YELLOW TICKET SPONSOR FOUND

Charles A. German Admits Authorship When Confronted With Evidence

SOUGHT TO KILL CHANCES

Circular Was Planned to Put "Good Government League in Bad Forever; No Candidates Involved"

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Charles A. German of Portland, was the father of the fake "Yellow Ticket" circulated prior to the May primaries, and he also devised it. The tickets were printed and circulated with the sole view of harassing Fred L. Gifford and the Oregon Good Government League.

This announcement was made by Stanley Myers, district attorney of Multnomah county, today after many days of investigation into the authorship of the "Yellow Ticket" which Robert N. Stanfield charged had done him so much harm in the primaries and which the senator had laid at the door of Frederick Steiwer, republican nominee.

German told him, the district attorney stated, that the "yellow ticket" was planned only as a means to put Gifford and the league "in bad forever."

It was German's idea, he said, to pick losers for his ticket and to give it the color of the ticket that he heard the Oregon Good Government League planned to put out. He had no desire or intention to injure any candidate, and no candidate suggested the plan, German said.

German declared that he really believed Stanfield would be a loser in the primaries and that he believed others on his ticket also would lose in the primaries. He named the three justices of the supreme court on his ticket; not for that reason, however, but because he needed three more names to fill space in his ticket. Since there was but one candidate for the bench against the three justices, he knew that they would not be beaten, he said.

Investigations by the district attorney's office finally resulted in finding the father of the ticket.

"Youths' Blackened Name" Called Cheap Wet Attack

United Effort to Focus Attention Upon Volstead Violations Revealed as Work of Liquor Interests Seeking Beers and Wine

The following article, issued under the auspices of the National WCTU, is a thorough analysis of the effects propaganda, spread by liquor interests, in a futile attempt to present evils of prohibition as greater than the evils of the open saloon, and is published here as a sane vindication of the much criticized "younger generation."

A LA ALOER
BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—"Bound to Win," or some such Algerian caption, is suggested in the story of an Alabama boy who has been singled out of a field of contestants from 48 states, to attend a Polish university this year at the expense of the Kosciazko Foundation, of New York. Choice of George H. Saxton, recipient of the first scholarship to Howard College given by the Fido-American Legion, program, was announced recently from the Kosciazko Foundation following action of a special committee at Indianapolis. Saxton had just completed his high school training when the Birmingham newspaper offered scholarships to several outstanding Alabama students. He applied and was awarded his to Howard, where he finished with a B. A. degree in 1925. Since that time he has been engaged in Y. M. C. A. work in Birmingham.

Under the plan outlined by Fidal, of which the American Legion is this country's member, Mr. Saxton goes to Poland for the prime purpose of promoting among the students of his chosen school, better understanding and good feeling for the United States among the youth of Poland. His education is to be his reward.

He will major at Warsaw, Poland, and will major in sociology, and the social sciences, in the University of Warsaw. His school year is for nine months, as is there here. I am planning to go from there to England for summer school work next summer.

NEW ROUTES

PARIS.—There is one really pathetic angle to the nonsense which unthinking French folk and equally thoughtless tourist Americans have stirred up in France, that of all this absurd animosity may grow a situation which will mean a considerable cut-down in tourist travel to Europe and here's the rub—a long hard season for these human parasites which call themselves "guides" and offer to take you to see all the sights of Paris. Without Americans they may starve. Some French folk and Americans who know and love Paris are quite willing to have tourists stay away a whole year or two, if necessary, if there can be no assurance that these guides really will starve to death, if ever you've been approached by one of these fat, oily, slipping persons who offer to take you to see the Paris that is supposed to be very naughty, you, too, will be happy in the idea of starving them to extinction.

LEAGUE VOTES GERMANY SEAT

Place at Council Table on Equal Basis With Other Powers Assured

SPAIN DENIED PETITION

Judicial Study of American Reservations Begun By Special Committee of World Court Conference

GENEVA, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Unless the plans of men go astray again Germany this time really will enter the league of nations and take her place around the council table on a footing of equality with the other great powers of the world who at Geneva discuss matters of world moment. Today the council voted to give Germany, and Germany alone, a seat on the council, and placed its seal of approval on the special commission's report, which refused to accede to the Spanish petition for a position of honor on the council similar to that arranged for the Reich.

Despite the difficult position in which Spain has placed herself by the very earnestness of her demand for a permanent seat, the opinion in voiced by many delegates tonight is that Premier Primo De Rivera will not sever all ties with Geneva by officially resigning league membership.

The prevailing view is that the Spanish premier will wait at least to see what he can get from England and France in the way of greater authority over Tangier before taking the irrevocable step

"Volsteadism among the youth of the land—girls as well as boys—is producing conditions that make fathers tremble and mothers weep in agony."

We had no tears or pity from these gentlemen in the days when we were fighting the open saloon with its grip on the political machinery; none of those crusaders against prohibition came to our help in the days when dance hall keepers were allowed by law to sell liquor all night long, nor when the brewer-owned saloon and its sordid back room and surreptitious side entrance was an aid to the commercialized vice which had real cause to make parents tremble. We have never heard a word from most of these men until the liquor interests were cramped.

There has been no cheaper trick in all American politics than this

WEEK-END CAR TRAFFIC HEAVY

Final Two Day Holiday Attracts Thousands to Coast and Mountains

DRIVER HELD FOR CRASH

Accident at High and Rural Street Lands Rudie in Jail Facing Charge of Intoxicated Driving

With the final two day holiday of the year starting last night, local traffic officers were kept busy handling the big increase of holiday traffic. Many residents of Salem packed up their baggage and left for the mountains, forests, and seacoast to spend the Labor day respite from their work.

The first arrest due to an overdose of holiday joyousness came last night when L. Rudie was lodged in the city jail on a drunk-and-driving charge, following a crash between his car and another one at High and Rural streets.

Eye witnesses said that Rudie was travelling at an excessive speed and apparently tried to turn a corner where no corner existed, so that he crashed into another car. The other car was not seriously damaged, but Rudie's was reduced to wreckage and Rudie was taken to the city jail.

Later, he was released on bail. Officer George Edwards, while pursuing a speeder, was forced to dodge a car coming in from a side street, and in doing so drove his car over the curb and against a building, damaging the frame considerably.

Although no special celebration will be held in Salem, practically all the local merchants have agreed to keep their stores closed on Labor day. All the banks, post-office, state house, and other government institutions will be closed

LABOR DELEGATES BACK

STATE CULINARY WORKER'S SOCIETY FORMED

One of the most important things done at the local state federation of labor convention in Klamath Falls was the formation of a state culinary workers' society, similar to the carpenters' district council, according to Archie Elliott, who, with Miss Hazel Pierce, were delegates from the Salem culinary workers' union at the convention.

The society will meet for one day before each state convention, according to plans. W. S. Wray of Medford was chosen president and Mr. Elliott is secretary treasurer. Although only five locals are now represented, all in the state are expected to be in the organization before the next convention, which will be held in Corvallis.

Side trips to Crater Lake, Bend and Marshfield were made by Mr. Elliott on the return trip.

Although most of those present are expected to be from Marion county, a large number from other counties will also probably be present.
