

Livestock and Poultry Exhibits to Be Large

ALL SPACE BOOKED, OVERFLOW FEARED

Duroc Jersey Senior Pigs to Set Records at 1926 Displays

Reports received by Mrs. Ella Wilson, secretary of the Oregon state fair board, indicate that the livestock and poultry exhibits at the 1926 state fair will be the largest in the history of the annual event. Practically all space is the livestock and poultry pavilion has been reserved, and it is likely that belated entrants will be compelled to shelter their exhibits in temporary quarters provided by the fair management.

Brood sows have predicted that there will be more good Duroc Jersey senior pigs at the state fair this year than ever before. A senior pig, as many people know, is a pig over six months old and under a year, while a junior pig is under six months. As all fairs must have the same base date, a senior pig may be a year old when the fair time arrives and still show as a pig.

This makes it possible to show a pig which appears to the on-looker a full-fledged hog. They are well finished and are one of the most pleasing and popular classes at all fairs. The fact that quite a number of red hogs of that class are coming means that the fair will be unusually attractive to persons interested in hogs.

The Poland Chinas again will have the largest futurity of any breed and their class of senior pigs will be large. Add to these the Chester Whites, Berkshires, both of which promise to be at the fair in large numbers, and to all this at least 10 ton litters, with the resultant competition, among the breeds as well as in the breeds, and the promise of great interest and spectacular competition in the swine alleys is so well assured as to greatly please the fair management.

The new machinery pavilion is nearing completion and will be ready for the 1926 fair. Space in this structure already is in great demand, and it looks as though temporary quarters would have to be provided for late entrants. Tents probably will be pitched to accommodate the overflow from the machinery building.

A lot of new entries will be made in the poultry department this year, according to letters received by Mrs. Wilson. The sheep pavilion will be crowded to capacity, while the cattle entries will be representative of practically all sections of the United States and Canada.

Entries in the racing department have closed with all events filled. Purse for this year's races aggregate more than $20,000, or approximately $3000 more than posted at previous events.

Particular attention will be given by the fair board this year to the free and paid attractions. Only clean and wholesome attractions will be allowed on the grounds.

Mrs. Wilson is now working on the fair program, which will cover at least six days. It has been set definitely that Wednesday will be designated as Salem Day. While Thursday will be set aside as Portland Day.

Reports indicate that not less than eight booster organizations from different parts of the state would participate in competitive drills and other stunts. Cash prizes will be awarded winners in this competition. Fair officials have predicted that this year's state fair will be the greatest ever, and that the night horse show would eclipse all previous events of its kind held in connection with the local fair.

GIRLS OUTNUMBER BOYS BORN HERE

Thirty-six Males and 45 Females Listed, Disease Total Falls

A decrease in the number of communicable diseases in Marion county is shown by the July report of the Marion county health unit, issued yesterday at the office of Dr. Walter H. Brown, county health officer. There were 116 cases in May, 79 in June and 39 in July.

Such a decrease is natural in summer, according to the report, as fresh air, sunshine and light clothing tend to check the spread of germs.

Three cases of typhoid occurring near Shaw last month are considered the most serious trouble during the month. The source of the three cases has not been determined.

Whooping cough led in number of cases with 19, seven of which were in the county outside of Salem. Most of these were in the hop yards and in the Gervais district. One child died of the disease.

Diphtheria was second in number of cases, with eight reported, and four each of chickenpox, gonorrhea, tuberculosis and typhoid fever. There were three cases of measles, two of scarlet fever and one each of cerebro spinal meningitis and smallpox.

Several sanitary inspections were made in Salem and throughout the county last month, including one of a broken sewer near the Chemawa Indian school. All but one of the auto camps in Marion county have been inspected.

There were 86 births in the county last month, including five still-births. Of the remaining births, 36 were male and 45 female. Twenty-eight births occurred in Salem and 45 outside. There were eight births in which the mother lived outside the county. The number of births was ahead of the deaths, as but 72 of the latter were reported, 30 of which were in state institutions. Four of the deaths were of children under one year old. Twelve persons died of tuberculosis, but 10 of these were in institutions. Eleven people died of heart or artery disease, only six of whom were inmates of institutions. Six died of cerebral hemorrhage and four of chronic nephritis.

"BEHIND THE FRONT" IS AT THE OREGON

New Film Is Called Comedy
for Everyone; Carries
Tender Love Story

While it's true that "Behind the Front," the new Paramount picture at the Oregon theatre, is primarily a "man's" picture it is unfair to limit it to male audiences. Women are going to like it, because of a tender love story which runs through the film. And they're sure to consider Mary Brian one of their favorites after seeing her sincere performance as a charming Red Cross worker.

On the other hand, every man, woman and child is sure to rave about the comedy antics of Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, two dumb doughboys. For the movie-goer who is the least bit tired of society dramas and the like, "Behind the Front" is recommended. It will come as a breezy tonic and provide lots of laughs. Certainly, in its very difference, Paramount has created a notable contribution to the screen.

Edward Sutherland directed the film. Hugh Wiley wrote the story from which it was taken, and Monty Brice did the adaptation.

FUTILE SEARCH MADE FOR LAD AT MT. HOOD

make for one of them. No one has seen the lad since he strayed from his two older brothers while fishing late Thursday afternoon. Numerous tracks found yesterday indicated that the boy had been conserving his strength wisely and endeavoring like a true woodsman to head for a definite point. So enduring was his stamina that he was able to shake off his would-be benefactors and keep well in advance of the searching parties.

Police dogs and blood hounds have been used to trace the boy, but so dry is the forest and so numerous the searchers that the dogs were unable to hold the trail. Coincident with the announcement of physicians that Jackie must be reached soon if disaster is to be avoided was the arrival of 47 enlisted men and three officers of the seventh infantry from Vancouver barracks at the headquarters of the search. The men, who were led by Captains Miles, Douglas and Seville, volunteered to aid in the boy hunt. They brought complete supplies for an extended search, including a radio set and two operators. They made the trip in two trucks late this afternoon.

The soldiers advanced to the scene of the search by way of the Zig-Zag ranger station on the Mt. Hood Loop highway and Clear Fork, the center of the searching operations.

During the day numerous reports of new discoveries of the lad's tracks came back to Clear Fork on the Candy, where the boy's parents were directing and awaiting results of the search. These reports served to keep their spirits up as the hours passed without Jackie being found.

"I Beg Your Pardon" Leads in Japanese Phrase Books

TOKYO. (AP)—All Japanese want to learn English. Getting proper conversational practice with foreigners is, however, difficult.

Recently the radio broadcasting station in Tokyo employed a Japanese to give lessons in English. One of the first lessons was on the use of the phrase, "I beg your pardon."

The instructor advised his pupils that the best way to learn this was by practical use. He suggested that, when on electrical trains or streets, the Japanese English student purposely bump into foreigners or step on their toes and, in reply to the victims' smile and politely declare, "I beg your pardon."
