ACTIONS WEIGHED—"The Lord is a God of knowledge, and by Him actions are weighed." I Sam. 2:3.

MUST-HAVE LARGER VOLUME

We put up in Oregon annually over two million cases of fruit and vegetables. That looks like a mountain of them—And over half this output is from Salem.

But Oregon looks like a piker when compared with California. That state puts up 24,000,000 cases annually of fruit and vegetables.

The few old timers who imagine that the Salem district is going to overdo some or all varieties of fruit and vegetables should have heard R. H. Kipp at the Salem Rotary club yesterday noon. He is at the head of the marketing department of the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

What Oregon needs, and what Salem needs, is volume—then our fruits and vegetables will not have to be sold throughout the country in California stands; will not have to go as California products.

We are only started in Salem—We must put up 10,000,000 cases of fruits and vegetables annually.

Then we will be fairly on our way.

NOT JUST A DAY

(Portland News.)
 For Valentino, actor, column after column of newspaper space.
 For Eliot, educator, a few inches.
 More than 300 years ago there lived a man named William Shakespeare. One day, in the Globe theater, in London, there was a play of his production. The play, as all plays do, had a hero. And the hero was played by a 17th century dandy, curled, perfumed and buskined.

The man who played the hero died—and through the winding streets of London strutted a funeral procession. Eight dapple-gray stallions drew the funeral chariot and women wept profusely along the wayside.

The man Shakespeare died, almost alone. A modest funeral service committed his body to the earth. There were no fanfares of crepe-draped trumpets; no weeping crowds.

"And there," laughed the 17th century cynic, "is England!"

Maybe! Maybe! But what is the name of the handsome chap who played the hero in William Shakespeare's new play at the old Globe theater in London?

YES; WE SHOULD GROW MORE GRAIN

Notwithstanding the fact that we have had two years of average poor yields of grain, especially wheat, the Salem district should grow more grain. This district will never raise too much grain—if our growers will feed a large enough proportion of it to poultry and hogs and cows and live stock generally—

And they will always have a good sale for their milling oats; for they can raise the best grown in the world.

They cannot raise too much corn, either, for silage, and for the hens and hogs.

They should raise better wheat and better oats, on the average, in which case they will grow more to the acre, and get higher prices, thus making the growing more profitable.

This is a good grain country, and it will always grow grain, especially in rotation schemes carried on intelligently. This is not a grain country that will allow of straight grain cropping on the same land year after year; in fact, there is no such country, outside of the Nile valley and other valleys subject to annual overflow and the bringing down of new soil from the upper reaches for every succeeding crop—

So we must have better cultural methods on the average, and greater attention to good seed and the right varieties. We now produce 63 commercial varieties of wheat, for instance, whereas 12 would be a great plenty.

One of the big and outstanding things for the Salem district in grain crops is the production of the milling oats for which it is already famous—

The breakfast food oats.

We raise here an oat that weighs heavier to the bushel than any other, and that is the best known for milling purposes; and for the uses made of it by the breakfast food manufacturers of the United States.

There is a big and growing demand for the oats of this quality, and it would pay our farmers to specialize on this variety more than they have done in the past; to specialize and improve the quality; to render the product absolutely clean.

This line of agriculture might well be organized and standardized. It is a line in which we have what amounts to a franchise (with a small district of western Washington in the Skagit valley), and we could profitably use the franchise, to the very limit of the demand of that product of primacy; and the best authorities believe this could be carried very far. The breakfast food demand is big in this country. This is a line, too, that our own manufacturers would do well to develop; to the end that the great bulk of the manufacturing of high class breakfast foods for the whole country might be here, instead of shipping the grains across the country and then shipping them back again to our consumers in manufactured form.

It is fortunate that there is now at the head of the local flouring and feed mill business in Salem, in the person of Ross C. Bidwell, a manufacturing chemist of years of training and experience. He was for fifteen years the chemist and milling superintendent of the great Sperry flour milling concern. He has here a modern chemical laboratory. He will be able to aid very materially our dairymen and poultrymen in their feeding problems. He will help wonderfully our poultry boom here. There are few more desirable developments than this.

Bits For Breakfast

Weather man says unsettled—

And it looked that way for a time last night.

Pity the poor prune men. It looked like a short harvest yesterday. Looked worse last night, after the rain.

Raise more grain; but raise it in rotation, and feed more of it to poultry and pigs and dairy cows.

The walnut and filbert growers are not worrying over the rain. They were not worrying over the sunshine, either. These are almost weather proof crops here. They will not be overdone for a long, long time, if ever.

The Sells-Floto circus played to full tents in Salem yesterday, and the general verdict was that this world's second largest circus is better than ever.

"The Hop Vine Scratch" is running again on the Lake Brook hop ranch. It is the publication on a mimeograph machine of the health and recreation service of T. A. Livesley & Co. Mrs. G. A. Robinson and Lynn Boothby are the health and recreation directors, working under the auspices of the Salem YMCA.

Hop picking of the early variety was to commence this morning at the Lake Brook ranch, which has 72 acres of this variety. But last night's rain may hold up picking somewhat.

Here is one of the news items: The first issue for this year of The Hop Vine Scratch: "This is one of the largest hop yards in America and the finest camp. Have you noticed all the new apartments taking the place of the tents? Mr. Livesley is constantly trying to make the camp better."

UNNAMED PLOT CHOSEN FOR PUBLIC MARKET

way traffic through it is adopted, congestion would be hopeless there.

This plot would also be out of sight from any of the main streets of town, and it is thought that business might suffer there unless the public became used to the location.

Another possible location given considerable attention is at Center and Front streets, now occupied by a used car selling establishment. This land is owned by the Southern Pacific, which bought it several years ago with a possible electric terminal site in view, but the big growth of motor stage transportation has made such use impracticable.

No consideration was given to financial matters, as the commission wishes to settle on a definite site before giving money their attention. The site chosen may play a big part in the financing problem, as the amount of rent demanded by some of the sites varies considerably.

The need of having a site near the shopping district is considered paramount by the commission, as it is generally believed that most of the trading will be done by women buyers who may also wish to shop and visit the market on the same trip down town.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia" Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five-cent and fifty-cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. quite a thorough investigation of the public market there. Practically all the buyers were women.

Most of this buying will be done in the early morning hours, according to the belief of several of the committee members. Women will make special trips down to get the choicest fresh vegetables as they come in from the farm in the morning. This has been found to be true in several other cities, they say.

crease in students of this class until 1931, when a new building will probably be required.

The Englewood school, with 330 students last year, is expected to reach its capacity of 360 by 1927, so that relief will be needed after that date. The Highland school is expected to reach its capacity of 500 by 1929. It had 314 students last year. Opening of the Parrish school and a new parochial school recently near it have helped handle the students in that district.

Lincoln school, Yew Park and Garfield schools will be able to handle all the students for several years to come, it is believed. Not much increase in the Garfield enrollment is expected, as it is near the center of town. The new Tuxedo park school is expected to relieve the situation at Lincoln and Yew Park.

The Richmond school will reach its capacity of 440 by 1929, it is predicted. It had 327 students last year. The basement will be needed for classroom space by 1927.

New buildings will be necessary to take the excess students at these districts when the capacity is reached, with Englewood the first in 1927. The new building at Grant will be necessary because the present one is nearly worn out. It is the oldest school building in the city.

Only $55,000 of the 1923 half million dollar bond issue will be left when the Tuxedo park school is finished, so more bonds will have to be sold to pay for the needed buildings.

or such items as tax refunds.

On going over the financial situation with Mr. Madden, Mr. Coolidge emphasized the economy program of the administration and urged that no unjustifiable expenditures be made. Mr. Madden, who left for Chicago this noon after being an overnight guest at White Pine camp, plans to go to Washington soon and confer with Brigadier General Lord, director of the budget. The hearings of the house appropriations committee on the supply measures for next year, he said, would begin in Washington about November 5.

While no provision has yet been included in the budget estimates for next year to carry out the $165,000,000 public buildings program, Madden indicated that some amount would be provided with the maximum for any one year limited to $25,000,000.

Mr. Madden made it clear that he had not and was not prepared to give any opinion as to whether the interest from funded war time foreign debts should be used for tax reduction, retirement of the public debt or any other special purpose.

Western town and inquired of the first man he met where he could find an undertaker.

"An undertaker?" the man asked.

"Is there some one dead at your house?"

"No, there is no one dead," replied the farmer, "but my wife is pretty sick."

"Well, then," the man advised, "you want a doctor, not an undertaker."

"No," said the farmer. What I want is an undertaker. You know, I have joined the Co-ops, and we have cut out the middle-men."
