

CHILDREN'S LOAN FUND AVAILABLE

Those Whose Parents Served in War May Borrow for Education

According to Miss Viola Ortschold, chairman of the Memorial Loan Fund committee of the Oregon State Teachers association, money is now available for a number of earnest Oregon boys and girls whose father or mother served in the world war to borrow funds to continue their education in high or other schools.

Recommendations as to character and scholarship are required from the student's last principal or teacher. The money can be used solely for the student's own needs, such as books, school supplies, clothes, etc.

Students desiring funds should write immediately to Miss Viola Ortschold, 385 Vancouver Avenue, Portland, Oregon. Other members of the Memorial Loan committee are Miss Ethel M. Miller, Children's Farm Home, Corvallis, Ore.; Miss Aletha Kidby, West Linn, Ore.; Mr. J. S. Landers, president of the Oregon State Teachers association, Monmouth, Ore.; and Mr. E. H. Ressler, secretary-treasurer of the O. S. T. A. Corvallis, Ore.

The cooperation of patriotic bodies and men's and women's veterans' organizations is earnestly desired so that no worthy child of a veteran need drop out of school because of the lack of funds to continue his education.

several weeks before a man knows whether he can build or not."

The commission is at present trying to figure a way around all this, but it is not yet very well acquainted with its duties, which are big ones, according to Mr. Becke. It will take a long time to zone Salem, because of the way things are jumbled up at the present time.

"We can't just jump in and lay off a section here and a section there and say what can go in them,

"Zoning Salem is a tough proposition, but it is a tougher one deciding what to do about building until the zoning is done."

A speech given recently by Robert Jameson Jr., president of the national realty board, was read at the meeting. It discussed the ethics of the realty business and outlined the duties of members of realty boards.

Two piano solos were played by Miss Claudia Lewis.

SAGE BRUSH CITY IS BOOMING, IS REPORT

several days, Mrs. McPherson preached to Douglas audiences occasionally. She always drew a packed house. She is an emphatic speaker. She never expresses an opinion. She merely talks as though everything she says is fact.

"One striking statement I recall hearing her make was, 'I am a second Jesus.'"

"Before long, however, people began to laugh about the affair, and it had some odd angles, many of them funny because of the publicity the town sought."

Being related to Constable Gordon Newman, of Douglas, Miss Ryley was well informed on the attitude of Douglas citizens, who apparently "got what publicity they could" during the moments of fame opened to them.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The county grand jury which investigated the disappearance and reappearance several months ago of Aimee Semple McPherson in a manner which evoked severe criticism from Superior Judge Arthur Keetch, was dismissed here today by the jurist, who charged that certain members were guilty of more than contempt with the disappearance of purported evidence in the evangelist's case.

Judge Keetch called the 13 members before him and charged them with repeated violations of the oath of secrecy. He declared that discord and internal dissension prevailed in their ranks and that it was his belief that the body could no longer function and inspire confidence from the public.

PORTLAND, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Information from Salt Lake to the effect that confessions of a mail clerk and accomplices have cleared mysteries of the recent mail car robbery in Wyoming, and led to recovery of stolen mail valued at $250,000, caused considerable interest in Oregon today.

Securities taken by the robbers included $100,000 of treasury certificates being sent from Chicago to the state treasurer of Oregon. These securities were being purchased by way of investment of cash of the world war veterans' state aid fund.

An undisclosed amount of bonds being sent to the First National bank of this city was also said to have been taken by the bandits.

The securities were fully insured in the mails.

Circus day in Salem—
And a parade at 11 o'clock.

The 101 Ranch show is the only one that gives a street parade now. It is a great parade.

There will be a jam on the streets of Salem at 11 this forenoon—likely the biggest circus crowd ever seen in this city.

Clarence Eddy, one of the greatest of the world's concert organizers, will help to fill the Elsinore theater tomorrow afternoon and evening.

J. H. Lauterman of Salem knew Lon Chaney very well when he was a boy in Colorado Springs, Colo.—Lon Chaney, whose screen play, "The Road to Mandalay," is to be the main feature at the Elsinore, beginning tomorrow. Lon was a very mischievous boy. His father was a barber, and a deaf mute. So he could not keep up very well with the pranks of Lon and his brothers. The father is no longer working at his trade, in which he was an adept and a general favorite. He has gone to Hollywood to live with his son Lon, who is now one of the leading producers, and rolling in wealth.

T. H. Barnes and wife of Alliance, Nebraska, are visiting Salem for a few days. Mr. Barnes lived in Salem from 1889 to 1900, and he was one of the city builders in those days. He platted Englewood addition, among other activities, and was one of the leaders in getting street railway lines built in Salem. His son, L. S. Barnes ("Gene") is one of the leading oil men of southern California, his home being at Long Beach. "Gene" was at one time a large owner of Salem real estate and other property.

Silverton School Opening Postponed for One Week

SILVERTON, Ore., Sept. 2.—(Special.)—The opening of Silverton schools has been postponed from September 13 until September 20. The amount of recent rain has delayed hop picking to such an extent that it is thought hops will not be completely picked until September 20.

St. Paul's parochial school will, however, open September 13, according to recent report. Indications are that the enrollment in this school will be large.

With the waning of summer, Fashion's fancy turns from pastel tinted crepes and chiffons to wraps of heavier fabric, that reflect the rich woodsy tones and tawny blends of autumn's falling leaves. The Mandel collars add to the smartness and the many shades interwoven in the plaids give a combination of colors heretofore unobtainable. And best of all, there is a newness and distinction about each of these garments that proclaims it a courier of the new mode.
