for nomination as the republican congressional candidate. The league described this as the most important contest in New Jersey, calling upon its followers to go to the polls on stretchers, if necessary, to oppose the "saturately" McCleve.

The district, composed of rural and suburban communities, witnessed the only attempt of wet republicans to give United States Senator Walter E. Edge a delegation which would resound his attacks on prohibition.

Not even in the thickly populated cities of Newark and Elizabeth were there opposition to the renomination of four dry republican congressmen, and as a result the general elections will bring a series of congressional fights between drys and wet democrats.

On the other hand the second and seventh districts produced no dry opponents of wet republican incumbents. The only other contest against members of the congressional delegation was in South Jersey where Representative Patterson, republican, was hard pressed by Charles A. Wolverton. Both Wolverton and Patterson are dry and Wolverton was the organization candidate whoever wins will be opposed by a wet democrat in the fall.

The wife of a circuit court judge, opposing a dry democrat on a platform calling for a referendum to get prohibition out of politics, was one central figure in state fights.

She was Mrs. Adeline Lawrence of Freehold, candidate for democratic senatorial nomination, and her opponent was James R. Hendrickson. The battle ground was Monmouth county, within which territory the Methodist camp meeting grounds are situated at Ocean Grove. The county has a long stretch of shore line along which rum runners once were active, and it is reported a stronghold of the klan.

Waiting thousands that almost prevented movement of the priests' equipages, mounted police cleared the way for them. The buildings were decorated with the papal colors, yellow and white. Cheering or kneeling in humble piety, the thousands greeted the cavalcade as it swept along the street. The cardinals gave their blessings to the throngs and waved to thousands in windows and on roofs.

At city hall the zenith of the demonstration was reached. Moving slowly through the banks of humanity, the cardinals stepped from their automobiles, while police formed a circle around them. Cardinal Hayes and the papal legate were the first to enter the aldermanic chamber where Governor Smith stepped forward. Kneeling at their feet he kissed the ring of Cardinal Bonzano and then that of Cardinal Hayes. As the governor gave his personal welcome to Cardinal Bonzano his voice was so low that his words were inaudible even to those near him.

As Mayor Walker greeted the princes of the church he also kissed their rings. The cardinals were presented by Grover A. Whalen, chairman of the mayor's reception committee. Cardinal Bozano represented the ecclasiastics, responded, offering blessings of the pope and paying tribute to America. Governor Smith then officially welcomed the visiting cardinals. Besides Cardinals Hayes and Bonzano, the cardinals present were Chiarost, Dubois, O'Gorman, O'Donnell and Casanova. Cardinal Faulhaber was not present.

In Latin American diplomatic circles are almost certain to be carried down in the crash of the plebiscite commission. How far-reaching such a result would be is a matter of lively discussion in Washington. It conceded privately that complete failure of the American effort would be a blow to the prestige of the United States throughout the western hemisphere if blame for the failure is in any way attributed to the American negotiators; and a statement from Washington definitely laying the responsibility at the door of Chile is among the possibilities.

"I do not know whether I shall stay here or not," said the Chilean ambassador today when asked what the next Chilean step would be.
