REPENTANCE—"And they cried, We have sinned, because we have forsaken the Lord; but now deliver us out of the hand of our enemies, and we will serve thee." I Sam. 12:10.

SALEM WILL ALSO CELEBRATE

LYMAN, Neb., Aug. 21.—The town of Lyman has celebrated with a free rodee its selection as the site for the next factory to be erected by the Great Western Sugar company. The population of the entire North Platte valley was invited, and more than 5,000 responded.

Surveyors are on the site, laying out lines for the spurs and stakes for the various factory buildings. It is understood that orders for materials have already been started to manufacturers by the company's Denver headquarters. The company has also purchased a number of lots on which houses will be built for employes, and plans are being laid to make the residential section one of unusual attractiveness.

The above dispatch is interesting to Salem people, for they will before long have an opportunity to celebrate over the coming of their first sugar factory, and perhaps two or three more of them.

Lyman, Neb., up to a few days ago, was a town containing twenty-five families. It is in Scottsbluff county, just over the Wyoming line.

By the time of the height of the sugar harvesting and processing season, next fall, it will be a bustling city of 2500 or more people.

And its continued prosperity and growth will be backed up by a farming community with money to spend all the year through.

With perhaps over a million dollars a year directly, for the sugar in their beets, as half the sugar will belong to them, and they will get $6 to $8 a ton advance payment on their sugar when they deliver their beets, and the rest of it, month by month, when the sugar is sold. They will be charged only their share of the cost of selling their sugar. This is the universal contract in this country, where the farmers themselves do not own the factory cooperatively.

They can be sure of their money. Their credit will be good. Those farmers needing it will be given advances for paying laborers in thinning and cultivating their beets. They will be furnished the beet seed; advanced, at cost, and the seed may be planted for them on the same terms, if they desire it.

Then each farmer will have first call on his own beet tops, crowns, pulp and molasses, for feeding his stock. The tops may be put into silos, and the pulp may be dried.

This will boom the poultry, dairying and live stock industries of that section. There will be almost unlimited indirect benefits. The industry will encourage the rotation of crops. It will mean clean cultivation. It will mean the bringing up of the fertility of the soil.

There is no other one thing that could do more for Salem than the development of a big beet sugar industry here; and not the least of the benefits would be the development of a great irrigation district in this part of the Willamette valley. (It may be stated, parenthetically, that the Great Western people not long ago had a representative looking over the Salem field. And several other sugar companies are looking this way now.)

Marion County "Y" Plans For Future Valley Work

Entire Reorganization on Unit System, Allowing Each Town and District an Important Share in All Activities, Is Adopted

The Marion County "Y" committee held a very successful meeting Thursday evening in the Salem, Y. M. C. A. Every moment was replete with new ideas, plans and programs, and cross-fire discussion and argument waxed keen and strong.

Chairman O. V. White, superintendent of schools for Stayton, had his hands full and F. J. Toozee, managing editor of the Statesman, who acted as clerk, had all he could do to keep up with the flood of business transacted. A revolutionary act was the reorganization of the county committee from a county-wide plan of election to that of the unit idea.

Each town will now organize a Y. M. C. A. of its own and elect a board of directors who will be responsible for carrying out a program of activities in the local community. The county committees will be built up from the executive officers of the local Y. M. C. A. board of directors in each town in the county so organized, and its function is to correlate the work in each town and to form a cooperative committee for county-wide activities and leadership.

W. F. Norman, of Woodburn, is enthusiastic over this new plan and declares that new life will be given the county Y. M. C. A. work because of better supervision, the enlarged number of volunteer workers it will recruit and train, and what to him is most important, the local leadership and control that this plan makes possible. The annual budget came in for a large amount of discussion and was finally referred back to the finance committee. The exact date for the holding of the annual subscription campaign was left open until John Rudd, northwest county work secretary, could be secured to head this up.

County Secretary A. R. Hodges, presented in a rapid-fire, sketchy manner, a panoramic program of activities for the year embracing work with the public schools, churches, and communities. A monthly calendar of activities was drawn up. This month will see the clean-up of all subscriptions so that the 1926 fiscal year ending Sept. 30 will close with all ob-

"West Behind You for 1928" Arizona Senator Tells Coolidge

That the republicans of the western states will back Coolidge for the presidential nomination in 1928 is the opinion of Senator Cameron of Arizona. The senator carried that view to the president in a recent visit to the chief executive's summer camp at Paul Smith's, New York. Photo shows Mr. Cameron, left, Senator Cameron and Frank Stearns, Coolidge's personal friend and adviser.

industry a real service at the old King's plant. He is running both cannery and dryer to full capacity. If he can get some more men and women for his night forces he will make the plant a still busier place, and more useful. He is far enough along with his own dried prune orders so that he is taking on some outside prune drying jobs, in order to relieve the scarcity of drying space that is resulting in the wasting of some of the crop.

The 101 Ranch show is a big advertiser. No wonder it draws great crowds. The advertising man of this show has served in this capacity the largest circus aggregations on the road for many years.

Hazel Green

More than a hundred relatives and friends enjoyed the bounteous dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. F. Haslebecher Tuesday for their son Albert and bride. The neighbors gave them a "noisy" reception in the evening.

completed. This is "Pioneer Day" and commemorates the organization of the convention of the "Hayesville Sunday school district" 25 years ago. This is the 1324 quarterly session. The theme for the day will be "Vision and Power." Some new features have been planned. At the noon hour there will be separate tables for the children, where mothers and the ladies in charge can give them special attention.

Labish Center

Mrs. Lydia Ward, who crossed the plains and mountains by herself at the age of 83 to come to the Pacific northwest from Missouri, has become an enthusiastic booster for Oregon's mild summer climate. After spending a couple of delightful months at the home of her son, J. M. Ward, on Labish Meadows, near Brooks, she says she feels like a young woman again. Mrs. Ward, or "Grandma" Ward, as she is affectionately known, has picked strawberries, quilted comforts and done other tasks with the best of them this summer, asking no allowance for her years.

Mrs. W. T. Cohenour and daughters, Alice and Ruth, of Muskogee, Okla., who have been spending the summer visiting Mrs. E. H. Jones at Labish Meadows, have left for home by way of Yellowstone park. Mrs. Cohenour is piloting her own car both ways across the mountains. While here, the Cohenours toured to Crater Lake, the Mackenzie river and Puget Sound district. They expressed themselves as being delighted with Oregon's climate and scenery.

Claxtar

The John Rickman picnic held at Woodland park on the Willamette river, August 29, was a delightful affair, arranged in honor of Mr. Rickman's 32nd birthday, and was attended by many Claxtar people. Delicious refreshments and games were the main features of the outing. Mr. Rickman is a member of the firm of Rickman Bros. fruit growers, and the Rickman Fruit Orchards are the most extensive in this vicinity.

Robert Bailey, 5, accidentally collided with one of the great swings upon the Woodland park ground, inflicting a bruise upon his face.

The wound, however, will not leave a scar owing to prompt attention. The lad is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Bailey, who came here recently from Seattle.

Ernest Webb, O. A. C. student of electrical engineering, is recovering from a recent, slight illness at his home here.

Mrs. Haffard of the firm of Jacobs and Haffard, Union Savings & Loan association, was transacting business here during the week.

The turkey flock of Mrs. William Westley is one of the sights of Lily Lane. These fine birds, 150 in number, are plump and handsome. The William Westley's also have a fine flock of Rhode Island Red fowls. These birds are incubator hatched and at the age of 4 months, 19 days, commenced laying. They have consistently kept up the good work. These birds lay 50 eggs a day.

The downpour has caused berry men, prune men, celery men and hop men to exceed the speed limit in getting their crops under cover and cared for.

Housewives here have done much home drying during the season to help save the immense fruit crop, as the public dryers were overstocked. Claxtar has never seen a more wonderful crop of fruit, flowers, vegetables, and grain, than that being harvested this season.

Messrs. Rosewell and Boetcher of Portland spent Sunday with relatives here.

Mrs. Sadie McCordle, 91, mother of Mrs. A. D. Hale of Claxtar store, is despite her 91 years, a most wonderful quilt maker. She is engaged in completing a quilt for a relative in Tennessee, the like of which is rarely seen. Mrs. McCordle was born in Ohio on March 23, 1835.

Mrs. Frank Holtzclaw, an 85 year old quilt maker of this place has also some fine work of this kind. Mrs. Holtzclaw was born in the south. She has recently returned from a motor trip to Puget Sound cities accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. George Pro, and granddaughter Miss Margaret Pro of Salem high school interstate debate fame.

SILVERTON, Ore., Sept. 2. (Special).—Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson will leave today for the middle west for a six weeks vacation. Mrs. Johnson is a member of the Silverton postoffice force, while Mr. Johnson is with the Silver Falls Timber company.
