

K. of C. Victory Over Grotto, Score 4 to 3, Ends In Game Protest

OFFICIAL LEAGUE STANDINGS SUNDAY

Errors to Be Corrected as Directors Check Up on All Contests

Owing to an error in the standings just discovered by the league management the corrected percentage column will be published Sunday morning. The revised list of standings will include postponed games already played off, as well as all forfeited and protested games.

By BOB BISHOP
The K of C nine won a useless game from the Grotto in the Twi-light league last night by a 4-3 score. Useless because the game was under avoidable protest before play was begun.

It was ruled at a meeting Thursday noon that all teams must turn in the names of their players for the remaining contests. The K of C played L. Greene on first base without turning in his name, according to the league management, and the Grotto has placed the same under protest, which undoubtedly will be upheld. There has already been too much laxity in overlooking the running-in of unlisted players, and with the race for the championship narrowing down it is certain that the directors will become more strict in enforcement of the rules.

The K of C last night scored all of their runs in the second on two hits, two walks and two errors. L. Greene reached first on a boot by third base. Heenan and J. Greene walked filling the bases with none away. Towner went out, short to first, and L. Greene scored. The centerfielder dropped Barr's fly ball and Heenan crossed. J. Greene registered on Sulng's double to the left garden. The pitcher caught Sulng asleep off third base and following a single by Patterson, Varley grounded out to first.

Nearly tying the score in the next inning the Grotto registered three times. Jenkins, up first, singled. Paulson went out at first. Acton walked and two scored on a double to right field by Adolph, who also scored on Wilkerson's two bagger to center, ending the bell ringing for the game.

Neither side was able to cross for the rest of the game, only six more Grotto players batting in the remaining two frames.

DELANEY WINS DECISION IN TERRIFIC TITLE BOUT

ture of aggressiveness, outboxing, outgeneralizing and outfighting the champion at nearly every turn.

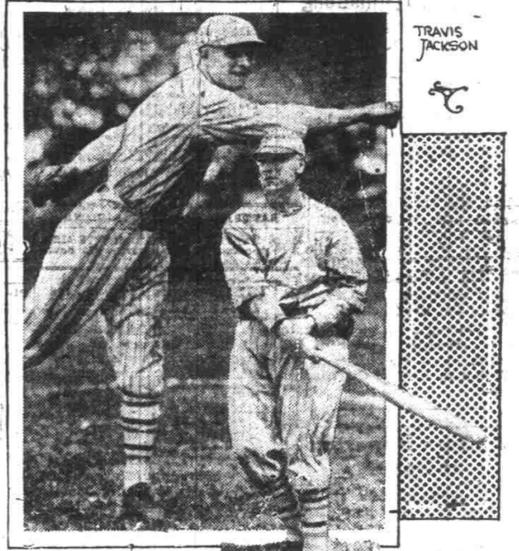

Dazedly, Berlenbach rushed in, occasionally striking his deadly left to the body, connecting with Delaney's head, but the challenger always seemed master of the situation, cool in his defensive work, and a sharp swordsman with each hand.

Berlenbach absorbed terrific punishment in those closing rounds but he did it courageously. Sensing that the title was slipping from his grasp, Paul gamely charged his foe, plunging in more fiercely as he was struck by blows to the head. It took all of Delaney's agility to keep out of the way of the champion's blows, but he avoided or parried them. Blood streamed from a bad cut over Berlenbach's left eye in the last four rounds, seeming almost to blind the champion at times, but he never halted his efforts to fight back.

Round 1.—The champion came out of his corner with a rush. Delaney danced around and jabbed weakly. Paul landed the first blow, a right to the body. Delaney brushed two jabs past Berlenbach's nose. The challenger jabbed to the face with his left and crossed with his stiff right but Berlenbach sidestepped and the blow glanced off his chin. Berlenbach stabbed at Delaney's ribs with his right but the challenger stopped him with a right to the body. Paul bounced one of his lefts to Delaney's shoulder. Berlenbach sent Delaney back on his heels with a left to the head. The bell prevented a follow.

Round 2.—They waltzed around looking for an opening. Delaney stung Berlenbach with a slow left to the head, then tied the champion in a clinch. The challenger ripped his left to Berlenbach's body and Paul covered up. Delaney drove his left to the ribs and then followed with a second body blow and the referee warned him for hitting low. Berlenbach walked into a left to the head and then took another to the same spot. Delaney, using his right hand for the first time, almost floored Paul with a driving punch to the head. They were sparring at the bell.

Fate of Giant and Yankee Teams May Rest Upon These Two Players

Right: Bob Meusel. Left: Travis Jackson. Giant adherents feel that upon the success of Travis Jackson, young shortstop and "main spring" of the team, in avoiding injury may rest the fate of the Giants in the National League race. The Yanks, meanwhile, must struggle along a month without the services of Bob Meusel, hefty slugger and outfielder.

Round 3.—They both came up cautiously. Delaney planted a left to the jaw and Berlenbach drove to the body with his right. The challenger turned Berlenbach half around with a stinging right to the face. Berlenbach walked into a right to the body and ripped away at Delaney's ribs with his left hand. Berlenbach stung Delaney with a left to the face and blood showed on the challenger's mouth. A vicious right uppercut caught Berlenbach open and his head went back with a jerk. They were walking when the bell rang.

Round 4.—Delaney staggered Berlenbach with a stinging left to the head. The challenger beat Berlenbach about the head and ribs at close range. Berlenbach drove Delaney to the ropes but the challenger clinched suddenly, Delaney punched openly at Berlenbach's head and body in a furious exchange of blows and the champion drove him to a frantic clinch. A lightning right uppercut caught Paul flush on the chin. Another right to the body landed on the champion with a resounding smack. They exchanged lefts and rights to the head just before the bell rang.

Round 5.—Delaney beat the champion to a right to the body. In attempting to clinch Berlenbach slipped, dropping to one knee, but he was up immediately where Delaney met him with a right uppercut. Berlenbach ripped his left to Delaney's body, but the challenger came right back with a right uppercut. Berlenbach landed three lefts to the head and took a right to the body. Delaney missed a right lead and Berlenbach punished him unmercifully about the body. Just before the bell Delaney staggered the champion with one of his famous right hand punches.

Round 6.—Delaney opened up with a vicious right which all but floored Berlenbach. The champion clinched and scored to the body twice. Two driving uppercuts bounced off Berlenbach's jaw. Another uppercut caught Berlenbach coming in but he danced out of danger of Delaney's follow. The champion staggered Delaney with a left to the head but Delaney slowed Berlenbach with a short right to the head. The champion was playing to the body with his damaging left.

Round 7.—Berlenbach blocked Delaney's left with his glove and bounced his left off the challenger's chin. The champion sent Berlenbach coming in but he danced out of danger of Delaney's follow. The champion staggered Delaney with a left to the head but Delaney slowed Berlenbach with a short right to the head. The champion was playing to the body with his damaging left.

Round 9.—They shook hands. The crowd cheered the challenger as he slapped to the face with his left. Berlenbach stung Delaney with a right to the head and dropped his left to the body. Delaney missed a right lead but a second landed on Paul's open jaw. Delaney sent a weak left to the head and then clinched. Another right slipped inside stopping one of Paul's rushes and dropped to one knee but came right up. The champion appeared strong as ever as he ripped his left to Delaney's unprotected body. They clinched and wrestled more frequently as Delaney appeared to be tiring. Delaney drove a glancing right to Berlenbach's chin but the champion countered with his famous left to the head which hurt the challenger. They were clinched at the bell.

Round 10.—Blood was streaming out of Delaney's nose as he came up for the round and the champion rushed him all over the ring with both gloves to the head and body. Berlenbach took Delaney's right to the glove but could not stop a left to the jaw. They traded rights to the head. The challenger was backing up at every charge. With a desperate leap Delaney feinted with his left and drove his right to Paul's chin but the effort was tiring and he took a steady rain to the body backing up. They were fighting hard at the bell.

Round 11.—The challenger looked haggard as he came up. They swapped weak lefts to the body. Delaney tapped Berlenbach lightly with his right but took the full steam of Berlenbach's left to the ribs. Berlenbach bounced a right to Delaney's nose, but took a stiff right to the jaw. The champion was taking all his challenger could shoot without backing up. Berlenbach tapped Delaney's nose again but almost crumpled up under Delaney's countering right to the body as the bell rang.

Round 12.—Two of Delaney's rights went wild before he drove his weakening right to Paul's chin. A stinging right uppercut hurt Berlenbach and the crowd yelled to the challenger to follow up but he was content to let Berlenbach come back for more. Another right to the head followed by a glancing left stunned the champion and Berlenbach held on. Two rights to the head brought a faint trickle of blood from Berlenbach's left eye. A wild right and left uppercut both found their marks to the champion's chin and the crowd went wild; but the bell halted Delaney's grueling attack.

Round 13.—The challenger came up with renewed strength. He pumped his left to Berlenbach's body and then shot over a right to the chin and the champion grasped for the body. Berlenbach appeared to be tiring under another left to the body forced him to clinch. Berlenbach reeled under the power of Delaney's trip hammer right to the jaw but in desperation he drove lefts to the ribs and head. A left to the head staggered the champion. Then Delaney turned him around with a crushing right. The crowd yelled frantically to the challenger but the bell stopped the round.

Round 14.—Delaney continued boxing cleverly took Paul's left lead on the glove, then drove a lightning right to the jaw. A left uppercut almost floored the champion and he grabbed the ropes to save himself from going down. It was a thrilling rally and the spectators cheered the effort. At close quarters Delaney slipped over a short right and the blood trickled down Berlenbach's face from his cut left eye. The champion was short with his left and Delaney planted a well timed right uppercut on the jaw. Delaney sent over another underhand to the body as the bell sounded.

her line, also has many spots which are quite pathetic, and the actors succeeded in making these parts very convincing.

The same players presented "Rip Van Winkle" in the afternoon, the play being adapted from Washington Irving's well known story. The quaint characters of Rip and his shrewish wife were realistically portrayed by Herbert Sprague and Floy Mahan Sprague. Persons who took the principal parts in "Lightnin'" were Herbert Sprague as "Lightnin'" himself; James O'Brien as John Marvin; Bess Mahan as Mildred Buckley; A. H. Mayberry as Raymond Thomas; Mabel Schroeder as Mrs. Bill Jones; William Natter as Judge Lemuel Townsend, and Floy Mahan Sprague as Margaret Davis. The stories are laid in Nevada and in the California hotel, on the California-Nevada state line.

The largest crowd of the week was present at the performance last evening, but a much larger one is expected to hear Billy Sunday, the famous evangelist, tonight.
Mr. Sunday's topic is unknown, but those who have heard him speak before say that the topic makes little difference, his talk is certain to be of much interest. Mr. Sunday has lectured and addressed religious gatherings all over the United States and has never failed to draw huge crowds. On the occasions when he speaks in Portland the stands are always filled to overflowing long before the time arrives.

This afternoon's program will have the Harmony Girls as entertainers. They are a quartet of girls who have had much experience on Chautauqua and Lyceum circuits. They present a program of costume songs and music said to be unexcelled by any of its kind.
The Harmony Girls, besides appearing in the afternoon, will present a brief tribute to Billy Sunday's address in the evening. It was announced by the management yesterday.

Three lines of hose were placed by the Stayton fire department and the fire-fighters were successful in confining the blaze to one building.

PORTLAND, July 16.—(By Associated Press.)—Seventy men have been sent to fight a serious fire on the Steamboat slope of the Bohemia mining district 40 miles east of Cottage Grove. The fire first started by lightning has spread over 500 acres and in endangering mining property, besides threatening to wipe out the camp established by fire-fighters.

Other blazes in the state still constituted a serious menace tonight, although hope was expressed that with the proper weather conditions they could soon be brought under control.
A slackening of the wind late today brought relief to the situation on Dooley mountain, near Baker, where a large crew has been battling a fire in old slashings. No serious timber damage resulted from the blaze, but travel over the Baker-Unity highway was hampered for a time.

The Mitchell Point fire on the Columbia river was reported tonight as safe unless an east wind should arise.
Seventy men are working on this blaze.
Two fires in the Umpqua national forest in southern Oregon are still out of control and regarded as dangerous, although a heavy fog has aided somewhat.

In the Ochocho national forest crew and stockmen are fighting a blaze which started from 25 lightning fires last Monday.
PORTLAND, July 16.—(By Associated Press.)—A huge forest fire broke out late yesterday in the Bogus creek section in Siskiyou county, California, about 25 miles south of Klamath Falls, late this afternoon was sweeping thousands of acres of United States forest reservation and holdings of the Pickering Timber company.

BAND POPULARITY SEEN MISS EVA ROBERTS IS GIVEN OVATION ON APPEARANCE

In spite of the cool weather and many counter attractions last night, a large crowd was present at the semi-weekly concert of the Cherrian band led by Oscar Steelhammer. Miss Eva Roberts, the soloist who has been popular, sang two numbers that drew a great deal of applause.
None of the noise that marked some of the concerts last year is evident this season, as all those within hearing were enchanted by the band's music and listened in silent appreciation of its high quality.
The band played with ever-increasing skill and could be heard clearly by portions of the audience which scattered all over Willson park.
