

Thurman, Pioneer Printer, Visits Old Friends Here

Worked on Statesman 58 Years Ago When Samuel Clark was Editor, and Peter D'Arcy was "Shop Boy", Oregonian Then Had 300 Circulation

A distinguished caller at the Statesman office yesterday was in the person of E. W. Thurman who worked on the Statesman 58 years ago. Samuel Clark was the Statesman editor and owner then. Peter D'Arcy of this city was "shop" boy working nights in the print shop and attending school during the days of that period.

Mr. Thurman, now 78 years of age, landed in Portland with his father and mother in 1850. They had crossed the country from Missouri by ox-team and immigrant wagon which they abandoned in the vicinity of The Dalles and employed the "Redskins" to pilot them in canoes down the Columbia to the present Oregon metropolises where the parents established a home on what is now Yamhill street.

Young Thurman, when 11 years old, began to learn printing in the Oregon City Argus and later in 1862 went to work for the Oregonian when its circulation was 350 daily and 1000 weekly papers. Still later he worked for George H. Himes, now and for 40 years secretary of the Oregon Pioneer association, at job printing. And no greater pleasure has he declares, come to him recently than a visit with his old friend and a review of photos of other old friends and pioneer scenes now in his possession.

According to Mr. Thurman, the Statesman had the only power press on the Pacific coast when he worked here. His reminiscences of Salem friends and events of more than three score years ago are vivid and very interesting.

Mr. Thurman has lived in San Francisco 52 years during 47 of which he has been engaged in the book publishing business. He is now spending his vacation with his son Francis D. Thurman, who is with the Blake, Moffit and Towne Paper company, San Francisco. They are now visiting with cousins John E. Thurman of Marquam and Mrs. Kate Porter of Silverton. So great is his pleasure in meeting old friends and visiting old familiar places that both father and son have decided to delay for several days their return to the "Golden Gate."

STEUSLOFF IS TAKEN WITH SLIGHT WARNING

He had he lived another month, having been born in Farnham, Erie county, New York, on September 16, 1867.

He attended the Salem Rotary club meeting Wednesday noon and at that time gave the interview to The Statesman for its Slogan pages on the livestock situation and prospects here, and what would improve them; published in yesterday morning's paper. He appeared in his usual health. He played a match on the Illihee golf club course Wednesday afternoon. He complained to Mrs. Steusloff, in the evening, that he had a peculiar feeling about his heart, and promised her that he would see a doctor on the morrow. He was active in all the many things in which he was interested, up to the last—and that means almost everything that pertains to the well being of Salem and her people. He had planned to start on a tour around the world next February, in company with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Fry, Sr.

He is survived by his widow, Clara Blair Steusloff, a brother, W. E. Steusloff, with whom he had been residing in business here for the past 25 years, and a sister, Mrs. Minnie Matthews, of Buffalo, N. Y.

At the time he came here 34 years ago he established his meat market on North Commercial street, just south of Chemeketa, and adjoining the post office, which was located there at that time.

The two brothers had been in all the years of their lives singularly devoted and companionable. The funeral will be held at the Rigdon mortuary at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

RAINS WILL SHOW 2ND GROWTH SPUDS

Wheat Market Continues Weak, Onion Crop Smaller than in 1925

PORTLAND, Aug. 19.—(By Associated Press.)—No changes are shown in the cube butter list for the day and the market is generally steady. Both the make and country receipts have dropped off during the past 24 hours. Arrivals amounted to only 8,788 pounds with the local make reported at 6667 pounds and storage stocks were drawn on for approximately 683 pounds.

First grade eggs are down two cents on the local exchange at 34 cents and mediums or pullets off a cent at 30 cents. Extras and current receipts held steady. Recent rains are expected to cause considerable second growth to show in potatoes, especially crops planted during May and June, according to local jobbers. Locally the potato market remains a tame affair but prices are firm and the demand better in the east. Better prices and a brisk call for strictly United States No. 1 stock this winter is being freely predicted by carlot dealers.

Continued weakness in the wheat market has resulted in further declines in flour prices here. Family patents are 20 cents lower at $8.40 a barrel. Whole wheat, graham and rye are also 20 cents lower while bakers' grades dropped 40 cents a barrel.

Oregon will produce an onion crop of approximately 295,000 bushels, according to the latest estimate by the bureau of crop estimates. This compares with 338,000 bushels last year. The acreage has been reduced from 1,050 last year to 900 acres this year.

O. Duan and son Keith of North Howell; Charles and Harry Morgan, of Polk county.

Hop picking started on the early hops on Monday at the Hartley & Craig hop ranch.

The rain which started Monday night will help late potatoes and lay the dust.

Grain harvest is over in this section and the Weolke machine has been hauling clover.

HIDE BUYERS SENT LISTS OF PRICES

New Schedule Shows Decline of One Cent on Certain Entries

PORTLAND, Aug. 19.—(By A. P.)—Portland hide buyers have sent out new lists to country shippers, offering 6 cents for salted hides of all weights, 5 1/2 cents for part cured hides, 5 cents for green hides and 5 cents for salted bulls. These prices show declines of one cent on these lines. California skins are unchanged. The market has lately been in a depressed condition but it is believed the decline has settled prices and business with eastern tanners can be resumed. There was a bulge in the market early in July, but hide men say it was unwarranted and tanners generally withdrew at the time. Signs of a better prospect in the footwear trade are encouraging to the hide dealers.

LABOR SECRETARY LEAVES PORTLAND, Aug. 19.—(By A. P.)—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis left here on a late train tonight for San Francisco after having visited the Moose lodge where he delivered an address to Portland members of the order.

A milkman's wife supplies the most gossip.

As the "taupou" of Safane, the most beautiful of its viginis is Fa-angase, "She Who Causes to Rustle." In skirts of "tapa," garlanded with red seeds and with the usual sweet flowers over her ears, she passes her time in tranquil happiness. Samoan women, like the men, are tattooed above the knees.
