Bud Greene, Declared Ineligible, Under New Player Ruling

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Grotto	7	2	.778

The baseball game Friday between the Knights of Columbus and Grotto teams, which was won by the KC team, has been declared forfeited because of ineligibility of one of the players. Bud Greene, who covered first base for the KC aggregation, was the ineligible man.

Greene was ineligible under the recent ruling that no new players can be used except under extreme necessity, and then only after their names have been passed on by the board of arbitration. Greene had not played with the KC team before, and his name had not been handed in.

The game was played under protest, and the Knights of Columbus team was warned of the ruling beforehand, but the manager said the team was short a man and would play the game anyway with Greene in the lineup, leaving it to the directors to decide whether the game would stand as played.

The reason for the new ruling is that if teams were allowed to take on new players so late in the season, and with the championship series at hand, all the clubs in the leagues would be signing all the "ringers" in sight, upsetting the whole schedule. It is considered by the board of arbitration that since the teams have had all season to sign 15 players, they should be able to put nine men on the field at this time.

The schedule for the postponed games has been revised again. The latest schedule is as follows:

Commercial league:
 July 19—Legion vs. Bank.
 July 21—Bank vs. KC.
 July 23—Legion vs. Grotto.
 July 26—Valley Motor vs. Oregon Pulp and Paper.
 July 27—Legion vs. KC.
Industrial-Fraternal league:
 July 20—Guard vs. PO.
 July 28—Guard vs. Eagles.

Luncheon of Paris Zoo Like Old Roman Banquet

PARIS.—(AP)—Lucullus' famous Roman banquets supplied with rarities from every corner of the empire, had nothing on the annual luncheon of the Paris Zoo. Every year the Jardin d'Acclimatation sends out invitations for a feast of exotic dishes with the scientific aim of trying to extend the range of French cooking.

Walrus steak, shark's fins, elephant joints, and hippopotamus chine have been only a few of the extraordinary dishes at these luncheons. This year's menu started off with Indo-Chinese sea-urchins and Annamite pancakes of beans flavored with bits of chicken and crab.

The Midget Meat Market never fails to give you the finest meats and fish. There is but one place in Salem to get the finest fish. The Midget Market has it for you. (*)

St. Johns Bears Face Senators Here Today; Albany-Cyclols To Battle

GAME WILL START WITH NINE STRONG

Salem's Chance for Championship Turns on Outcome of Albany Contest

When the St. Johns Bears meet the Senators at Oxford park this afternoon at 3 o'clock they will present a lineup that is much improved since their last appearance here. When the two weakest teams dropped out of the circuit the Bears signed several of them, who will appear in the lineup today.

The Salem club is still in the running for the championship and therefore is set to win this afternoon's struggle. If Albany and Salem can both beat the league leading Cyclols, the local team will have an excellent chance of landing on top of the heap at the last of the season.

The team here showed great improvement over its previous form when it snowed the Albany team under in an 18 to 0 contest last Sunday. All the players hit the ball hard and often, fielded well, and the team looked like a championship club.

The Cyclols will meet Albany at Albany in the other league game this afternoon, with the invaders on the long end of the betting. If the Albany club can come to life and put over a win, Salem's chances for the pennant will go up considerably.

At Shipley's the ladies of Salem have satisfied themselves that they can get the finest spring and summer frocks, coats and dresses ever shown in this city. (*)

PASTOR KILLS MAN IN CHURCH OFFICE

the pastor's life if he again mentioned Meacham's name in his sermons or weekly. Norris then obtained the night watchman's pistol from a desk drawer and shot Chipps, he said, in a statement to the district attorney.

Chipps was unarmed, City Detective Bush said, after searching the dying man and the office in which he had been shot.

Norris first attracted state wide attention when the church of which he was pastor burned in March, 1911, under mysterious circumstances which led to his trial on a charge of arson. After a trial in which many startling climaxes developed, including testimony of a government meteorologist regarding the position of the moon at the time of the blaze, Norris was acquitted.

Norris' congregation, which has followed him through the ups and downs of his career, has been increasing each year. It was only a few days ago that he announced opening of a radio membership for all unable to attend his services in person. Norris is also editor and publisher of the Searchlight, financed partly by sale of stock and claiming a large circulation.

In recent years, Norris has turned his bludgeons against the alleged teaching of evolution in Baptist schools and has been at odds with the remainder of the Baptist churches of the state for some time. At the state conference at Minerva Wells last December, his delegates were not seated.

In 1923 Norris invited a large body of well known fundamentalists of several creeds here for a congress, at which time it was reported that he intended forming a new church. For some reason, no church was formed and the delegates returned to their homes.

Norris said that the sermon that Chipps objected to referred to Mayor Meacham and L. B. Haughey, manager of Meacham's department store.

Norris said he asked Chipps what interest he had in the matter and that Chipps replied: "A whole lot."

By the time Norris had finished his statement the office of the district attorney was almost crowded. Many volunteered to sign the bond when Norris was taken before a justice of the peace.

Nutt said that when Chipps approached Norris said: "I have something to say to you and I mean it. If you make another statement about my friends I am going to kill you."

"Who are your friends?" Nutt quoted Norris as asking.

"Meacham, Austin and Roach,"

Chipps replied, "I am shooting straight on this, and if you talk about them I'm going to kill you."

"I don't want any more trouble out of you," Norris said, according to Nutt. Mr. Norris took him to the door. Chipps said to him, "I repeat everything I have said," Nutt related. "Norris turned and started back to his office and Chipps started to him saying, 'All right, let's go to,' Chipps made a move in the direction of Norris. I don't know what Mr. Norris did for I was watching Chipps. First I knew of the shooting was when the shots were fired."

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—(By Associated Press.)—The Rev. J. Frank Norris, Baptist minister who shot and killed D. E. Chipps in his Fort Worth church today, has on several occasions conducted fundamental revivals here in partnership with the Rev. John Roach Stratton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church. At one time Dr. Norris predicted "the destruction of sinful New York in one hour."

His last appearance here was in August, 1925, when he held a series of tent meetings.

Dr. Norris attracted attention when the Baptist convention was held in Washington when he attacked the Young Men's Christian association for opposing "blue laws" and "teaching the young men in army camps during the World war to smoke."

He was one of the most militant fundamentalists at the trial of John T. Scopes for violation of the Tennessee anti-evolution law last year.

In 1912 Dr. Norris was indicted for perjury and arson in connection with the burning of his church.

of lighting from windows and conservation of space in hallways. The corridors in the building as shown have only 85 per cent of the hall space that is present in most school buildings.

Another feature considered excellent is that a small auditorium is included, with two adjoining rooms that can be combined with the auditorium to give added space.

The school board will meet again Tuesday night with the architects to discuss the plans. When a final set of plans is agreed on by architects and board, a model of the proposed building will be made, so that the public can see exactly what is planned.

Frank Neer, board member, will be absent at Tuesday's meeting as he will be in San Francisco attending the national Lions' club convention.

Local headquarters of the Bing Kong, Bow Longs and Hop Sing, the warring tongs, have told police they will remain peaceful, but officers fear outside gunmen will be imported. In the meantime the Chinese here are uneasy and many of them are in hiding.
