Mrs. Grady Honors Mrs. Thompson With Attractive One o'Clock Luncheon

A group of Portland friends were the guests of Mrs. Harold Grady yesterday at luncheon when Mrs. Grady entertained for the pleasure of her mother, Mrs. Chas. R. Thompson, who is her house guest from San Francisco.

A color scheme of green and gold was particularly effective on the luncheon table. Gladioli and golden rod formed the centerpiece while green candles were used in holders of green art glass.

Covers at the 1 o'clock luncheon table were placed for Mrs. Phil Bleumauer, Mrs. Jack Cullinan, Mrs. Dean Ing of Honolulu, Mrs. Jay Groo, Mrs. Fred Randlett, Mrs. Van Wee, Mrs. Annistey, the honor guest, Mrs. Charles R. Thompson, and the hostess, Mrs. Harold Grady.

Bridge was the diversion of the afternoon, with Mrs. Dean Ing winning the highest score. The second award went to Mrs. Van Wee, while Mrs. Bleumauer won the consolation award.

On Saturday Mrs. Grady and Mrs. Thompson will leave for Cannon Beach, Mrs. Thompson will return to San Francisco early next month, while Mrs. Grady and Mrs. E. A. Grady of La Grande will spend the entire month of August at the beach.

High School Girl Reserves Return to Salem

With the return of the high school girl reserves and their advisers to Salem yesterday, the camp ground, "Santaly," at Mehana is formally closed for the season. Three groups of local girls, totaling 75 individuals, have been at the camp at intervals during the summer. The first girls to occupy the new camp site were the junior high school girl reserves, who were followed by the Grax club, an organization of business girls, and then in turn by the high school girl reserves.

Fifteen girls made up the most recent delegation. This group was accompanied by Miss Marian Wyman, Miss Mary Erickson and Mrs. Robert Dann. Mrs. Dann was in camp for three days, during which time she conducted the discussion hour.

Last Wednesday the girls enjoyed an overnight excursion to Lumker bridge. Saturday night was "stunt night," while on Tuesday the group featured a fancy dress ball.

Two girls from Woodburn, Ann Baillie and Alberta Van Cleave, were included in the party.

In the Salem delegation were Miss Rose Folger, Miss Eloise White, Miss Esther Taylor, Miss Esther Gardner, Miss Ruth Swafford, Miss Virginia Berger, Miss Viola Crozer, Miss Cynthia Delano, Miss Rosalie Buren, Miss Elizabeth Waters, Miss Frances Martin, Miss Minnie Shrode, Miss Rosalind Van Winkle, Miss Jennie Delzell, Miss Erickson, Miss Wyman and Mrs. Dann.

OCHOCO IRRIGATION SURVEY IS STARTED

Extent of Water Supply, Value of Lands Will Be Shown in Report

Investigation of the Ochoco irrigation district to determine the extent of the water supply, value of the lands and how the present indebtedness may be liquidated, has been started under the direction of W. L. Powers, soil expert at OAC; W. M. McLaughlin and L. M. Winsor of the United States department of agriculture, and W. H. Lapham, western inspector of soil surveys with headquarters at Berkeley, Cal.

The investigation was authorized by the state securities commission as a means of reaching some agreement between the settlers who have defaulted in their interest payments and the bond holders. The present indebtedness of the district includes outstanding bonds aggregating $1,425,000, state interest loans of $140,545 and outstanding warrants totalling $1,826,000.

The district contains 22,000 acres of land and is located in Crook county.

It was said that an effort would be made to have Fred Henshaw of the United States geological survey, revise the water supply and bring the records up to date.

Bits For Breakfast

"The Gold Rush"

It is still on at the Oregon—4

Will be on today and tomorrow and Friday.

And is still drawing crowds. Every one who has not seen it, must see it. It is Charlie Chaplin's greatest picture.

Man writing in a local paper on prune prices has his wires crossed. He gives the impression that prunes are selling higher in the Myrtle Creek district than in Salem, which is not true. Also that Italian prunes are selling a cent a pound higher than petite prunes. The contrary is true. Petite (or French) prunes persist in selling at about a cent a pound higher than Italian prunes. This fact is bound to turn the Salem district into a petite district in time. But ours will not be petite (or small) prunes, as in California. We will grow the large prunes, like several varieties that have been developed here; especially the Noble French petite. Our best prune men are using nothing else in replacing dead Italian trees, and in new plantings. This is bound to persist.

George Meacham is dead in Seattle. He had been treasurer of the city of Seattle, and leading member of the Washington legislature, and prominent in many other ways in our sister state. He was aged 72. He was a son of Col. A. B. Meacham, of Modoc Indian war fame, and the family lived in Salem for a long time in those days, and were prominent here. Mrs. J. W. Redington was Nellie Meacham, a sister. There are old timers in Salem who could tell many interesting things about the Meacham family.

WIRES CROSSED ON PRUNE PRICES

Italian Prunes Not Higher Than Petite Prunes, and Will Not Be

"The price of Italians on the market at Myrtle Creek is 1 cent higher than the petites, and G. P. Wilder of Myrtle Creek has sold all of the fruit from his 14-acre tract at 9 cents."

The above paragraph from a local paper of yesterday gives the impression that prune prices at Myrtle Creek and other points south of Salem are higher than here, and that Italian prunes are 1 cent a pound higher than petites. In reality, petites are a cent a pound higher than Italians. The reasons would make a long story.

On that basis, the Rosenberg concern of California has bought between three and four million pounds of prunes in the Myrtle Creek district.

A NOTE OF THANKS AND APPRECIATION

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the many who did all in their power to save our daughter, Marjorie, to us. We wish also to express sincere and deep appreciation for the wonderful tribute of love to her expressed in the form of flowers.

It was out of the fullness of your hearts that you did it, and words fail us to express our appreciation of the sympathy felt and expressed by the multitude of her friends, and ours, at her loss.

There has come to us a deep satisfaction, almost like joy, in the knowledge that the same feeling of sorrow in the loss of her that we feel ourselves is felt by so many. We realize that we are not bearing the burden of sorrow alone, but that the whole community is bearing it with us. We did not realize till she was taken from us how large a place she held in the community.

She was our daughter and lived in our home, but we realize now that she belonged to the community as well as to ourselves.

So many have said it that we are happy to believe it. "Every body loved Marjorie," and it is perhaps an exaggeration to say that she radiated sunshine wherever she went. She was preparing to live and was just beginning to live a full life. Dying was the last thing in her mind, but she was already prepared to die, and that also is a great satisfaction to us.

I cannot say, and I will not say that she is dead. She is just away. With a cherry smile and a wave of the hand she has wandered into an unknown land. And left us desolating, how very fair. It needs must be, since she lingered there.

And oh, how, who the wildest words. For the old-time step and the glad return.

Think of her faring on, as dear. In the love of here as the love of here. Think of her still as the same, I say. She is not dead—she is just away.

Pay Cash

Pay-cash and live within your budget. As soon as one begins to spend more money than one earns or spends it before one gets it the danger place has been reached and one should sit down and give a little thought as to where it's all going to end.

Pay cash and buy where your dollar obtains the most when applied to your actual wants and not to "well I guess that will do."

Bank a part of your earnings—by all means. There will be a day when you'll want a few dollars and want it badly. Why not be independent of your friends for borrowing trivial sums in such a low admission of self failure. Bank a few dollars each week or month and have that feeling of confidence that's worth thousands of dollars to any well thinking individual.
