The guests were well pleased with Miss Eleanor Moore's numbers, "An Open Secret" (Woodman) and Arditti's "Parla."

Dorothy Tongue, violinist, and student of William Wallace Graham, gave exceedingly artistic interpretations of her numbers. Margaret Tongue accompanied her. Clarence Wenger added greatly to the success of the program with his fine accompaniments with the vocalists, Maxine Ulrich, a young student of Mrs. Alice Wenger, gave in a splendid way the banjo obbligato to the brilliant Ever-Ready Birthday Club quintette "The Maids of Seville." A tribute of flowers was presented to Miss Magers at the conclusion of the recital.
