

One drop of water does not make a waterfall-- One man's effort will not build a community

PATRONIZING of YOUR COMMUNITY STORES AND INDUSTRIES MAKES PAYROLLS

How great this community may grow, how prosperous and complete it may become, depends upon us--our willingness and our desire to work together-- ONE for ALL and ALL for ONE

THE SEED SLOGAN NUMBER OF THE STATESMAN BROUGHT MUCH NOTICE

Last Year 322 Persons Wrote to Ella McMunn About Seed Growing Possibilities Here, a Man Came From California and a Woman From Pennsylvania--Her Specialty Is Pansies of the Whopping Big Kind--Seed Worth $256 to $400 a Pound

Editor Statesman: Owing to the fact that a physical affliction causes me to be about as spry as a sack of potatoes...

In spite of this, or because of it perhaps, I am rather proud of what I have done, because it shows what our wonderful soil and our wonderful climate stand ready to do if given any chance at all...

Statesman Publicity Pulls Although my name appeared only ten or a dozen times in the seed slogan number of The Statesman last August, exactly 322 persons wrote to me about seed growing possibilities in Oregon...

My specialty is pansies, the whopping big kind the size of a pancake or a fried egg, and those of the orchid shades that are so marvelously lovely and pure and ethereal that I do not even care for Bow-Wow's company when I go out to look at them when the early dew is on them...

Brings High Prices Pansy seed is worth $250 a pound, although very choice comes at $400 a pound. But you can do better than that, with blooming plants, which have a record of bringing E. J. Steele, the pansy king of the world, who lives at Portland, the neat sum of $6,000 for a third of an acre, which stacks up to $18,000 an acre...

Inexpensive Equipment My equipment for this large and lucrative six-dollar-a-year industry is not expensive but thus far is adequate. It consists of peach boxes that are about five inches deep, two feet long and 18 inches wide, filled to the top with good soil--Lake Labish if convenient, but not much barnyard fertilizer until the next stage of growth...

By observing the rules of good management the grower by means of the foregoing plans is able to get good regular stands without sowing the seed so thick that if it comes up well he will have to spend a lot of time and work thinning out--a process expensive in seed material and time when carried to excess.

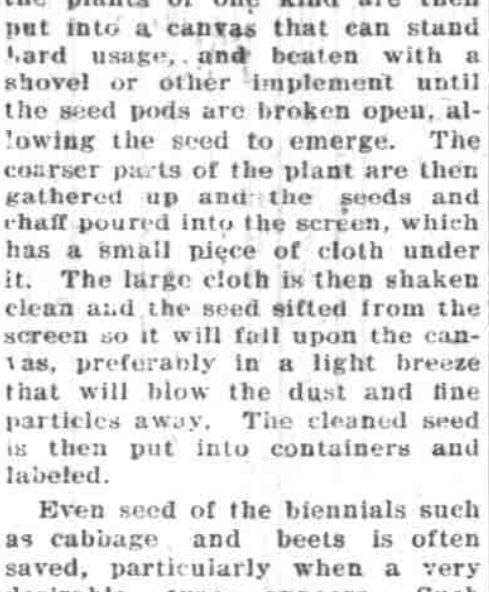

THE SEED INDUSTRY INCREASING IN DISTRICT (Continued from page 8.) practically all of the onion sets for the whole of the country west of the Rockies. The Lake Labish district alone will have over 2,000,000 pounds of onion sets this year...

Some New Ones The Salem district has produced a little rye grass seed for 15 years. Within the past two years, and more notably in the past year, this line has expanded enormously. We are now producing hundreds of tons here, for our country wide markets, taking the place of foreign rye grass seed...

SAVE YOUR SEED FOR YOUR OWN USE (Continued from page 8.) solves particularly well to seed saving. Seed from these plants thus obtained has never failed to sprout and grow vigorously for me, to be free of weed seed and to be the very variety and strain I wanted.

A BRIDGE WOULD AID FLAX GROWING

Silverton Tribune Says Williams Should be Spanned at Wheatland

(The Silverton Tribune, in last week's issue, advocates the building of a bridge at Wheatland; in the following editorial article:) One of the big things that would help the linen industry in this valley would be a bridge across the river at Wheatland.

Mussolini Fifteen Years Ago Was Begging Work BERGAMO. Mussolini, only fifteen years ago, was in such straits of poverty that he wandered about the streets of Lausanne, Switzerland, stopped persons who seemed to be Italians, asking them if they could not give him enough work to allow him to earn at least a meal.

bered who he was. An answer said: "I remember mighty well!" Crossing a bridge in Lausanne one morning in 1911, Signora Nava was stopped by a starved-looking young man who timidly asked whether she was Italian. When she responded affirmatively, the young man, none other than Mussolini, pleaded for work. Nava employed him but soon afterward he began to give private lessons and to write articles for newspapers, abandoning the job which had saved him from starvation.

the 12th street and 13 street plants. The Northwest cannery is busy with full forces, on pears and evergreens. The Green Fruit Men Young & Wells finished up on their green prune shipments Tuesday. Denney & Co. cleaned up last Saturday noon. The sent 56 cars from the Salem plant, and 97 cars in all, the others from McMinnville and Yamhill. There are no definite reports et on returns for the shipments. The press reports of auction sales in the big cities look good.

INFRINGEMENT Kind-Hearted Visitor: The poor man in No. 13 seems to have been harshly treated; he tells me that he is imprisoned for infringement of copyright. I've heard of heavy damages for that, but not-- Warden: He's quite right though! He printed some treasury notes, government pattern.--Passing Show.

Swimmer Must Shun His Auto to Race in Water LOS ANGELES--For those who seek aquatic laurels Duke Kahanamoku, great Hawaiian swimmer, recommends abstinence from automobile driving. He says it brought about his defeat in the 100-meter sprint at the 1924 Olympics. Johnny Weismuller was the winner of that race.
