

Fervor of Voters Raised By Many Fall Elections

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The sound of the tocsin will soon reverberate in primaries and elections to be held in 12 north and middle Atlantic states—New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia and the New England states—the echo of which may still be heard in the first skirmish of the presidential campaign of 1928.

Apart from the regular coast to coast congressional campaigns politicians with a weather eye to windward are watching for events in New York where the electors will choose a governor and other high state officers as well as a senator. Gov. Al Smith is still the big unanswered question. Whether he will consent to run again probably will not be known until the convention late in September.

He has declared that he is not a candidate, notwithstanding the pressure on him to make the race. The democrats also will name a man to succeed to the senatorship of James W. Wadsworth whose term expires. The republicans have indicated that they will name Wadsworth to succeed himself.

Prohibition is very much to the fore in New York where the voters will pass on a memorial to congress to amend the prohibition act so as to permit each state to determine what shall constitute intoxicating liquor under the law.

Keen interest centers in the senatorial election in Pennsylvania since it was disclosed before the senate investigating committee that nearly three million dollars was spent in the primaries in which Congressman William S. Vare was chosen. He ran on a platform that advocated the modification of the Volstead act. William B. Wilson, secretary of labor under President Wilson, is the democratic candidate for senator. He ran as a dry in the primary. John S. Fisher, republican, will oppose Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, democrat, in the gubernatorial contest.

Massachusetts looks for a quiet primary on September 14 but plenty of action in November. Primary filings indicate that there will be no opposition to the renomination of Senator William M. Butler and Gov. Alvan T. Fuller by the republicans or to the nomination of former Senator David I. Walsh by the democrats as Butler's opponent.

Butler is chairman of the republican national committee and a close friend of President Coolidge. William A. Gaston, of Boston, is favored for the democratic nomination for governor. Thirteen republicans and two democrats seek renomination in the primaries.

The fight which United States Senator George H. Moses, president pro tem of the senate, is making for the republican nomination for senator overshadows all other contests in the New Hampshire primary on Sept. 7. Moses is opposed by former Gov. Robert P. Bass, once a progressive party leader, and James W. Remick, former justice of the New Hampshire supreme court. Robert C. Murchie, a Concord attorney, and Albert W. Noone, have filed papers for the democratic nomination for senator. Gov. John G. Winant, republican, is opposed for renomination for governor by Huntley N. Spaulding, chairman of the state board of education. Mayor Eaton D. Sargent, of Nashua, has no opponent as the democratic nominee for governor.

The four congressmen from Maine, all republicans, are candidates for reelection to be held September 13. Gov. Ralph O. Brewster, republican, seeking a second term, is opposed by Ernest L. McLean, democrat, mayor of Augusta.

The race of Governor Albert C. Ritchie, ardent exponent of states rights, for a third term for governorship, is the outstanding feature of the Maryland September primary in which Gov. Ritchie is opposed by William M. Maloy, former chairman of the Public Service Commission. United States Senator Ovington E. Weller is being opposed for renomination by Representative John Phillip Hill, leader of the House "wet bloc."

United States Senator Porter H. Dale will be unopposed for renomination in the Vermont primaries on September 14. The only primary of importance is the three cornered race for the republican nomination for governor. Three candidates are in the field: Lt. Gov. Walter K. Farnsworth; John E. Weeks, state commissioner of public welfare and Max L. Powell.

A United States senator and five congressmen and a full state ticket are to be elected in Connecticut in November but party conventions to name the candidates have not been held. There are no major offices to fill in Delaware this year. One member of congress is to be elected.

Rhode Island has yet to hold her state convention and no candidates for congress or state offices have been announced. New Jersey elects twelve congressmen while six congressmen are to be chosen in West Virginia in the fall elections.

Dempsy's Nose Receives Daily Wash in Brine Bath

NEW YORK, N. Y., (AP)—The same face that Jack Dempsy subjected to a surgical operation to produce the most celebrated nose of modern times is to be soaked daily in an ill smelling pickle brine to make it as tough as leather.

The heavyweight revealed today that he has been brining his face as long as he has been boxing. He says all the oldtimers of the ring used the stuff and that it minimized the possibility of cuts from rasping blows. He boasts that his face never has been cut by a blow—all because of the brining business.

Dempsy gets both hands full of the stuff and rubs it into his face every morning. It smells—well, not like attar of roses.

Memory of Great National Hero Cherished by Poles

CRACOW, Poland.—Cracow is to the memory of Tadeusz Kosciuszko what Mount Vernon is to the memory of George Washington. One cannot walk far in this old city of the Polish kings without coming upon some reminder of the great national hero whose name kindles more enthusiasm both in America and in Poland than that of any other Pole.

Whether as colonel of the artillery and personal adjutant to George Washington in the American War of Independence, or whether as leader of the Polish insurrection of 1794 against Russian oppression, he was one of the most picturesque figures of his time. Partisans of Marshall Pilsudski today refer to the virtual dictator of Poland as "the second Kosciuszko," and the imagination of Polish school children is fired by copious references in the textbooks to the exploits of Tadeusz Kosciuszko.

The mecca for the visitor to Cracow is the Wawel, a rocky hill on the left bank of the Vistula. It was the fortified seat of the Polish dukes and kings from the very dawn of the nation's history. It is thus, as it were, the emblem of the Polish nation.

One of the proudest structures on the Wawel is the cathedral. In its spacious underground corridors there is the Crypt of St. Leonard, reserved for the coffins of the Polish kings and their families. The only non-royal national hero to be honored by a burial place alongside of the kings is Kosciuszko.

Every visitor to the cathedral inspects the Treasury in the vestry. As the priest in charge exhibits and explains the priceless bejeweled chalice, royal crowns, chasubles, and reliquaries, he pauses to point reverently to an old ragged, weather-beaten, faded, bullet-riddled flag and says, impressively:

"This is the flag that Kosciuszko carried during the American Revolutionary War. America not only honored our revered national hero during his lifetime by extending to him the privilege of American citizenship, by settling a considerable annual pension with landed estates and conferring the rank of brigadier general upon him, but to this day his memory is kept alive by Kosciuszko parks and Kosciuszko monuments, in various cities of the Union."

In the National Museum one also finds many objects of personal adornment and use worn or carried by Kosciuszko during his lifetime.

English Boys and Girls Love Powder and Paint

FLINTSHIRE, Wales.—"What's the use of talking about 'back to the land' in this age when boys love polished nails and girls must all have powderpuffs?" Mrs. J. Evans of Mannerch, demanded in a speech before the Flintshire Liberals in opposition to the Lloyd George land scheme.

But in spite of the bitter opposition offered by Mrs. Evans and a group of her loyal supporters the Flintshire Liberals endorsed the Liberal land plan.

FALL FROCKS
At Their Best

With the arrival of the Fall season, fashion appears in new and original guises. Fifth Avenue has surpassed her former glories in stunning and original creations for the smart women. Frocks present a slight variation in silhouette, new ideas in neck-lines and trimmings. Black seems to be the predominating hue while Channel Red and other shades come in a close second.

Prices are exceedingly reasonable and fall away short of being a criterion of the quality of material and workmanship offered.
