

Close Battle Expected When Senators Meet Montavilla Here Sunday

LOCALS HAVE TWO CONTESTS TO PLAY

Cyclos to Appear Here September 19 in Final Game of This Season

Only two more games remain on the Salem Senators baseball schedule for this season. Next Sunday the local team will meet the first Montavilla team at Oxford Park and the following Sunday their old rivals, the Portland Cyclos will appear here.

Sunday's game is expected to be a fast one, as the visiting team is considered one of the best in the state. The Sale team, fighting for its last chance to remain in the fall tournament, is expected to show better baseball than in its two game last week end.

In case the Senators win both their remaining games and Montavilla and the Port of Portland teams lost a couple more games, all teams will be tied for first place honors, necessitating a final playoff.

Turpin, former Albany star pitcher, will again be in the mound for the Senators Sunday. He has pitched consistently good ball since joining the team, poor fielding behind him being mainly responsible for his downfall last Sunday. In case he is given good support and the Senators regain their hitting power, the local team is expected to give Montavilla a close battle.

John Harkins, the Montavilla ace, is expected to pitch for the visitors. In his last appearance at Portland Harkins was hit hard, so the Senators have increased confidence in their ability to wallop his offerings.

Manager Nicholson of the Montavilla team has sent word to "Buddy" Bishop, local manager, that a large crowd of fans will come down from Portland to see the games.

Salem has won one game and lost one against the Montavilla team so far this season, so despite points to an evenly matched contest.

Dempsey Appears Slow and Clumsy Following Three Days Idleness

Observers Astonished When Long Range Head Deliveries Go Wild

Observers were astonished when Dempsey concentrated his attack on body punching but when he attempted deliveries to the head at long range, his punches were so wild they caused astonishment from close observers. The title holder paid no attention to defense. He was hit hard and often, but apparently was willing to take a punch so he could reach his objective of driving blows to the body at close quarters.

The champion opened up his boxing against Big Bill Tate, hammering away at the body, mostly with left hooks. Tate, towering above the champion, had no trouble in nailing him with rights to the head. Once he measured him a hard straight right, but Dempsey, without even blinking, came tearing in working his left to the body like pistons.

Doc Bagley, Tunney's first manager, who is credited with the early development of the challenger, believes Dempsey will be a certain winner.

"If Tunney lasts three rounds I'll be the most surprised man in the world," Bagley said.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 10. (AP)—In preparation for busy days tomorrow and Sunday, Gene Tunney left boxing flat on its back today. He did no ring work, declined a chance to read of boxing and refused to discuss it. Today was a vacation.

Bryan Downey, the Cleveland middleweight who worked with Tunney for the first time yesterday, departed today. It was understood that the Cleveland boxer and the Tunney management failed to come to terms. Downey will be replaced by Jimmy Delaney, St. Paul light heavyweight, who will report probably tomorrow.

Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, thinks his protegee is getting down to a fine edge and may order a suspension of heavy training activities after execution of the full programs arranged for tomorrow and Sunday. It has been decided that Tunney should enter the Sesqui-Centennial ring at approximately 186 pounds and trainer Lou Fike and his associates are concentrating their efforts at having him near that poundage just before the fight and not now.

NEW YORK SOCIETY FILM AT OREGON

Claire Windsor and Bert Lytell in "Born Rich" Showing Last Day

A fascinating insight into New York social life is given in "Born Rich," a First National picture, directed by Will Nigh for Garrick Pictures Corporation, which is achieving unusual success yesterday and today at the Oregon theater.

Claire Windsor and Bert Lytell play the leading roles in "Born Rich," the supporting cast consisting of Doris Kenyon, Cullen Landis, J. Barney Sherry, Frank Morgan, Maude Turner Gordon and Jackie Ott.

The picture is based on Hughes Cornell's sensational novel, and it deals with the lives of those who have been "born rich." The author, while describing in detail the pleasures and joys that are the lot of the wealthy, through a series of dramatic events proves that even the possessors of fortunes are of the same clay as those not so liberally endowed with the world's goods; that beneath their frothy outer shells there beats hearts that would be satisfied with life in a humble cottage—if they could find out a way to make such a drastic change in their mode of living.

A novel twist is given to the tale by using a baby to bring about the happiness of "Jimmy" and his wife, "Chaddy," had been seeking. Afraid that the baby would interfere with their social pleasures the parents had tried to keep secret the fact that they were parents, but eventually they were forced to acknowledge their child, and it was responsible for bringing them to their senses.

FAMOUS BATTLES for the HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE

Sketch No. 12 Jack Johnson tore a page from "Uncle Remus" in defeating Stanley Ketchel in the 12th round at Colma, Cal., July 4, 1907. "Br'er Possum" showed Johnson the way. Ketchel drove home a series of terrific smashes to the champion's head. Johnson simulated grogginess and the challenger rushed in to finish him. Suddenly the negro came to life and Ketchel's charge was stopped by a right and left to the jaw, either of which might have felled an ox, in the judgment of expert opinion of the day.

The loser was severely criticized by his friends, who declared that he was guilty of carelessness in placing himself in a receptive position for the tolling blows.

No information was available, however, that Ketchel had heard of the tactics of "Br'er Possum" in playing dead when he was very much alive.
