AUTO CRASHES DURING WEEN-END MAR RECORD

fender was torn from the Irwin car.

When M. J. Carleton stopped his car suddenly at State and Cottage streets yesterday, A. J. Haslebacker drove his car into the rear of it, according to reports placed on file at Salem police headquarters. Carleton claimed that Haslebacker was driving too close behind him.

A car driven by Frank R. Kellogg was badly demolished yesterday when another car driven by a man named Golden skidded into the rear of it. A smashed gas tank, broken rear fenders and a wrecked rear tire and trier rack were the main damage suffered by the Kellogg car.

Wet pavement caused a car driven by L. E. Albright to collide with a Southern Pacific bus at Center and Liberty streets yesterday, according to reports at police headquarters. Few details of the accident were given.

C. H. Dwyer reported at the police station that he had struck the rear of another car eight miles north of Salem on the Pacific highway. He gave no details of the accident.

John H. Neef was looking at the signs in a garage window, as he drove along South Commercial street near Bellevue yesterday, according to a report he made at police headquarters, and did not notice how close he was driving to a car parked beside the curb until he struck it, damaging its bumper and also his own hub cap.

Neef paid a tribute to advertising in his report, saying that the window signs did what they were intended to do, and distracted his attention from driving.

Cars driven by Mrs. C. H. Peterson and J. R. Sullivan collided at State and Commercial streets yesterday, they reported at police headquarters, but neglected to give details of the accident.

Vivian Smith of Milwaukie, Or., reported to the sheriff's office yesterday that while driving six miles north of Salem on the Pacific highway her machine was struck by another car when she slowed down to pass a team of horses. The unidentified driver of the car behind her was unable to stop and struck her in the rear. She did not state the extent of damage.

An accident of a different kind was staged when Harold Cifon, 8, injured his right eye with a jackknife while playing Sunday. He was taken to a hospital for examination, where physicians say he will lose the eye.

Following a fight in a stolen car from Jefferson to Salem and through the streets of this city, Martin L. Lennon of Portland drove the car out Cottage streets at 55 miles an hour with an officer who had followed him from Jefferson in close pursuit, failed to see the end of the street in time to turn, and crashed into the curb, turning the car over two or three times and wrecking it. Lennon and Miss B. Fieskes of Portland, who was riding with him, were uninjured. The accident occurred at about 2 o'clock Monday morning.

Lennon had been pursued all the way from Jefferson by O. H. Libby, traffic officer there, because he had driven through the town at an excessive speed. Libby followed on his motorcycle and caught up with Lennon twice, but Lennon failed to stop and instead tried to crowd Libby into the ditch.

Traveling at about 60 miles an hour, Lennon entered Salem and tried to dodge Libby by circling about the streets, but failed. Apparently mistaking Cottage street for the Pacific highway out of town, Lennon tried to escape that way, but the flight ended in his crash.

Libby, who was close behind when the crash occurred, drove his motorcycle into the curb to avoid hitting the car and was thrown several feet by the force of the impact. Although dazed, he still had sense enough left to pull a gun on Lennon when the latter had started to run.

Lennon and Miss Fieskes were taken to the local police station where it was found that he had tried to conceal the identity of the car by bending the license plates over so as to hide one of the numbers. Investigation showed the car to be one that had been stolen from Portland August 19.

Lennon was turned over yesterday to police officers from Portland. Miss Fieskes was given to the YWCA to care for. She is said to be 21 years old.

Two Drown

Phillip Lennermier of Portland and Jack Brown, 12, of Dallas, are dead by drowning as the result of two accidents in Polk county Sunday. Lennermier was a worker at the Eoff hop yard near Independence and had gone swimming in the Willamette river with Irvin Engle of Tillamook.

Lennermier was seized with an attack of cramps and drowned in spite of Engle's efforts to save him. Engle had reached to within a few feet of where Lennermier was struggling when the latter sank from view.

Lennermier, who graduated from a Portland high school in June, is a native of Russia. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lennermier, and two sisters, all of Portland. The body has been sent to Portland, where funeral services will be held this morning.

Jack Brown was drowned in the Willamette Valley Lumber company mill pond at Dallas, where he had gone to play with Normal Folmer.

The boys, both of whom were 12 years old, fell into the pond, from which Norman was rescued by Chester Willett, who worked in the railroad yards near the pond.

Jack is survived by his stepfather, Dorris Brown of Santa Monica, Cal. He had been visiting at the home of J. A. Brown in Dallas.

LET RAILROADS ALONE IS PLEA

ity with a development in railroads, agriculture and oil that pleased him. The railroads of that section, he added, were never so prosperous and he emphasized that flourishing railroads and sound transportation are the primary factors in prosperity.

Speaking of both political and business conditions in the southwest, Mr. Brush said he saw no fly in the ointment.

The great majority of the people of that section who are instrumental in sending men to congress, he declared, are determined to send conservative men to Washington and will send no one who is intent upon tearing down property.

The railroads of the southwest, he continued, were never better managed and are putting back into the properties tremendous sums earned wisely and fairly.

If the attitude of cooperation of congress and the interstate commerce commission continues, he predicted large systems will be developed.

Although President Coolidge also asked information on shipping conditions, Mr. Brush pleaded ignorance on that subject. The government, however, he said, should not be in any business, but he praised what he described as the present policy at Washington of "fair instead of autocratic" supervision of business which the government comes in contact with.

Whether the international mercantile marine, an interest in which is held by the American International corporation will be used for the United States line, Mr. Brush said he did not know. The United States lines are now being offered for sale by the shipping board.

Mr. Coolidge spent the morning at the executive office handling governmental business and receiving visitors. At one time he stopped at a telegraph key and opened the new building of the New York Evening Post by setting the presses in operation.
