Upper right: Mrs. Oliver Clinton Jessup (Amelia Babcock) and her attendants. The Jessup-Babcock wedding was a formal affair taking place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Rose W. Babcock, 331 South Commercial street, on Sunday evening, September 5. Lower left: Mrs. Jessup, the bride. Upper row from left to right: Mrs. Rose W. Babcock, who gave her daughter in marriage; Miss Bertha Babcock, maid of honor for her sister; Miss Florence Gradon and Miss Miriam Swartz, bridesmaids. Lower left: Mrs. John Aldus Phelps (Lillian Jaquet) whose marriage was solemnized in an impressive manner at the Center Street Methodist church on Sunday afternoon, September 5. Seated at left, Mrs. Phelps, the bride; seated at right, Miss Bertha Wright, maid of honor; standing, from left to right: Mrs. Saul Jane (Thelma Robinson) matron of honor and Mrs. Merle Tallman (Letha Shepard) and Hester Hillpot, bridesmaids. Lower right: Miss Virginia Page, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Page, who recently returned to her home on the Wallace Road following a year's absence in the east, the 12 months having been spent at the home of an aunt, Mrs. George P. Meade. While in the east, Miss Page was a student at Oxford Academy in Oxford, New York. Miss Page enjoyed a trip up the Hudson, an excursion to Lake Champlain, trips to New York City, and a vacation in the Adirondacks during her delightfully eventful year in Oxford. She had the pleasure of visiting at Cornell, her father's alma mater.

Salem Woman's Club Opens Season in Auspicious Manner
Intent on the activities of a new year, a large company of interested club women met at the Salem Woman's club house yesterday afternoon for the opening meeting of a new season. Mrs. C. S. Hamilton, club president, occupied the official chair, presiding throughout the meeting in a gracious and efficient manner. The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Charles Bilyeu of Dallas who spoke on "Press and Publicity" in an informative way, recommending particularly 100 per cent subscription to the club periodical, "Federation News." Mrs. Bilyeu commended the club on the extensive club scrapbook which is being kept, but made a further recommendation to the effect that each club should preserve clippings of interest by pasting on Bristol board. These may then be exhibited at the year-end meeting as a general record of work accomplished. It was also Mrs. Bilyeu's suggestion that the Portland papers, through club members appointed for the purpose, be kept in touch with the work of the Salem club. Two piano numbers, and en-

Elizabeth Levy Receives Degree During

Miss Elizabeth Levy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Levy, and one of the city's most prominent violinists, is receiving a cordial welcome home following a summer in the east. Miss Levy left Salem June 10 and returned on Tuesday, September 7.

Going east, Miss Levy went directly to Ithaca for intensive study at the Ithaca Conservatory of Music, completing her work for a bachelor of music degree—a violin major with Cesar Thompson with whom Miss Levy also studied while abroad. The degree was granted by the Ithaca Conservatory of Music through the authority vested in them by the University of New York.

Miss Levy had many delightful social experiences while in the east, included among them the meeting of a wealthy uncle—a silk manufacturer—who is a brother of Miss Levy's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Van Straat-entertained Miss Levy in a very lavish manner both at their home in Philadelphia and at their summer home at Atlantic City. Miss Levy had a liveried chauffeur at her disposal at all times.

Miss Levy had the opportunity to make numerous distinctive musical appearances, including the playing of the major part of a program before the Cornell University Cosmopolitan club; the broadcasting of a program over one of America's oldest stations, WFI—and the culmination of all—an invitation to play before the international exposition at Philadelphia on the evening of August 29. The occasion was the assembling of a crowd for the ninth interdenominational religious meeting in the great auditorium, ten thousand persons in all gathering for the speaking and musical numbers.

Concerning the crowd on the day Miss Levy played at the Sesqui-Centennial, the Philadelphia Inquirer has the following to say:

"Sesqui-Centennial record is broken, one hundred thousand visitors assemble on Sunday—more than on any day since the opening... exposition police are unable to cope with throngs that storm the gates...."

Miss Levy was accompanied by William Sylvanus Thunders, one of the country's most eminent organists. The chorus numbers on the program were provided by five hundred voices, comprising members of the Temple chorus, the Temple Glee, the Shrine choir, the West Philadelphia Music association, and the First Baptist choral, all under the direction of J. Marvin Hanna.

Mrs. Kaufman Is Honored With Dinner

Mrs. Willard Seton Kaufman (Bath Barnes) of Seattle, who will return today to her home, was the inspiration for an attractive dinner party on Friday evening when Mrs. Frank Power entertained for her niece, Mrs. W. S. Kaufman, Sr., shared honors. Pink and white asters were used in the decorating, while pink candles burned in crystal holders. Dinner covers were placed for Mrs. Willard Seton Kaufman, Mrs. W. S. Kaufman, Sr., who is spending the summer in Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Barnes, Miss Florence Power, and the hostess, Mrs. Frank Power.

Willamette Graduate Leaves on University Cruise
