Hulda H. Hagman Becomes Bride at Beautiful Ceremony in Astoria

Of interest to a large circle of Salem friends will be the following account, from the Morning Astorian, of the marriage of Miss Hulda Hagman to Mr. Harlow E. Atwood. Mrs. Atwood graduated from Willamette university with the class of 1925, since which time she has served as private secretary to Dr. Carl Gregg Doney, president of the University.

One of the loveliest of the June weddings was that of Wednesday afternoon when Miss Hulda Evangelina Hagman, attractive daughter of Mrs. Josephine Hagman, became the bride of Harlow E. Atwood of Corvallis, Or. The ceremony took place in the First Methodist Episcopal church, with Dr. Carl Gregg Doney, president of the Willamette university, officiating, assisted by Rev. Mark Pike, pastor of the local church.

Large white baskets of mock orange blossoms, pink gladioli and white lilies flanked either side of the altar, and a silver bowl of pink carnations centered the table before the altar.

Proceeding the ceremony Miss Fay Spaulding of Hood River sang "All For You," and "I Love You Truly." Wedding processional from the opera "Lohengrin," and the Mendelssohn wedding recessional on the pipe organ.

The bride wore an exquisite creation of white tulle and Venetian lace, made with butterfly and tight bodice. Her full length veil of filmy tulle was caught with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was a shower of Ophelia roses and sweet peas.

Miss Margaret Mades, sorority sister of the bride, assisted as maid of honor, wearing a gown of orchid georgette and carrying an arm bouquet of orchid sweet peas. Mrs. William Mathieson, in shell pink tulle and carrying pink sweet peas was matron of honor. George Brabbon of Corvallis served as best man. The Messrs. William Mathieson and Vern Bain were the ushers.

A reception followed the wedding. The church parlors were artistically decorated for the occasion with myriads of pink, lavender and white blossoms, mingled with greens. Miss Betty Siddall and Miss Bess Spicer played softly muted violin and piano music throughout the afternoon.

Guests at Darby Home—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Darby of Portland were dinner guests on Friday night of Mrs. Bertha Junk Darby and Mrs. D. P. Junk. Mr. and Mrs. Darby are on their way to San Francisco where they will spend the next three weeks. They are making the trip south by motor.

Salemites to Attend Summer Session—Rev. and Mrs. H. D. Chambers, Mrs. Ada Strong and Miss Ileen Gilson will leave early in the week to attend a ten-day session of the summer school given under the auspices of the Episcopal church at Gearhart.

Wedding in Portland—A quiet wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents in Portland Wednesday evening when Marguerite Tift became the bride of Howard Culver. Rev. F. B. Culver, father of the groom, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Culver are spending the week-end with relatives and friends in this city where Mr. Culver was formerly employed by his uncle, W. J. Culver.

Needlecraft to Meet

The Needlecraft club will meet at the home of Mrs. J. W. LaBare, 1835 Lee street, next Tuesday afternoon.

Pythian Dance Is a Success

The Pythian Sisters' benefit dance, given June 15, in fraternal temple for the children's unit of the Pythian home, was a success, socially as well as financially. The floor is fine for dancing, the music was splendid, and the punch delicious. Flowers used for decorations were nasturtiums and sweet peas. A brother knight donated $50 to this fund. The gift was very much appreciated and it is hoped the entire quota may soon be raised.

It was visiting day at the prison and the uplifters were present. "My good man," said one kindly lady, "I hope that since you have come here you have had time for meditation and have decided to correct your faults."

"I have that, mum," replied the prisoner in heart-felt tones. "Believe me, the next job I pull, this baby wears gloves."

STRONG LIGHT AND SHADE IN PICTURE

Mary Philbin in "Stella Maris," Playing at the Oregon in Dual Role

Mary Philbin, who leaped to fame overnight in "Merry Go Round," has cast a new light on her many-sided artistry in the remarkable dual role she portrays in "Stella Maris" Universal's spectacular presentation of William J. Locke's famous novel, now playing at the Oregon theater.

Miss Philbin plays two different women—one the fragile and beautiful invalid whose name is the story's title—the other, "Unity Blake," a little scrubwoman, coarse, beaten down by work, but with a soul that in the end is capable of the biggest and most poetic sacrifice ever made on the altar of love.

One role is a feat in make-up for as "Unity," Mary Philbin not only wears a body taken by a cast from that of another woman, it is not the tricks of the artificers of the screen that work the illusion, but Miss Philbin's incomparable acting. The makeup and the trickery are, after all, incidental to the main thing—which is the delicate artistry with which the actress has caught the author's spirit and transferred it to the screen.

A notable cast was assembled by Charles Brabin, who scenarized and directed the story, to support Miss Philbin in the difficult part of roles. Elliot Dexter plays John Risco, one of the two men about whom the fate of the two heroines twines. Jason Robards, eminent British actor plays the other. Gladys Brockwell, whose outstanding work in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" is still referred to as classic, plays the sinister Louisa Nemesis of the two girls. Phillips Smalley, noted character artist, and other standard players adequately fill supplemental roles.

HAGEN TRAILS MITCHELL

VIRGINIA WATER, Sussex, England, June 18.—(By Associated Press.)—Walter Hagen, American star, tonight was trailing Abe Mitchell, ace of the British golf professionals, after the first day's play of their long heralded 72 hole match for the unofficial world's match play championship. With 36 holes played, Hagen was four down to the British star in his fight for the championship.

Teaching as Profession Means Good Preparation

"Young People Planning to Teach as Their Life Work Must Give Their Full Time, Must Be Well Prepared and Enjoy Classes," Says Hug

Those who are planning to fit themselves for educational work must be prepared in the first place to spend at least three years after high school in furthering their education, according to George Hug, city superintendent of schools.

If one is to teach in the grades, he must go to normal school for three years. If he is to teach in high school, he must be a bona fide graduate of a college. If he is to teach in college, it is practically necessary for him to have post graduate work. He should have at least a master of arts degree. Few teachers get positions now by taking yearly examinations.

If one is to make a real success in education, he must devote his full time to the work. He must not even contemplate a different line of summer work, according to Mr. Hug. Preferably, he should plan to attend summer school sessions to keep up with the trend of education. He should improve his mind by constant reading. Also, he should plan on attending his share of county, state and national educational conventions.

While the pay is not considered high, it is sufficient to live on respectably. The greatest pay comes in serving his community and his country by guiding the education of children to make them better citizens, to teach them to use their spare time and if possible to raise their cultural level.

In fact, says Mr. Hug, the five great objectives of education are citizenship, vocation (life work), avocation (action in leisure hours), moral training or character building, and promotion of health.

Mr. Hug, after having been a member of the varsity football squad and president of the student body, graduated from Oregon university. Prior to his graduation he had had two years' teaching experience. Upon graduating he became principal and athletic coach of Eugene high school, where he stayed for eight years.

Then he was appointed city school superintendent at McMinnville where he served for five years. His work there attracted the attention of local school directors. He accepted their offer to become superintendent here, and has remained in that capacity now for six years. He has taken summer research work at Chicago university, and Columbia university.

He is president of the Northwest association of secondary and higher schools and is a member of the executive committee of the Oregon State Teachers' association.

Eruptions Cause of Joy Not Sorrow in Hawaii

HONOLULU.—(By Associated Press.)—There are several sure signs of volcanic activity in Hawaii. One of them is quakes. A second is sulphur fumes. A third is a rise in taxi rates.

Dr. T. A. Jaggar, eminent volcanist, does not regard eruptions in Hawaii as alarming, nor do the citizens. In fact, by and large this phenomenon "sets people wild with joy." The steamship agencies, the hotels, the taxi-drivers, and everybody else begins to grin. The reason is that the quakes, although they often number 150 a day in the vicinity of Kilauea, are so gentle that no one is annoyed. The taxi-drivers do a tremendous business taking tourists to view the impending eruption of the one already under way, and the hotels and steamship companies get their share of the business.

The sulphur fumes are so light, says Dr. Jaggar, that the direction of the vent from which they come could not be determined by the public without information from the government observers.

Lava flows, although spectacular, do little damage and the dozen or two families forced to flee accept the situation in the spirit of packing up to move to the city, they are so used to moving out of the way of the flows.

Freewater—Western Dehydrating company takes over local dehydration plant, and will rebuild and increase for 1926 run.
