

Jurist Disappears, Dempsey-Coliseum Club Affair Not Yet Settled

WILLS ATTORNEYS GROWING FRANTIC

Endeavor to Secure Action on Injunction Delayed in Indiana Court

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 13.—(By Associated Press.)—The unexplained absence of the judge today prevented hearing in Marion county superior court of a petition for a temporary injunction to prevent Jack Dempsey, from defending his heavy weight crown until he fulfills a contract claim to be held by the Chicago Coliseum club.

Attorneys for the Chicago organization, which maintains that Dempsey is under contract to it to box Harry Wills, negro challenger, and legal representatives of the champion awaited in vain the arrival of Judge Clinton H. Givan. The judge was reported to be at his summer home near here. When no word had been received at noon, attorneys for the complainants sent a representative to the summer home in search of the missing judge, but to no avail.

At the end of the court day, representatives of Dempsey said they had answered the call, issued a statement and indicated they were through with the local cases. Attorneys for the Chicago Coliseum club, however, said they would wait until tomorrow to see if Judge Givan did not make a belated appearance. An early afternoon effort by Dempsey's attorneys to have the others agree on another superior court judge failed when the club's lawyers were unable to satisfy themselves of the legality of such a move.

A. F. Driscoll, of New York, an attorney for Dempsey, prepared the statement which denied that Dempsey was under contract to the Chicago Coliseum club. He cited an identical action filed against the champion in Federal Court in Colorado, declaring that if the other side had any faith in satisfied to prosecute to a final decision there.

"The leading boxing promoters of the country, are of the opinion that a fight between Dempsey and Wills would hurt the boxing game and they do not want any part in it," the statement said.

BAN SMOKERS IN FOREST

CASCADE NATIONAL FOREST CLOSED DUE TO HAZARD

PORTLAND, Aug. 13.—(By Associated Press.)—The entire Cascade national forest, lying east of Eugene and comprising 1,023,510 acres, was closed to smokers today. Those who ignore the injunction against smoking will be prosecuted under the trespass regulation of the United States department of agriculture, officials said.

The closing of the forest was necessitated by the extremely high fire hazard in the Cascade forest which extends to the summit of the Cascade mountains and includes the McKenzie and upper Willamette rivers, Waldo lake and Three Sisters regions.

Previously this summer more than 3,500,000 acres in the national forests have been closed to trespassing or to smoking.

The fish lake fire in Crater forest is controlled.

Nice thing about spring is you are too lazy to worry about spring.

Why does Mr. George Herman Ruth look so serious in the accompanying photo? Because he is thinking about his luck against Mr. George Uhle. The Cleveland pitcher stands out today as Ruth's master. The Cleveland pitcher has triumphed over the league leading Yankees four times this season—partly by reason of his ability to seize, blind and gag Mr. Ruth.

Uhle, in these four games, held the New Yorkers to six runs and 25 hits. Cleveland won the games by the scores of 5 to 1, 6 to 1, 5 to 1, and 4 to 2.

He struck out 23 batters in those 26 innings of play.

AND IN THE FOUR GAMES BABE RUTH COLLECTED JUST THREE HITS.

None of the three has been for more than one base.

He made two of these three in the fourth game, which was the opening one of the last series with the Indians. Neither one of them affected the game.

And Uhle struck out the Big Bambino twice in that game—once with the bases full and two out. The Yankees had tied the score with two runs in that round (the second) and a long hit by Ruth would have given the Yanks a big lead.

And the interesting part of it is that while hamstringing Ruth and his buddies at bat, Uhle has done nobly with the bludgeon himself. He has slammed out six hits against the Yank hurlers—two of the hits being doubles. He has scored one run himself and driven in three.

Need any further evidence be submitted to prove Mr. Uhle's mastery over Babe and his crew?

DEMPSEY SPURNS THREAT OF WILLS

"Hoodlums Fight in Streets" Declares Challenger in Reply

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—(By Associated Press.)—Hoodlums fight in the street, was Jack Dempsey's answer today to the offer of Harry Wills, negro contender for the heavy-weight title, to knock the champion out any time, for nothing. Dempsey remarked that he did not make his living fighting in the streets and has always tried to uphold the best standards of the ring.

"If Wills is very anxious to fight," said Dempsey, "I suggest he come right up here and meet my chief sparring partner, Big Bill Tate. The last time they met, at Portland, Oregon, Tate beat Wills decisively, and he would like to bet $10,000 that he can do it again."

Gene Normile, Dempsey's manager suggested:

"As long as Dempsey's chief sparring partner put it all over Wills out in Portland, it would hardly seem to be worth while to have Dempsey meet Wills. The blast from New York sounds as if it came from the gutter."

Normile announced that the champion would begin his road work tomorrow and would undertake extensive training Sunday.

FIND WHAT YOUR CITY HAS, THEN BOOST, ADVISE

"If Salem doesn't grow as it should, other towns will take advantage of that fact," said Hugo Swan, nationally known lecturer on selling and advertising, in an address before the Kiwanis club yesterday noon.

"Salem has a problem in which the people will be the salesmen.

"The first question to ask ourselves is 'What has Salem to sell that other towns have not?' Then we should tell all the knockers to leave.

"In business we back the man who backs himself. The same thing applies to cities. The business man or banker who tells everybody the town is dead is helping to kill it."

Mr. Swan emphasized the need of purchasing everything possible from local merchants to keep up the business in the town. Although mail order houses and chain stores have their place, he said, many people buy from them things they could just as well get from local merchants.
