

Miss Levy to Arrive Home on Tuesday

Mr. and Mrs. S. Levy received a telegram late yesterday afternoon from their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Levy, saying she would arrive home on Tuesday of this week.

Miss Levy has had an exceedingly interesting summer in the east. She was in New York when she was invited to play at the Sesqui-centennial auditorium in Philadelphia last Sunday. The immense structure seating 10,000 people. Miss Levy gave a radio program later in the week from station WPI.

Miss Levy has been entertained in a particularly lavish manner in the home of an uncle, a brother of Mrs. Levy, by the name of Alex Van Straaten, who has homes both in Philadelphia and Atlantic City. Mr. Van Straaten has one of the leading silk manufacturing plants in Philadelphia.

On August 18 Miss Levy was awarded her master's degree from the Ithaca conservatory of music. Miss Levy has divided her time between Ithaca, New York City, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, and Washington, D. C.

Rev. and Mrs. H. D. Chambers are entertaining as their house-guests over the Labor Day holiday their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Handel, of Portland.

Miss Faith Friday, U. of O. Student, Writes From European Cities

Exceedingly interesting letters are being received by Salem friends and relatives of Miss Faith Friday who is spending the summer abroad as a delegate to the various conferences from the University of Oregon.

Miss Friday is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Friday of 560 North High street, and before going to the University of Oregon, attended Willamette University.

On board the S. S. Majestic, Miss Friday writes one of her earlier letters: "After writing in New York, four of us visited the International House at no great distance from Columbia University. There Miss Margaret Quayle, who had been on the Willamette University campus, was on the cabinet, and who lives in this center, took us about the building. After taking passage on our liner we found the first few days at sea very calm and still. A week seems a long time to spend on a ship but the time really passes quite fast. This morning after breakfast we gathered for a French class in necessary language use. The Majestic will arrive in Cherbourg tomorrow morning, June 29, and on July 5th we will leave for England. I have just heard that we can see the lights of England tonight at about 10 o'clock as we pass the island."

The next letter to be considered finds Miss Friday in London. The date is July 7. "The farther I travel the less there is to write. In Europe people always take time to start on a trip and therefore reach the depot at least three quarters of an hour early and then sit and wait. We were delighted with the French country scenes and charming little houses of stone and brick. These structures are so picturesque amid the surrounding green hills or flat, tree-covered land. In Paris we stayed at a small hotel, the Hotel du Parc at 58 Rue de la Federation, situated near the Eiffel Tower. After arriving, we went to the Casino for the evening. On Friday the group visited the palaces in and around Versailles. Continuing our excursion we visited the palaces of the Trianon. First was the greater Trianon where guests of the rulers were entertained, and then the Little Trianon where the royal family itself lived. Just beyond is a woods which seemed very beautiful to me after all the formal gardens. In the woods is the Temple of Love, surrounded by water. Near it are the most charming and old thatched buildings where one of the queens had lived for a time. After dinner the group was entertained by the Russian Y. M. C. headquarters. We met and talked with these refugee Russian students. I talked particularly with Natalie Cherevettff who knew Miss E. Breden when the latter worked in Russia. Natalie would be a countess if the Czar's regime still existed.

"Our all-day excursion to the battlefields began about five-thirty o'clock. The battlefields are green now for the most part but the barbed wire entanglements are rusting between the lines of trenches. The latter resemble piles of dirt when a ditch is dug. We saw the dug-out of a German prince. Luncheon was eaten at an hotel which had stood at the edge of the battle grounds during and since the war. The innkeeper showed us a room where Pershing ate, and showed us also a book containing his signature. In Paris again I attended the opera "Lohengrin."

"Tuesday morning we packed to leave for England. We crossed the channel in a boat much like the Oakland ferries. On Wednesday we went on a tour of London, visiting London Tower where we saw the crown jewels and the Mansion House (by special permit). Interesting postals follow from Karloly, Youcoslavia, Sinai, Roumania, and Vienna, Austria. Mrs. R. J. Hendricks is in receipt of an interesting communication from Vienna in which Miss Friday outlines more of the International conference program in which she is a summer participant.

Vidal's Arrival to Complete Corps of Aides to Oregon's New Coach

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON. Eugene, Sept. 4.—(Special)—With the expected arrival of Gene Vidal, new backfield coach, within a fortnight, the University of Oregon football coaching staff for 1926 will be complete. Capt. John J. McEwan, head coach of the army eleven from 1923 to and including 1925, is the new head coach. He will be assisted by Vidal with the backfield, Harry Ellinger and Spike Leslie with the line, and Bob Mautz with the ends. Ellinger and Vidal formerly played under Coach McEwan at West Point. Leslie and Mautz are ex-University of Oregon football stars. In 1925 Leslie was head freshman coach, while Mautz captained the varsity and was named on Glenn Warner's all-coast team.

Billy Reinhart, head backfield coach last year, will be head freshman coach, assisted by Baz Williams, who tutored the varsity linebacker in 1925, and who for five years previous was head freshman coach. Williams is in the bakery business here, but agreed to rejoin the coaching ranks. Both Bill Williams and Reinhart are former Oregon lettermen.

Oregon will face no handicaps this year because of lack of sufficient fields. Besides the varsity and freshmen gridirons, three new fields have been built within the last two months, making five in all available for scrimmage practice. It is expected one of these will be at the disposal of athletes participating in intramural sports, two fields will be used by freshmen and two by varsity players. Spring practice opens Sept. 15, and Oregon's first conference game is against Washington in Portland, Oct. 9.

Outcast Class in Japan

Fighting for Equality

TOKYO.—In Japan there is a class known as "auiheisat" which has been social outcasts since the beginning of the country. It is composed of butchers, cobblers, undertakers and crematorium employees. At present there are more than 2,000,000 of these outcasts in the Empire.

For some time they have been demanding emancipation from their lowly plane and prominent Japanese have been enlisted in their cause. An organization known as "The Society for Research on the Problem of Harmonization" has been formed by leading Diet members for the purpose of bringing about social freedom for the outcasts.
