will be complete, for the importance of light-weight footwear has been realized. During the day, for both street and business wear, men are adopting light-weight oxfords of either black kid or a new shade called rugby tan kid. These oxfords are very much lighter, both in appearance and actual construction, than the brogues which were formerly worn. The upper stock or body of the shoe is of extremely light-weight kid yet it is firm enough to resist hard wear and stretching, while the very much lighter sole fulfills its purpose of utility, adds materially to the summer comfort of the wearer, and equals the durability of the heavier shoe.

Although women are wearing all sorts of fanciful evening slippers—the newest in hand-painted or enameled kidskin, men have been aiming to make theirs less conspicuous if possible and the last detail to be eliminated is the high gloss or polish. The smartest evening oxfords for men are now made in a dull finish of black kid and they insist that these are far more comfortable than the stiff heavily dressed leathers.

Regardless of the delicacy of shading, nothing quite takes the place of white kid, particularly for sport wear. Ever since the famous English oxfords invaded our territory they have been worn in a variety of adaptations. Because white kid is so refreshing in appearance and equally cool and comfortable on the foot, sensible men are taking advantage of the recent style innovation which provides these comforts and they are wearing white kid oxfords combined with a trimming of either black or brown kid. Frequently women are seen wearing a diminutive copy of these oxfords with the addition of an alarmingly high spike heel and of course the oxford with the interesting criss-cross lacing arrangement continues in its place of high favor.

For street wear one may select from a variety of patterns in colored kidskin, either matched to the ensemble of spring tones or in one of those delicate neutral shades which is a complement to any costume color. The popular beige of last season forms the foundation for a score or more of new shades in kid known as parchment, mauterne, blue de rose, faun, champagne, peach, and blonde. In addition to light grey, these are not only the colors decreed for spring, but kidskin is the medium of expression for all that is smart in footwear. One-strap slippers and the center-strap sandal are particularly good as is the pump and street oxford.
