

BONNEY CLAN HAD A GOOD MEETING

The Place for the Annual Gathering Will Be Woodburn Next Year

The Bonney clan, which held its annual meeting at the state fair ground on Sunday, had a very enjoyable session, with a bountiful picnic at the noon hour. The attendance was about 150. L. C. Sherwood and wife and daughter coming all the way from Los Angeles to attend, and W. P. Bonney and family coming from Tacoma.

There were short speeches in which the memories of the pioneer Bonneys who came to Oregon in the early fifties were called up, and a beginning of the collection of data for a family tree to be printed was authorized. This is to be under the direction of W. P. Bonney of Tacoma, who is secretary of the Washington Historical society, occupying the same position as that of Geo. H. Himes in Oregon. The Bonneys date back to 1834 in this country, beginning in Connecticut, and a number of them held high commissions in the Revolution. Dr. Truman Bonney and other members of the family were prominent in the pioneer days of Oregon and Washington. Woodburn is built on one of the Bonney donation land claims.

W. P. Bonney of Tacoma was elected president of the clan for the coming year. J. M. W. ("Wike") Bonney of Carlton, Oregon, vice president, and Bonnie Scott Berthelson of Woodburn, secretary-treasurer.

LEWIS STONE STARS IN DESERT PICTURE

'Old Loves and New' Strong Drama of Algeria, Now at The Elsinore

Tourists crossing the Great American Desert recently thought they were witnessing a mirage when they perceived a long caravan consisting of camels, an elephant, Arabian steeds and a small army of Arabian tribesmen making towards what appeared to be a populous Algerian desert village. It was no mirage, however, but simply the company of "Old Loves and New," Marion Fairfax's new picture, which is now playing at the Elsinore. The company spent three weeks making "location" scenes in this desert oasis.

An advance group of artisans built a replica of an Algerian village, with its baked-mud walls, its turreted mosques and crooked, bazaar-lined streets. In the group of film stars accompanying the caravan were Lewis Stone, who has the principal role of El Hakim—which is the Arabic for desert healer—Barbara Bedford, Walter Pidgeon, Tully Marshall, Katherine McDonald, Ann Rork, Arthur Rankin and Albert Conti.

"Old Loves and New" is an adaptation of "The Desert Healer" the E. M. Hall novel of 8,000,000 readers, which tells of an Englishman, his love of life blasted by tragedy, who goes to the Algerian desert to lose himself among the natives and there finds the big romance of his life.

SILVERTON, Aug. 2.—(Special to The Statesman.)—The Lutheran Brotherhood of Silverton sponsored a farewell party Saturday night at Trinity church social rooms for four of its members who are leaving, three of them this week and the other, the Rev. George Henriksen, by Sept. 1.

The other three members whom the brotherhood honored were Amos Corhouse, Dan Dybsetter and William Thompson. Mr. Corhouse, who has been a member of the city council at Silverton for a number of years and who was also chairman of the board of directors of Trinity church for several years, will go to Minnesota to make his home.

Mr. Dybsetter, a member of the board of directors of Trinity church and an active member of the Brush Creek Parent-Teacher association, will also go to Minnesota to make his home. He will live but seven miles from the home of the Corhouses.

George Henriksen goes to Parkland, Wash., as field secretary of the Pacific Lutheran college which is located there. Rev. Mr. Henriksen has been pastor of Trinity for the past nine years.

As part of the program given at the party Saturday evening, Mr. Storruete presented each of the four honor guests with a billfold from the brotherhood with the instructions that the billfold should be kept sufficiently filled to insure a return trip ticket to Silverton. A short musical program, and a number of talks by members were given. Members of both St. John's and Trinity churches were present and, following the program a social hour was enjoyed. The question of uniting the two congregations was touched upon favorably by many of the speakers.

CUBAN FRUIT RATE INCREASE ALARMS

Fear New Duties Would Shut American Apples From Market, Claim

Northwest fruit shippers are much concerned over the increase in import duties on American fruit in Cuba, which is imminent. Word of this intended action was received by I. L. Plette, manager of the Yakima Valley Traffic & Credit association, says the Northwest Produce News.

The president of Cuba is about to announce an increase from 62 cents for each 100 kilos of fresh fruit to $4.16 for each 100 kilos. Since our kilo is 2,204 pounds, the increase would be from 14 cents a box of apples to 95 cents a box, which would in effect shut American apples out of Cuba.

Cuba is a large consumer of northwest apples and if the proposed increase is allowed to become effective it will mean the elimination of northwest apples from the Cuban market.

Mr. Plette at once wired to W. H. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, urging him to use his best efforts through the national administration with the Cuban government to withhold the imposition of such an increase in the import duty as is proposed. Mr. Plette has asked the Yakima chamber of commerce to wire to Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, urging action.

Similar telegrams are going forward from Hood River and from Wenatchee.

PRUNE MARKET HAS NOT CHANGED MUCH

No Good Reason Why Growers Should Not Sit Tight as to Prices

Prune prospects indicate a slightly larger than 1925 output with a corresponding decrease in the hold-over supply, leaving no larger quantity for the world prune market, says the market specialists of the Oregon Agricultural college extension service.

"The prospective world's crop has not changed greatly in recent weeks," says the report. "Some improvement is noted in condition of the California crop, but prospects are not so good in the Jugoslavian and the French crops."

From the five-year average of 305 million pounds produced on the coast the average export has been 111 million, leaving a little over 200 million pounds for consumption in the United States. Including the small carry-over the exportable surplus this year may be not far from 150 million pounds, unless unfavorable conditions from now on limit the output to less than 350 million pounds. The output has run from 312 million pounds the last four years.

The coast exported 151,406,000 pounds in 1925-26, and 171,771,216 the preceding year. The principal countries receiving this fruit are Germany, United Kingdom, Netherlands, France, Scandinavia, Finland, Belgium, New Zealand, Mexico and Argentina. It is the European demand that really makes or breaks the market for Pacific coast prunes.

"Jugoslavia is our chief competitor in the dried prune markets of Europe where competition is largely on the basis of price, although California prunes rate better in quality and sell a little higher. Exports of dried prunes from Jugoslavia amounted to nearly 90 million pounds in 1925 and 1926."
